HORRIBLE CRIME.

A Young Girl Outraged by Tramps. Yesterday afternoon as Miss Weidner, a daughter of Daniel Weidner, residing on finish. the farm of Johnson Miller, about one mile west of Lititz, was on her way from Lititz to her home, she was attacked by two tramps who over-powered her and outraged her person, leaving her more dead than alive. As soon as Miss Weidner, who is about 17 years of age, could give information of the criminal attack made upon her, a party was organized and the villains were pursued and arrested and are now lodged in jail.

-The names of the men who were arrested were Christian Lentz and Frederick Strobel. One of them was caught at Rome and the other in Lititz by Constable Helman, who took them before 'Squire Reidenbach. They were committed to prison and were brought to town last evening. The girl identified them as her assailants. The Weidner family live about a quarter of a mile from Lititz and the girl was on her way home from the store. When she reached the barn of Frank Evans the two men jumped out and caught her. One held her while the other outraged her. Both men are Germans and are about 35 years of age. Strobel is a eigar maker and claims to have worked at Rothville. Lentz is a farm laborer and worked around with the farmers. Both are very close-mouthed in regard to the matter and will say nothing.

Surprised on Their Wedding Auniversary. Yesterday was the twenty-fifth or "silver" anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Ochs, of South Queen street, and last evening a party of about a dozen couples, friends of the worthy people, who were aware of the circumstance, visited them at their home with the purpose of assisting them in the celebration of the joyous occasion. The affair was a total surprise to Mr. Ochs and his wife, but, it need not be added, a most agreeable one, and as the folks had come amply provided with refreshments, the festivities were not lacking in the important essential of a bounteous repast. Prof. Carl Matz, or behalf of the visitors, presented the "happy couple" with a handsome silver caster, wishing to them many happy returns of the day. Mr. Ochs fit-tingly responded. All present had a delight-ful time, and a particularly enjoyable feature of the occassion was the visit of a hand of Italian musicians who discoursed sweet strains during the fleeting hours to the pleasure of all who heard them.

Opdyke's woods last Friday has been fully established. Her name was Mina Miller and she resided on Second avenue, New York, with Louis Kettler, who is proven beyond a question of doubt to be her murderer. On the 3d of May Mina and Kettler left their home and were seen to cross Hoboken ferry. They went direct to the parsonage of Rev. Dr. Mabone, of the Grace church, on the Weavertown road near Union Hill. The girl, who appeared to do all the talking, asked the minister to marry them. Dr. Mabone invited them into the house, and performed the ceremony. The bride then paid the marriage fee, and sent her hus-band after a bottle of Rhine wine, and upon his return desired the minister to drink with them, but upon his refusal the man and wife went off together taking the bottle, still unopened, with They were next seen at the saloon of Mrs. Finck, where the girl entered and asked for a corkserew to open a bottle of wine and having procured it the man opened the bottle and the girl drank about half as Diamonds, Jewelry, Silver Ware, the contents, the man refusing Watches, Porcelains, &c., are often hindered by the fear that the prices may be left Mrs. Finck's place about three o'clock, the girl borrowing a copy of the Stants-Zeitung to wrap up the bottle of wine, both of which were found alongside of her re-mains. Monster Locomotive and Fast Trains.

It would seem as if some of the railroad companies were entering upon an era of unexampled fast passenger trains. Trains have long been run on the English roads with a capacity of sixty miles an hour, alnomination of Wm. H. Robertson was though such speed is exceptional. We then taken up and confirmed in a similar have already quoted from an English authority that it was impossible to maintain the running at high speed with any other than a quick-burning coal, and that in using anthracite with an enormous grate service, American engineers are making a mistake. The locomotive, No. "10," built by the Pennsylvania railroad company for fast running between Philadelphia and New York, and to make up by additional speed for the time lost on stops at certain stations, is supposed to have solved the highest aim that can be sought in a locomotive, "that of pulling the heaviest trains over all grades against stiff winds, and with the least possible liability toward hot boxes or low steam on the quickest schedule time." It is an immensely heavy affair, with driving-wheels standing six feet six inches above the rails and consuming twelve thousands pounds of coal in the round trip of one hundred and eighty miles to and from New York. With this exin fifty-seven seconds on up-grade with a long train. The Philadelphia Times, from whose account of her build and perform ance we have been quoting, states that ten similar locomotives are to be built at Altoona this summer. But the fastest long-distance time on record has been made by the Fountain locomotive, which, with two ears attached, ran over the Canada Southern railroad last week, from Amherstburg to Victoria a disrance of 229 miles in three hours and ahalf, including sixteen minutes lost at stopping places. We imagine that there are few roads in the country so well built that such a high rate of speed could be maintained without danger; for not only must the engine be perfect in all its parts, but the track also. The question whether such trains can be run to a profit with us has likewise to be yet determined; for the Senate considered Saunders' resolution fast running with locomotives of immense weight and size implies largely increased cost in the matter of fuel, and far greater wear and tear of rails from incessant
