The Lancaster Tobacco Market.

The past week has been an active one. Great quantities of leaf have been purchased at greatly varying prices, and more of it has been delivered at the city ware houses than during any other two weeks since the first of April. We hear of sales that were made as low as 6 and 2, 8 and 2, and 5 cents through ; though a majority of the sales were at 10 to 15 for wrappers. 6 for seconds and 3 for fillers. Several sales are reported as high as 18, 6 and 3, and a few others above 20 for wrappers. The highest price reported is 31 cents through, paid by Dan Mayer, agent for Kerbs & Spiess, for a crop grown by Levi L. Landis.

It is estimated that from one eight to one-quarter of the crop of 1880 yet remains in the hands of the growers, and is sweat ing freely in bulk. It ought to be sold and packed before hot weather sets in ; and the probability is that it will be sold, as buyers are plenty, and express a willingness to buy at fair, but not fabulous figures, and the farmers are, no doubt, anxious to get off with the old before they are on with the new crop.

Among the new comers within the past week are L. Rosenshine, of San Francisco; M. Oppenheimer, of New York ; Philip Bonn and O. Eisenlohr, of Philadelphia. These gentlemen express themselves delighted with their drives through our county.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick's Fuueral.

The obsequies of the late Mrs. B. Fitzpatrick, whose death on Friday morning last has been recorded in this paper, oc-curred at the family residence, No. 330 East Orange street, this morning. The attendance was one of the largest that has ever been seen upon any similar occasion in this city, among those present being a number of relatives and friends of the deceased from abroad. The pravers for the dead were read and final absolution of the body was performed at the house by Rev. Father Hickey, of St. Mary's, assisted by Rev. Fathers Kaul and Christ, of St. Anthony's, this city, and McDermott, of West Chester. The remains, encased in a handsome cloth-covered casket, with massive silver mountings, lay in the parlor and were viewed by hundreds of friends, though by special request of the family there were no floral offerings. The coffin was borne to the hearse by half a dozen police officers. The pall bearers were James Stewart, II. R. McConomy, M. MacGonigle and Wm. M. Slaymaker. The immense funeral cortege proceeded from the residence to St. Mary's cemetery, where the burial service was recited, and the interment made in the family vault. Throughout, the obsequies were marked by a sigular solemnity that was in keeping with the unfeigned sorrow which this death has occasioned throughout a wide circle of acquaintanceship and the community at large.

DORSEY'S TROUBLES.

His Promises to Parties Developing Publi Interesi in Mali Routes.

DENVER, Col., May 8 .- The Tribund says it was discovered yesterday that proceedings have been begun in the district court of Arapahoe county against ex-Senator Dorsey for money promised the plaintiff for services rendered in procuring a petition "creating an interest among the people, &c.," in order to increase the mail facilities in certain portions of Oregon. The bringing of the suit here came about as follows : Some months ago a legal firm here received from an attorney at Portland, Oregon, a claim for collection against ex-Senator Dorsey. The claimant is a well-known politician of Portland whose name the Tribune does not state. The latter has a number of letters written by Dorsey promising so much per day for his services, and giving minute directions how to proceed to get petitions for mail contracts &c. These etters with the claim were placed in the hands of Denver attorneys, and last winter when Dorsey came to Denver to look after mining interests, he was visited by one of the attorneys and the bundle of letters alleged to have been written by him were shown him in support of the claim. Dorsey pronounced the claim fraudulent and denounced the claimant as ı blackmailer. Proceeding were immediately begun in the district court and Dorsey instructed his counsel to enter a demurrer on the ground that these contracts were llegal. Since then matters have remained in statu quo. One letter is dated Washington, April 12, 1879, and tells the recipient that the writer wants him to go to Eugene City and procure all the petitions possible for an increase of mail service from Eugene City to Bridge Creek for daily instead of weekly service, and also to have the time made faster. The letter thus continues :

"I want 10 or one dozen on this route also get the people to write to the post-master general and to their senators. Wo want prominent Democrats to write to Stater and Grover, urging them to see that the increase is made." The correspondent is further directed to get ten or twelve different petitions on each route, to have a large number of let ters written to the postmaster general and senators, and be sure that all ask for daily and fast line; to get the state officials and the Chamber of Commerce at Portland also to write. The letter adds: "I will pay your expenses while you are gone afd tive dollars per day. If you have net the means I will telegraph you sufficient." The second letter was written four days later. It states that contracts for each road on the route from Bridge Creek to Eugene City had been obtained for one trip a week, and says, "if the schedule time is changed new contracts will have to be meade " and easier : the state officials and lived dollars per day. If you have net the means I will telegraph you sufficient." The second letter was written four days later. It states that contracts for each road on the route from Bridge Creek to Eugene City had been obtained for one trip a week, and says, "if the schedule time is changed new contracts will have to be made " and continues : "It is the Slater and Grover, urging them to see

MINERS' FAITH IN CLAIRYOTANCE.

Working Righty Feet Underground in Search of Ore That is Said to be There.

