MILLERSVILLE.

THE EXCITEMENT SIMMERING DOWN.

About Seventy Students Leaving School—Their Sympathizers not Suspended.

At the Millersville normal school yesterday afternoon there was an informal meeting of a number of the trustees and a conference with the faculty. Among the former present were Messrs A. M. Frantz, J. W. Frantz, John B. Warfel, John M. Stehman and George K. Reed. A free interview was accorded by them to representatives of the Philadelphia Press and of the INTELLIGENCER. Dr. Brooks repeated substantially the statement which appeared in our columns yesterday from the standpoint of the faculty; he has no fears of any serious impairment of the school's usefulness by the present revolt, and while it takes away some good students whose departure occasions regret, the school will also be purged of a demoralizing element: he believed in the coeducation of the sexes and it has been a marked success here; the discipline and demeanor of the lady students are better than at Holyoke and other mixed institutions; this is the first serious trouble ever had; most of the lady students are sent to the school by parents or guardians who look to the regulations and strict enforcement of them for their protection; the case had been fairly laid before the students and the complainants had been frankly asked to point out the objectionable regulations and "reason together" about the fairness and propriety of them. With regard to students who had accompanied those leaving, to the city, the faculty had voted to withdraw their suspensions if they returned in good order to their studies; the present regulations as to the association of the sexes is simply the reassertion of old regulations, the wisdom of which is amply recognized by men and women who, when at school, sometimes chafed under them.

Trustee Warfel said that though this was not a formal meeting of the board it was proper to say that the trustees unanimously approved the efforts of the faculty to enforce the regulations.

A couple of young men, met on the grounds, who were not of the number who made demonstrations of sympathy with the offenders, were interviewed as to the feeling in the school on the part of those remaining there. They said that they themselves and many others sympathized with the suspended students but wouldn't go away because they were sent there by their parents, who would not approve their leaving.

The Exodus.

Besides those who took their departure yesterday some others have gone to day and the following is a list, so far as we have been able to obtain it, of the gentlemen who have quit the school up to this time:

The hundred others who marched with Coates and Hipple to town yesterday and returned to the school expected some action to be taken in their cases under the following rule which had been announced by the faculty: "That any students who absent themselves from their classes or withdraw from school without permission, or engage in any other conduct calculated to show contempt for the regulations or disrespect for the contituted authorities, shall be summarily suspended."

At breakfast this morning Dr. Brooks announced, however, that by resolution of the faculty all those who were suspended for their participation in yesterday's demonstration had been reinstated.

We are reliably informed that the statement that the ladies were told that if they left the porch to bid farewell to the boys they would be suspended was incorrect. "They were at first forbidden to go, but afterwards, to avoid all appearance of harshness, they were allowed to go, and students were even allowed to be absent from their classes during the 7:30 period to bid their friends good-by."

A correspondent of the Press writing to it from this city says: "The newspaper opinion of this city is divided, the New Era and Examiner defending the course of the faculty as just and entirely correct." The Examiner, however, which seems to be able to speak for itself, in yesterday's issue says: "If the rules of the school permit discussion in what may be regarded as 'public meetings' of the scholars, and remarks not to the taste of the faculty of the management are made, they ought to have been met in a different spirit than that of expelling a member who was merely re-echoing the views of so formidable a body of students as were on parade to-day. Rules which, when violated, subject a member to expulsion, may be well enough, but to expel a student for merely criticising, or even denouncing, probably violently, rules he may consider tyrannical, is quite another question. The former can be and ought to be sustained until repealed or modified, but for the latter course there can be little justification. And just here is the rock on which the faculty failed to apply their common sense."

A Lack of Tact.

Philadelphia Press, Editorial.

The students are usually wrong, but they are not necessarily always wrong, and where they are of one mind we suspect are seldom wholly at fault. A lack of tact, discretion of knowledge of human nature in a body of instructors will invariably, with the best intentions, beget no end of difficulty.

