Dr. S. T. Davis, of this city, read the "Address in Obstetrics," a paper of con-siderable length, wherein the pathology and treatment of a number of interesting cases were detailed. Dr Davis's time expind before the reading of his address had ended, but on motion of Dr. Varian, who said the subject was of too much importance to be dismissed incompleted, Dr. Davis's time was by unanimous consent extended. At the conclusion of his address Dr. Davis exhibited a lusus natura, the body of a full term male infant short time after birth. It had neither eyes nor openings for them, no scrotum, five fingers and a thumb on each hand, and a supplementary toe on one of the

Dr. Carpenter also invited the members of the convention to visit the Conestoga cotton mills, the watch factory, the public institutions of the city and county and other places of interest in and about Lau-

On behalf of Dr. Roland, of York, the secretary presented a resolution requesting the secretaries of the several county societies to ascertain and forward to the secretary of the state society the number of students and their names who are studying medicine under the respective members of the societies. The resolution was adopted.

The secretary also read a preamble and resolution forwarded to him by Dr. Azel Ames, secretary of the American health association, relative to the large number of deaths annually occurring from smallpox, and urging vaccination and re-vacci-

On motion the resolution was entered on the minute:

On behalf of Drs. Green and Mowry, the secretary moved that the standing com-mittee of the society be abolished, their duties having been transferred to the committee of arrangements. The motion was agreed to.

Dr. Atlee, of Lancaster, and French, of Philadelphia, were appointed a committee to conduct the president-elect, Dr. J. L. Zeigler to the chair.

On being presented to the retiring presi dent, Dr. Carpenter, that gentleman said, he was happy to resign the chair to so eminent and worthy a successor, and to resume his place in the ranks of the society. He had been instructed by the medical society of Schuylkill county to present to him a gavel appropriately in scribed as a token of the high esteem in which the Schuvlkill society hold the state society. He knew the gavel would never be needed in a society like this, to rap down and bring to order unruly members, but it was an emblem of authority and as such he presented it to his worthy suc-

President Ziegler on taking the chair, returned thanks, in the name of the state society, to the Schuylkill county society, for the testimonial presented. And in his own name he thanked the state society for the distinguished honor conferred on him, by selecting him to preside over a body that had had as its presidents such eminent men, as Gross, Agnew, the Carpenters, (father and son,) and so many other eminent men. He felt the great responsibility of the honorable position to which he had been chosen, and feeling his own imperfections he asked the assistance and indulgence of his associates in the performance of his duties.

Dr. Henry Carpenter, of Lancaster, moved that the thanks of the society be extended to Dr. J. T. Carpenter the retiring president for the ability and faith fulness with which he had discharged his The motion was unanimously agreed

DEATH TRAPS.

A Bad Place for Burglars to Visit. Several days ago it was reported at po ice headquarters in New York, that Geo. Wolf, a gunsmith and machinist of No. 58 Courtlandt street, kept loaded pistols, rifles and shotguns in his shop for the re ception of burglars. The weapons were kept at full cock and to the triggers were attached wires which were connected with eyery available entrance the shop. Should any one break in through a window he would be immediately struck by a bullet from a large revolver. Opening the door, or breaking in part of it, would cause the discharge of some weapon or other. Should the first shot be sufficient delivered by him, and which lived for a to frighten or disable the intruders, he would certainly be killed by bullets from a row of rifles which were pointed toward the street at the level of a man's breast and which were placed at the rear of the shop. Wires in the centre of the store, which the intruder could not avoid, connected with the triggers. The informant explained the position of a number of other wires and loaded weapons. Wolf, he said, had been in the habit of so adjusting the apparatus every evening when he closed the store. The neighbors were aiarmed, fearing that the weapons might go off accidentally and shoot passers by in the street. If there should be a fire in the building it would burn to the ground before any of the firemen would enter it, and whole block. A similar complaint was Street to Superintendent W. W. therefore a fire in it would endanger the sent to Superintendent Walling by the fire department. Detective Mulvey, of the Church street police, was sent to see Wolf. He explained to him the canger of having loaded weapons so exposed, and suggested the abolishing the system of wires. Wolf said he did not care whether it was dangerous or not. He was a citizen, the shop belonged to him and he intended to keep the wires and loaded weapons to protect his shop at night. Thieves could break into any shop and he would be no better off than other people if he took the fire-arms away. Mulvey applied to Justice Flammer at the Tombs for a warrant.

Justice Flammer said he did not know of any law which would meet the case, but he issued a summons for Wolf to appear. On being interviewed by a newspaper reporter, Mr. Wolfe said the argument of the possible danger of the contrivance to innocent people was nonsense. "If any one gets shot, why then it's time enough to stop me, not before." He said the same thing had been tried before in other localities, and burglars had got shot, as they deserved to be. Two years ago, he said, a policeman stepped up to the door and struck it with his club to see if it was fastened. The blow caused the pistol inside to go off, at which the officer and his companion ran off as fast as their heels could carry them. At another time a cat in play touched the wires and discharged a big revolver, greatly frightening the people in the saloon overhead, who thought the place was blowing up. On still another occasion a thief tried to get in at the coal hole. His operations disturbed a wire connected with a shotgun. The weapon went off, blowing out the gas in the fanlight under the doorstep of the saloon, and frightening both himself and a policeman near by. Wolf laughed very heartily over the recital of the last incident, and con cluded the strange interview by saying : "I'll go to court with my lawyer, but they'll get no satisfaction out of me. As for the police, they can go to the devil. would not satisfy them so much as to tell them what I've told you." LANCASTER HOUSEHOLD MARKET.

CLOTHING.

We have somewhere in the region of one hundred styles of business suits now ready to put on. A list of them would be the dullest of reading; and yet we want you to know substantially what they are like.

The lowest price is $8.50, and the highest is $20. They are all of wool. $8.50 is very little to get all-wool cloths, sponging, cutting, trimming, making, watching, handling, rent, book-keeping, advertising and selling, out of; but we manage to do it by dividing the costs among so many of you that one hardly feels his share at all; he pays for materials and work, and very little more.

We'll take another day for the rest; but you may as well come and see now as later. Seeing is better than reading.
