CPECH IL NOTICE.

Timely Treated By Good Authority. A. D. Hopkins writes to the Country Gentleman from Jackson county, W. Va., about a cheap barn which he has built and which answers his purposes as well as a much more expensive structure: "The size of the building is 26 by 100 feet. The france is made of poles from 3 to 8 inches in diameter, the posts are 14 feet long, and stand on sills about a foot from the ground, the sills resting on large stones. It is boarded up at each end and seven feet on each side, seven feet above being left open for convenience in filling with hay. It shelters 140 sheeps, 10 cows, and 40 tons of hay, and was built by myself and three common farm hands at a cost of $100. I have used this building two winters, and expect it to last more, and pay for itself about five time in saving feed, &c. I do not have the least intention of ever building a barn that will cost $2,000, for I can build one on the above plan with sawed frame, that will not cost over $300, and it will suit me better.

Varieties of Strawberries. The editor of the Germantown Telegraph in answer to inquiries for the best varieties of strawberries makes this answer : "Captain Jack, Seth Boyden, Triomphe de Gand, and Sharpless. The latter we have not tried, being satisfied with the two first named, and thus far preferring Captain Jack, a bed of which at this writing looks as promising as any we have over seen. Of course we have ever seen. Of course we can only speak thus early of the appearance of the plant as it came through the unusually severe winter. In flavor it is as good as the best of any other that we have yet grown; in size as large as the largest; in production equal to if not in advance of any other variety. Soil and locality have Hop Bitters remove easily. as much effect upon this as upon any other fruit. We have seen fine, abundant crops of varieties that we had long abandoned as next to worthless, and therefore can speak only as to our own experience and them all." that of our growers with whom we have interchanged views. We have raised splendid crops of Triomphe de Gand, also of Seth Boyden, the latter being sometimes especially large and good. Sharpless is spoken of by some of those who have grown it in high terms, for its size and exthose who raise considerable quantities of READ TRIS strawberries to give it a trial.' Cheap Silo in a Barn Basment.

In answer to a correspondent inquiring about a cheap silo in a barn basement 30 x 40 and 8 feet high the Country Gentleman says : We suppose your barn floor is about 14 feet wide, and the mows on each side 13 feet wide or thereabouts. If you can spare 13 from one end of your basement, you may make a silo for about $50 or $60, which will hold 79 tons of ensilage. If there is more space than you want, you may extend it only half way across the end of the basement, or else make it narrower. The first thing to do is to see that there are sufficient horizontal timbers to hold the vertical planks in place; then surround the intended space with 2-inch hemlock planks spiked to these timbers; the plank may extend upwards two or three feet above the barn door. They need not be planed or matched. Give them a good heavy coat of crude petroleum on both sides before or after setting them, as may be most convenient. Cover them outside with tarred building paper to make them air-tight, and outside these nail rough inch boards. The 2-inch plank, tarred paper and inch boards will secure the contents from any frost which can enter the base-

It will save much labor in winter feeding if a plank door, opening below or in the basement is provided. This may be secured with crossbars till needed for use, and only a small portion of the ensilage next to it need be thrown out above in order to get at it. Through this door the contents are easily conveyed in baskets or wheelbarrows to the stables on the same

Some arrangement with screws may be devised for pressing the fodder, but as you are experimenting the first year, it will probably be less trouble to resort to the common and simple way of loading the plank covers with stones, sand or earth, which require no further care after being placed in position.

There are two ways to fill the silo. If you have no suitable horse-power and stalk-cutter, you may throw the green fodder from the lead as it stands on the barn floor directly into the silo, to be well trodden down or pounded with heavy wooden pounders, as each successive layer is deposited. In this case this fodder should be sown so thickly in the furrows that it will not grow larger; the stalks should not be an inch in diameter, or the eattle will reject a portion. For this purpose three or four bushels of seed will be required for an acre, on rich ground. If, however, you have a tread-power and stalk-cutter, you may use large stalks, which, if out not more than three-fourths of an inch long, will be entirely eaten. If you have but one pair of horses on your small farm, you may cut and draw a load to the barn floor, then remove the horses to the horse-power, and while one man is feeding the machine the other will pitch the fodder off the load to him, the stalk cutter being so placed that the chopped stalks will be discharged directly into the silo. A third man will level, tread and pound the stalks as they fall; or the two men may do this work as each load is finished.

A Lady's Wish.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her triend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe."

A Splitting Headaches, C. Blacket Robinson, proprietor of the Canada Presbyterian, Toronto, Ont., writes: "For several years I have suffered greatly from ottrecurring bilious headaches. I used your Burdock Blood Bitters with the happiest results, and I now find myself in better health than for years past. I cheerfully recognize the sterling character of your preparation." For sale at H. B. Cochran's Drug Store, No. 137 North Queen street.

Liquid Gold. Dan'l Plank, of Brooklyn, Tioga, Co., Pa., describes it thus: "I rode thirty miles for a bottle of Dr. Tnomas' Eclectric Oil, which affected the wonderful cure of a crooked limb in six applications; it proved worth more than gold to me. For saie at H. B. Cochran's Drug Store, No. 137 North Queen street.

"She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her, so that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved West. Since she has got well everyone about here is taking it," See advertisement. my2-1wd&w

INENS.

LINENS!

We have received new linens from Belfast, Barnsley, Duntermline, Lisle, Brussels, Ghent, Silesia, Bohemia. We have ransacked all Europe for linens, and have a variety of both fabric and finish that could not be gathered in the American market. The goods are fresh, too. That's important; for linens bought in New York may be several years old, and you know starched linens do not improve by age. The dressings used by the manufacturers is not so destructive as starch; but it does injure the fabric in time. We have another advantage in prices. We gain the importer's profit.

The result is we get the best linens in the world, in the best possible condition, and for the least money anybody can get them for. We can give you the importers' profit, and still have enough left.

Now it is proper for to consider that somebody else may be doing the same thing, and afford the very same advantages. So, if you please, whatever you wish to buy get samples of it from us and from others, and compare.

Or buy our goods, if you like; and if you can 'do as well elsewhere, bring ours back. This is rather a brave challenge; for, you know nobody wants The linens now in are sheeting, pillow, bolster and shirting linens, towels, towelings, doilies, napkins, table cloths and table linens.