Several months ago a charcoal burner at Indiantown Gap, dreamed that at a certain spot silver ore would be found. The dream was repeated, he says, for five suc-cessive nights. He searched for a spot on the mouncains like that which he had seen in his dreams, and found one. A clairvoyant was then told of the dreams, and a seance followed at midnight on the mountain, when the new moon was apparently over the spot. It is claimed that strange noises were heard on that night coming from the earth. A few shovels of earth and gravel were thrown up and a rock was taken out and examined. Veins of a bright mineral-like substance could be traced in the stone and when this news spread through the region the valley was wild with excitement. The spot is on the hill side only a short distance from the hut of old Joe Raber, who was murdered by the "Blue-eyed Six " to get the $30,000 insurance on his life.

Ten hard-working backwoodsmen who beheved the gilt-edged story of the clairvoyant paid in $100 each, organized a company, and resolved to begin operations at once for ore. A force of ten men was put to work on a shaft. After a few days' work, one of the miners, named Kreiser, was killed by a heavy bucket falling on his head while working at the bottom of the shaft. At first it was supposed that the shaft would be found at a depth of fifty feet; then sixty was named as the limit, then eighty, and finally ninety. When the outlook at each limit was gloomy, the com-pany promptly made another assess-ment and pushed the work ahead. The shaft is now over eighty feet deep and the day and night shifts of men have been increased to fifteen. They are working under Thomas Job, an experienced ore miner from the anthracite coal country. Nothing of any value has yet been found.

OBITUARY.

Death of Benjamin Stricker.

Benjamin Stricker, a well-known resident of this city, died at the residence of his son-in-law Captain Philip L. Sprecher yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. Mr. Stricker was a moulder by trade, and, when last at work he was foreman in the moulding department of Best's boiler works. About ten weeks ago he was stricken with paralysis from which he never recovered. He was 66 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children, two sons and two daughters, all of whom are grown.

Death of Edmund Laudis, M. D.

Dr. Edmund Landis, formerly of this city, died at his home in Chicago on Saturday, of Bright's disease of the kidneys. icine with Dr. John L. Atlee forty years ago ; was graduated at the old Pennsylvania university at Philadelphia and then went to Baltimore, where he practised until 1860. In that year he went to Chicago, where he resided up to the time of his death, and had always had a very large practice.

ble Strawbridge called last evening upon the occupants of many of our too popular street corners and read to them an ordinance prohibiting the assemblage of persons at such places. The crowds thinned out, but it was not long before they were again as bad as ever. The officers did their duty. Now, if the warning is not sufficient, let them act, and vigorously, if necessary. The law will sustain them.

Yesterday afternoon a young man, whose name nobody appeared to know, hired a team from George Redsecker, the livery man, to take a young lady named Miller out driving. The gentleman called for Miss Miller at her residence on Union street above Fourth, and assisted her into the buggy. Before he could get in himself the horse started off on a slow trot, but the neighborhood turning out en masse to stop the beast, succeeded in frightening it instead, and the pace was quickened to a considerable degree. A young man named Harry Gerfin displayed much indiscretion in running directly at and against the horse and he was overturned, rolled on the ground and run over by two wheels of the buggy, but without sustaining serious The horse turned in Fifth street to Walnut, and down Walnut to its stable, where it stopped of its own accord.

All this time the lines were fastened around the dasher of the buggy, and the lady by taking them up could easily have stopped the horse, which Mr. Redsecker assures us, is a very gentle animal. Neith-er horse, buggy, nor the latter's occupant was injured.

----The Bee Keepers.

To-day the Bee-keepers' society was to have met, but there being no quorum pres-ent no meeting was held. We learn from members present that the bees that survived the severity of the winter are doing very well considering the backwardness of the season. A great many colonies perished with cold. Mr. Elias Hershey, of Paradise, lost 10 out of 27, and some of his neighbors, who like him left the hives unprotected on the stands lost largely. Mr. J.F. Hershey of Mount Joy, who wintered his bees in a house built especially for the purpose, lost only a few, and Mr. I. G. Martin, of Earl, who left his hives on the summer stands, but protected them by placing over them a supplementary box packed with chaff, with merely a small opening below for ventilation, did not lose a colony, out of fifty.

The Horse Market. Joseph Sondheimer and Emanuel Bodenheimer shipped thirty four Lancaster county horses from this city to Jacob Dohlman in New York. Wm. Fiss shipped twenty head to John Deerr in New York. Cyrus H. Colvin, who has been in Michigan for two weeks past, returned home vicinity. Daniel Lefever, shipped 18 head of horses to New York on Saturday.

Runaway Accident.

On Saturday evening at Mount Joy, Michael Engle hitched his horse in front of a barber shop and went into the shop to Dr. Landis was a brother of the late Jesse get shaved. About 8 o'clock a train of Landis, esq., of this city. He studied med- cars came along and frightened the horse. He broke the hitching strap, and with the buggy to which he was attached, ran at full speed through Mount Joy, up the pike, and through Springville to the rail-road crossing beyond. By the time he got there the train was also there, and a collision occurred. The engine struck the buggy, smashing it to pieces and injuring the horse.
