Excursion tickets to Lancaster and return and good for Barnum's circus are being sold to-day by the Pennsylvania railroad company at ninetyeight cents. Almost every freight train leaving here for the east between seven and twelve was crowded with men and boys going to see the show in a cheaper way. William Shartzel, of Washington borough, who has recently opened a dairy, will begin on Monday to serve milk and cream to Columbia people. The more the Much credit is reflected upon Miss Alice Bucher, a teacher in the secondary depart ment of our public schools, by the oral examination in spelling which her pupils passed. Only two scholars in her whole school failed to correctly spell each of more than two hundred words given them and these two each failed but once. Is there a class in the country that can equal

College Orchestra Concert.

The benefit concert, under the direction of Mr. A. P. Horn, for the benefit of the college orchestra of Franklin and Marshall college came off in the college chapel last night and had a large, a critical and enthusiastic audience. The entertainment would have done high credit to a professional company of musicians. Twenty-five voices, accompanied by the orchestra sang the students' chorus "Come Bounteous May." Mr. Julius A. Herold's violin solo was raptuously applauded; Mr. Horn and Mr. Hassler gave a piano duet from Beethoven; T. M. Beiser's cornet solo had a deserved encore and he displayed great skill on this difficult instrument. The students' chorus rendered the four-part song, "The Jovial Beggars,"

Part II was opened by the orchest with an overture by Herold, and in encore the orchestra gave the "Approach of Spring" waltzes, an admirable selection. Miss Kate Apple, in her usual exquisite voice and execution, sang "Who's At my Window," and was encored, singing in response an air composed by Miss Alice Nevin; the orchestra presented Miss A. with a rich bouquet. Mr. Horn played a piano solo, an extremely difficult composition skillfully executed, followed by a flute and violin duet, by Willie H. Hager and E. D. Wingenroth. Master Hager on his flute won golden praise from the audience, displaying signal power with his instrument and giving promise of a brilliant musical future. A piano duett by T. C. Moyer and S. M. Miller was encored, and the students' chorus "Calm Be Thy Slumbers" ended the highly successful concert. Mr. Horn thanked the audience for their kind attention and sympathy, and everybody was well-satisfied.

The orchestra is composed of the following persons: E. D. Wingenroth, leader ; J. A. Herold, 1st violin ; E. W. McCaskey, 2d violin; E. B. Sangree, 2d violin; C. D. Moyer, viola; Willie H. Hager, flute; J F. L. Harbaugh, clarionet; T. M. Beiser, cornet; D. T. Bau man, trombone; M. B. Reber, drum; H. H. Sangree, cello; F. C. Moyer, base; A. P. Horn, piano.

Amusements. "Fanchon, the Cricket."-In the extensive reportoire of that accomplished actress, Miss Maggie Mitchell, there is no role in which she has achieved wider tame nor made more essentially her own than that of Fanchon in the beautiful and romantic drama of that name. It is in this character that Miss Mitchell is billed to appear here on Monday evening next. Everybody is so familiar with the quality of Maggie Mitchell's talent that it would be but a waste of words to dwell upon it in announcement of her coming, but it is a satisfaction to be assured that this charming little lady has surrounded herself by a coterie of artist - competent to accord her the support that an actress of her calibre should receive.