When a faculty insist that that their rules shall not only be obeyed, but shall not even be criticised by the students, they lay down a rule which it is impossible to enforce. The attempt to enforce it in this case has subjected them to constant criticisms even since. Instead of two critics the entire six hundred, if the reports are to be relied upon, have resolved themselves into a committee of the whole on the action of the faculty, with session perpetual and debate unlimited. That such criticisms were made at chance gatherings instead of in the college societies would only give them a more irresponsible and virulent character. For school or college authorities to attempt to repress the expression of opinion among students is a vain undertaking. It inspires the latter with a sense of wrong that nothing else will. They recall at once the historical attempts to repress free speech and are quick to draw the parallel to their own cases and honestly develop a corresponding degree of righteous indignation.

It is unfortunate that any body of students should be dissatisfied with a set of rules, but where that dissatisfaction is freely expressed in nine cases out of ten that is the end of it. If insubordination follows, then is surely time enough for the faculty to act. There is nothing gained and much risked in keeping either man or boy, who feels strongly on any point, from the healthy resource of freeing his mind. A wise administration, in school, or elsewhere, will not attempt to close this vent. Every college has its society, in which often the faculty, or some member of it, is a favorite theme of animadversion, and no particular harm done either. If one of the instructors were to attend one of these society meetings and take notes of the "words uttered in debate" and have the incautious speaker subsequently expelled for it we should have all the necessary conditions for a first-class college insurrection. If the principal of the Millersville school had stayed away from the meeting of the Normal and Page literary societies last Saturday night, or being present, had allowed the eloquence of the members to pass for what it was worth, even when it dealt with college regulations, the discipline of the school would probably have suffered nothing—certainly nothing in comparison with what has followed this attempt to enforce an unenforcible rule. There were doubtless some mistakes on both sides. At the same time the course of the students cannot be approved and rightful authority must be sustained.

Not Admitted to Shippensburg.

Special to the INTELLIGENCER.

SHIPPENSBURG, Cumberland Co., Pa., June 9.—Ten or eleven late students of Millersville came on here yesterday and this morning, and applied for admission to the state normal school located here. It being understood by the school authorities that they had left Millersville under discipline, they were not admitted here, in accordance with the comity existing between normal schools under the state system.

Open Doors at Lock Haven.

One of the students who has left the Millersville school informs us that he yesterday met Prof. A. N. Raub, of the Lock Haven normal school, on a railroad train. Prof. R. said that he had received a telegram from Dr. Brooks asking him to not admit any of the Millersville ex-students; that he had advised his faculty to admit and accommodate all who came, and that he would inquire into the circumstances of their leaving Millersville after his return.

NEW LIQUOR STORE.

A Marked Improvement in Centre Square.

Maj. Jere Rohrer has removed into the new liquor store recently erected by him in the south-east angle of Centre square. The building was described at some length in the INTELLIGENCER a few weeks ago. Briefly, it is built of brick, is four stories in height, with plate glass front. The upper stories are reached both by stairways and an improved elevator, capable of carrying up several hundred weight.

The basement of the building is used for storing away claret, champagne, and other liquors requiring a low temperature. The first floor is used as a show room and salesroom. It is handsomely finished and furnished with convenient shelving and stand casks, and stored with a large quantity of old bottled liquors, liquors on draught, tonics, bitters, &c., &c. The second floor is used exclusively for storing imported wines, brandies and old whiskies in casks. The third floor is stored with whiskies of different grades, and the fourth with new whiskies In the fourth is also a 200-gallon tank for digesting the ingredients used in the manufacture of Rohrer's Wild Cherry Tonic. A pipe conveys the liquor into a similar tank in the third story, where it is bottled. The casing of the tonic for wholesale, is done in the fourth story. Altogether, Mr. Rohrer has a very conveniently arranged place of business, and his large stock on hand and long experience in the trade will, no donbt, continue to attract an increased patronage.

Who Want to Hear Gowen.

In the list of names appended to the call upon Mr. F. B. Gowen to deliver a public address on the railroad problem and its relation to Philadelphia are the following Lancasterians:

H. C. Harner, Jacob Bausman, James B. Frey, J. L. Lyte, J. M. Long, Henry A. Shultz, John T. MacGonigle, Walter M. Franklin, Charles F. Rengier, jr., Wm. T. Jefferies, Joseph Herzog, E. Eberman, Thos. Baumgardner, John Keller, George L. Boyle, D. W. Patterson, J. P. Wickersham, H. C. Demuth, Henry Baumgardner, A. S. Bard, Charles M. Howell, George Steinman, George M. Franklin, Benjamin F. Shenk and J. B. Long.

