"The pawn-ticket in the name of E. A. Abbott, found among the effects left be-hind by the criminal, is likely to play an important part in the detection of the perpetrator of the deed. A man calling himself E. A. Abbott, accompanied by one Spielmann, came to this city from Downingtown on February 26, and remained two days at a lodging house, No. 807 Vine street, during which time both men are said to have been on friendly terms with Edward H. Johnston, who is now in jail at Norristown. Abbott did not afterwards return to the lodging house, but told Johnston, as it is said, that he was going to Washington. Spielmann, however, it will be remembered, came back and remained until about March 8, when he went away, saying that he intended to go to Baltimore, and returned to this city on March 10. While a party recharacters. Stewart was wanted by the Lancaster county authorities about a year ago for complicity with a number of the "Hills" gang in the robbery of an oyster peddler, but escaped, and did not return to the vicinity of Leaman Place until late last fall. He is said to have spent a part of the time of his absence in this city. Stewart and Rice were both, it is said, seen loitering in the vicinity of Mr. Laverty's residence on the day and evening on which the robbery took place. About ten o'clock at night they were turned out of the hotel at Leaman Place by Isaac Diller, the brother of the proprictor, who remarked that it was time to shut up. Mr. Laverty was detained at his office until late. When he cause out of the office he noticed two men standing out in the roadway. Some time after midnight on the same evening the robbery occurred. Mr. Laverty is confident from the description given that the men whom address them. The meeting of he had seen loitering around his office the Baptist brethren was held last were Rice and Stewart. On the day following the robbery Rice and Stewart it is said, disappeared and were not again seen until March 1, when a family with whom they were acquainted set out for Kansas. They went away again immediately and have never been seen there together again since. But on the morning following the murder at Valley Forge Stewart is said to have been seen at Leaman Place in company with a strange man. The latter remained near the bridge above Leaman Place and slunk away into an old stone quarry on anybody's approach. Stewart, it is said, was apparently troubled in mind and avoided talking, but would occasionally go up and consult with the stranger and then go down to the station telegraph office, where he was thrown a package from a train which passed there about 9 o'clock.

"Stewart left in the 6:55 train for Lancaster, where he remained until Monday morning, when he took a train westward and said that he had been sent a ticket from Philadelphia for Missouri. Isaac Diller says that the clothing worn by Stewart on the night in question was different from that which he had on when he turned out of the hotel on the night of February 22. On the former occasion he wore a ished, and the half reopened, before the black slouch hat and was without any overcoat. On February 22 he had on a drab overcoat, dark Kossuth hat and wore boots. Personally, he is described as about 28 years of age, 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, compactly built, of fair complexion, with the city. small brown eyes and a sandy moustache.

"One night about a week after the de parture of Stewart, Rice, it is said, in an apparent state of intoxication, rode down on horseback to the office of Laverty and obtained a ticket for Dayton, Ohio, that on graves there and shattered the flower had been left for him in Mr. Laverty's vases. care. Mr. Laverty says that Rice pretended to have great trouble in finding him, and declared that he had not been in that part of the country for five years Having received the ticket, Rice rode away in the direction of Lancaster, and had not been seen since. The horse, however, which he rode was found the
