ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Watch, Money and Statups Stolen. Last night a thief entered the sleeping apartment of A. F. Hersh, who runs the mill for D. B. Landis at Fertility, on the Strasburg turnpike three miles east of Lancaster, and securing Mr. Hersh's keys went to the mill, opened it, unlocked the desk and took therefrom a gold hunting case watch and $15 or $17 belonging to Mr. Hersh, and over $62 belonging to Mr. Landis. He also robbed the postoffice of a number of stamps, stamped envelopes is the prescription of one of the oldest and about 20 cents in money. There best female physicians and nurses in the seems to be no doubt that the thief is a man named George Rudolph, who for some weeks past has been in the employ of John T. Zercher, the postmaster, who farms Mr. Landis's farm, and with whom Mr. Hersh boards. Rudolph was seen at 1 o'clock this morning on the Philadelphia pike near Landis's woods making his way towards Lancaster, and has not since been heard from. It is supposed he purchased a railroad ticket and went West. He is of medium height, heavy set and weighs about 150 pounds. He has light hair and moustache. The case is in the hands of the police.

The Cake Walk.

The cake walk at Zion's A. M. E. church came off last night before a large audience. The following couples were the contestants: Clinton E. Keels and Sallie Taple; Calvin Carey and Kate Newman; Cyrus Carey and Sallie Diggs. The judges thought that the first named couple showed the most style and they were awarded the prize, which was a large mar23-3md&w Fine Paintings.

The large collection of fine oil paintings now on exhibition in Gable's building, East King street, and which are being disposed of by sheriff scale, continue to attract much attention and a number of them have been purchased by our citizens. The painting are all originals, and were executed by artists holding high rank in their profession, both in Europe and America. As an adornment of the parlor or the study, there is nothing so appropriate or beautiful as choice pictures. An opportunity is offered in this sale, to secure valuable works of art at small cost.

New Grocery Firm. As will be noticed by advertisement elsewhere, a change has been off-cted in the proprietorship of that old and popular grocery stand in the northwest angle of Centre Square, adjacent to the postoffice, and for so many years known as "Bowers' store." Mr. Jacob Bowers has disposed of the establishment to Messrs Supplee & Owens, active and energetic young men, who are not slow in bringing to the notice of the public, by means of liberal advertising, their claims to a continuance of the patronage which this well known and always reliable house has ever enjoyed. Mr. Supplee is a son in-law of the late proprietor, with whom for several years past he has been associated in the establishment, whereby he has acquired a thorough knowledge of the business and kept pace with the growing wants of the patrons of that branch of trade. His partner, Mr. Owens, has been a resident of Mount Joy, and is also known as an enterprising young gentleman of good business qualifications, and the new firm start out with a purpose of maintaining the prestige which the old stand had attained by a long career devoted to catering to the public need of a firstclass grocery store. They advertise a complete stock in their line, and their invitation will doubtless meet with a cordial and gener ous response from our citizens.

By Universal Accord. Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the best of all pur gatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being parely vegetable no harm can arise from their use. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them, and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required.

DRUCLAMATION.

Whereas, the alarming prevalence of incendiary fires in our midst, and the boldness of the perpetrators, make it the duty of all good citizens, especially the holders and owners of property, to be vigilant and to assist by their individual efforts to bring these outlaws to justice. Citizens will do well to watch the goings and comings of suspected persons in their immediate respective neighborhoods, and give early and authentic information to the police authorities of the city, of any circumstances in the habits or conduct of such suspected individuals likely to fasten upon them the perpetration of so beinous a crime. Police officers having miles upon miles to patrol in their respective wards, must necespatrol in their respective wards, must neces-sarily afford very inadequate protection against the cunning of the incendiary, unless their efforts are supplemented by those of our citizens. I therefore call upon all interested tranquillity, to contribute to these ends by un usual vigilance over the immediate vicinity of NEW LACES, EMBROIDERIES, LADIES their respective abodes.

JO. LAND A Man of Mark to a Past Generati

The brief dispatch announcing the death of Joseph Lane, which came from Oregon

a day or two since, can have had but very little significance for the great majority of the people who read it. Yet the man to whom it related was at one time one of the foremost figures in the republic. Had he died thirty years ago, the nation would have gone in mourning for him, yet so fleeting is fame in our country that the present generation scarcely recalls his name and knows next to nothing of his most eventful history. Joseph Lane's grandfather was an Americau, born near the present site of Raleigh, N. C., in the early colonial times. He and his two brother did good rervices during the war of the Revolution. His son, John Lane, the father of Joseph, was at the battle of King's Mountain and served in the patriot army until the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. He voted for George Washington for president and lived to see Jackson in the same born in North Carolina in 1801. Early in life he went to Indiana. Later he became a power in the politics of the West. When the Mexican war broke out he was one of the first to go to the front and by hard fighting and distinguished bravery won his way to a major generalship. Return-ing to his home, all Indiana united in doing him honor, and later on President Polk, in slight recognition of his services, made him governor of the territory of Oregon, to which place he was reappointed by President Pierce. In 1852 he had thir teen votes in the national convention which nominated Cass for president, and at one time during that memorable meeting seemed almost sure of the nomination. As old William Allen used in after years to relate, "Joe Lane came nearer being president than any man who ever missed." But though he missed the presidency, he did not lose influence with his party. In 1859 he was elected to the United States Senate from the new state of Oregon. He sympathized with the South in the struggle then pending, and later was nominated for vice president on the ticket with Breckinridge. He carried eleven of the slave states, but was buried out of sight in the free North. Little has been heard of him since. He spent the last years of his life in his favorite Oregon. Some months ago, to a party of excursionists who called on him for a speech, he said : "I come not as a celebrated man or a distinguished sol-dier, but as a humble citizen of Oregon. True, I have been accorded some fame as soldier, and I am credited with having served my country faithfully and well. These laurels were not won by myself, however. My command won them for me. Any man with such a command could not help achieving fame. I came to the North west in 1846 as governor of what was then Oregon Territory, embracing all the country lying between the fortieth and forty-second parallels, in-cluding what are now Washington and Idaho territories and the state of Oregon. Only once during my term of office did I have occasion to visit this portion of the territory. It was on the first of July, now almost thirty years ago, that a courier arrived at Oregon City, bearing the news that a Mr. Wallace, living on Budd's Inlet, where Olympia is now situated, had been murdered by the Indians. With an army of six men, tried and true comrades in arms with me in the conflict with Mexico, we proceeded down the Willamette river in a canoe to the Columoia, down-the Columbia, and thence up the Cowiltz to the Catholic mission. Here we procured mules and horses and added three fresh recruits to our force. We took the Indians by surprise, and demanded a surrender of the murderers. The old chief after viewing our force and looking me in the eye, concluded to accede to this demand, and the murderers were accordingly delivered up, tried and executed. This made good Indians of them." During the same speech Gen. Lane, referring to his service during the Mexican war, said: "Two years ago I looked over the old army register, and I found there only five of the seventeen American generals who entered the Mexican war surviving. Of the seventeen who entered that struggle, fourteen were younger than myself. One by one these brave men have answered to the last roll call. Since I last looked over the register, Piflow has been called away. Cadwalader and Cushing followed, and on the first of the present month Shields answered the summons and passed over the dark river, across the valley and shadow of death. During the last few years the roll has been called once in six months and one by one these gallent men have re-sponded." Jeseph Lane has now been ealled and he too has reponded to the sum-