One Thousand Dollars Reward.

As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, Messrs. Bausman & Burns offer a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who set fire to the tobacco warehouse owned by G. D. Sprecher and in which is stored the tobacco packed by Mr. P. H. Hilke. There is also a standing reward of $500 offered by the city authorities. Now let the detectives go to work, if they are worth anything, rid the city of the incendiaries and pocket the reward.

Bicycle Riders.

This morning three gentlemen arrived in this city at 10:20, who had ridden from Norwich, Connecticut, to Paoli on bicycles. At the latter place they were overtaken by the storm, and, as one of the party was suffering from rheumatism they took to the cars. They left this city for Harrisburg where they will meet one of the best bicycle riders in the country. Accompanied by him they will ride their machines to Marietta, Ohio. One of the men said that he weighed 190 pounds when he left Norwich, and upon arriving at Paoli he weighed but 160.

COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Mr. J. J. Black, of Philadelphia, was in town yesterday.

Captain D. B. Case has leased a house in Marietta and will remove therein as soon as necessary repairs are finished.

Hand bills for a Hancock and English demonstration in Reading in October, 1880, were distributed all through town yesterday. Some chap either got hold of the wrong bundle or was decidedly late in conveying his information.

A great amount of rain has failen this morning and the appearance of things overhead indicates that it is not yet over.

The annual election of directors of the Chestnut Hill iron ore company will be held at their office, in Columbia, on the 17th of the present month.

Captain Case yesterday received warrants for the non-commissioned officers lately appointed in Company H. They will be distributed on Monday evening.

William Shartzer, of Washington borough, has bought the good-will, stock of cans, etc., of Jacob Stauffer, dairyman, who served milk to Columbians.

Rev. C. S. Gerhard will attend the annual meeting of the Lancaster classis at Millersville and on that account there will be no services in the Reformed church at this place on Sunday next.

Mr. George C. Haldeman left here last evening for Santa Fe, New Mexico. His brother, Mr. Robert E. Haldeman, left with him and accompanies him to Columbus, O. At Leavenworth, Kan., the first named will be joined by Mr. J. Deveaux Mifflin, who will go with him to his destination, where the two, we are informed, will form a partnership and enter business.

Reports from the Frederick division of the Pennsylvania railroad say that a heavy landslide has occurred south of York, causing a delay to trains. The Frederick accommodation train arrived here at 12:57, 17 minutes late. The Codorus creek is said to be very high and it is reported that the Susquehanna is rising rapidly at Lock Haven. There is a slight rise here.

The teachers of the public schools are going through the ordeal of an annual examination to-day. Success or non-success in it determines whether or not a teacher's certificate will be granted them. Without a certificate accompanying an application to teach in the public schools the school board will pass without action the name of the applicant, hence it may be surmised that all who wish to enter into the service of the borough in the capacity a teacher will strain every point to meet the required average.

Sunday next being children's day at the M. E. church the Sunday school connected therewith, united with that of Cookenan chapel of the same church, will hold a special morning service prepared for the occasion. Much elaboration is being spent in the decoration of the church room and by the time the last touches are given to it a decidedly presentable appearance will be the result. The members of the Sunday school are "putting in their best licks" to make themselves thoroughly familiar with the portions of the programme which they dissect, and that the exercises will be successful is hardly open to question. Last year's celebration of the day was not only successful, but very enjoyable, and we hope to see it at least equalled this year.

The organization of the new school board will take place this evening and the business of the past year will be closed up. Messrs. John A. Slade and Abram Bruner will take the seats to which they were elected and Messrs. G. H. McCullough and Uriah Sourbeer, whose terms have expired, will retire. J. A. Meyers's time has also expired, but he will continue in his seat, having been re elected. Teachers of the public schools for next year's term will not be elected this evening, but the incoming board will have the duty of electing them at a subsequent meeting. Miss Preston, principal of the high school, will not be a candidate for re-election. On the work before the board the Herald has this to say: "The new board will have the question of erecting a new school house for the colored children to tackle. That a new building is needed is not a question. What kind shall it be, and how great shall be the expense, are the questions to be answered. The idea of erecting a four-room building, has, we undarstand, been abandoned. That is well enough. Such a building is not needed, especially in that part of the town, or for the purpose required."

LOCAL REMINISCENCES.

Women in the Postoffices.

Clinton Democrat.

Women are coming to the front more and more as office-holders. Twenty-five years ago a female postmaster was something novel. Whenever, before the war, a woman was put in charge of a postoffice it was a very insignificant one, paying but a few dollars a year, and the circumstance was talked of all over the country as a remarkable incident. Now the clear creatures get fairly lucrative positions in the postal service, and they bear a continually-increasing ratio to the male handlers of the mails. Of seven appointments made the other day to presidential postoffices—so called because the president appoints the postmasters instead of the postmaster general—three were women! Thus the world moves.—Philadelphia Record.

It is surprising that a paper distinguished for accuracy of statement as is the Record should make a historical blunder so gross as is contained in the foregoing. The deference of the slaveholders towards the fair sex always bordered closely upon the knightly, and the administrations of slaveholding presidents abound with appointments of women to postoffices, though where circumstances favored they named sons of widows as the officer, from a sentiment of delicacy not entertained in the Eastern states, in order that the widow might obtain the advantages derived from office without incurring its humiliation.

An anecdote in point: Mrs. Dickson (we believe the widow of a meritorious soldier) was for many years postmistress at Lancaster, Pa., then one of the most important offices in the state. Upon the advent of General Harrison to the presidency Democratic postmasters were removed at the rate of hundreds daily, and in the Lancaster case it was only a question of who should be appointed Mrs. Dickson's successor. But before a result was reached, in some remarks denunciatory of the sweeping removals, Mr. Buchanan said in the Senate that even Mrs. Dickson, the widow of a soldier, not a politician, who was an exceptionally good officer, was to be removed to make place for a hungry male office-seeker, and he proceeded to eulogize the lady in warm and somewhat affectionate terms. Mr. Clay replied, with much wit and humor, that he inferred his bachelor friend from Pennsylvania had matrimonial designs, and that if he would avow them as a possible result he would pledge his honor that the lady should not be disturbed in her official relations to the senator. Mr. Buchanan replied that the lady's assent was of course essential; that he had not yet obtained it; that she would undoubtedly feel much annoyed in having the matter thus publicly spoken of, but if that was the condition of her continuance in the postoffice successful negotiations might be the result. Mr. Clay impetuously retorted that the courtship should not be disturbed by removal from office; and all future attempts to remove Mrs. Dickson were confronted with a personal and earnest request in writing on file in the department from Mr. Clay that under no circumstances should the lady be superseded. She remained in office many years afterwards.

A Lost Carrier Pigeon.

On Monday a beautiful blue carrier pigeon flew into a window of the Schiller house, on North Queen street, which was open. It was caught by M. J. Ruth, a well-known pigeon fancier, who, upon examination, found the bird had the name of its owner, "Charles Schaum, Trenton, N. J.," on its wing. The bird seems to have been one which was in a fly between Pittsburg and Trenton. Mr. Ruth has the bird yet and he has notified Mr. Schaum of its whereabouts.

Love Feast.

A love feast and feet washing by the German Baptists took place at Petersburg this county, yesterday, and continues until noon to-day. The attendance was very large, the services last evening impressive—the ordinance of feet-washing being followed by the love feast, and this in turn by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Sermons were preached and the scriptures explained in German by able preachers.

Looks Like Business.

The Pennsylvania railroad company advertises in the Philadelphia newspapers for proposals for the construction of the new line of railroad from Conestoga bridge to Dillerville.

Tongue Broken.

This morning Adam Diller, residing near New Holland, attempted to cross the railroad track at Gordonville, with a team. The horses frightened at an approaching train, and turning quickly, broke the tongue from the wagon. No other damage was done.

Rose Cold and Hay Fever.

Being seriously troubled with Hay Fever and Rose Cold, I (at the solicitation of a friend) tried Ely's Cream Balm and was surprised in obtaining almost immediate relief. I heartily indorse and earnestly recommend it to all similarly afflicted. W. P. ANDRUS, Druggist, Metuchen, N. J. August 20, 1870.

For HAY FEVER I recommend Ely's Cream Balm. It entirely relieved me from the first application; have been a sufferer for ten years. Going from home and neglecting to take the remedy, I had an attack; after returning I immediately resorted to it, and found instant relief. I believe, had I begun its use earlier, I should not have been troubled. Have stood heat, dust and draughts as well as during other months. J. COLLYER, Clerk, 118 Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. TERRIBLE FIRE IN QUEBEC.

AN ESTIMATED LOSS OF $2,000,000

Fifteen Hundred Families Homeless—A Wretched Inefficient Fire Department.

QUEBEC, June 9.—One of the most disastrous fires ever experienced in this city commenced here about 11 o'clock last night. Open robberies were committed, and for a time police and fire department seemed demoralized. St. John's church valued at $100,000 was completely destroyed. The fire burned fiercely down St. John street on both sides south ward, down Jupiter street to Berthlot market place and Gabriel and St. Patrick streets, wherever there were buildings to be destroyed. A lower field alone stayed the progress of the fire. At Scott street the fire ran upwards toward Grand Allee at a terrible rate of speed, there being no water, men, hose nor other appliances to stop it. Only a gap caused by the recent conflagration here stopped the total destruction of the whole street. It is impossible to describe the spread of the flames on every side. Briefly summed up the streets consumed are, running east and west, Richmond in part, principally the south side, Latourelle, St. Oliviere, Richelieu, Daquillon and St. John's ward in Montcalm, St. Gabriel Novaelle and Breton.

Running north and south; the principal streets were Sutherland, Deligny, St. Clair, St. Marie and St. Genevieve, west side; besides Jupiter street in Montcalm ward, also west side. Among the property destroyed on John street were a large number of handsome buildings used as stores and private residences. "Ballory" was called out and rendered efficient aid in saving property and keeping order. It is computed that there must be a loss of $2,000,000 between the buildings, stock and furniture. Over 1500 families are rendered homeless by the conflagration; at least 800 buildings have been destroyed. It is impossible to give a full and correct list of sufferers, and insurance losses at the moment, but all the insurance companies doing business in the city will probably be heavy losers. The fire brigade and apparatus was quite unfit to cope with such a fire, and to its weakness and the wretched water service the whole disaster is due.

DEPEW LEADING THE BALLOT.

No Choice and Another Adjournment at Albany.

ALBANY, June 9.—For Conkling's successor: Conkling 34, Jacobs 49, Wheeler 23, Rogers 14, Cornell 16, Lapham 9, Tremaine 3, Folger 2, Bradley 1, Dutcher 1, Harris 1. There was no choice.

The convention then proceeded to vote to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thomas C. Platt, with this result: Kernan 50, Platt 29, Depew 53, Cornell 8, Tremaine 1, Folger 4, Crowley 5, Lapham 3. No choice, and the convention adjourned to 12 m. to-morrow.

POTOMIC VETERANS.

The Reunion at Hartford, Conn.

The parade and demanstration in honor of the veteran soldiers of the army of the Potomic brought immense crowds to Hartford, Conn., yesterday. All the public buildings were handsomely decorated. The procession formed at the capitol about noon. Secretary of War Lincoln, General Sherman, Governor Littlefield, of Rhode Island, Governor Hoyt, of Pennsylvania, and Governar Plaisted, of Maine, and other guests were in the third division in carriages. Generals Burnside, Wright, Franklin and Davenport marched in the ranks. The citizens along the route were very enthusiastic. Many of the army corps associations held special meetings and elected officers.

Dan Dougherty, of Philadelphia, delivered an eloquent oration; Col. S. D. Sumner read a poem; brief speeches were made by General W. T. Sherman, Secretary Lincoln, Generals Burnside, Franklin, Hawley, Sickels, Devens and Slocum, and Governor Bigelow, of Connecticut. In the election for officers Gen. Chas. Devens was chosen president. At the banquet in the evening Gen. Sherman made a speech sharply criticising Jeff Davis's book; defending Joe Johnston, and denying that the Union army burned Columbia, S. C. "Mark Twain" responded in a humorous speech to the toast, "The benefit of Judicious Training," the point being civilian advice to soldiers. The toast, the "United States," was responded to by General Hawley; the "State of Connecticut," by Governor Bigelow; the "City of Hartford" by Mayor Bulkley; the "Army of the Potomac" by General Horace Porter; the "Volunteers" by General Sickles; the "Press" by General Nelson A. Miles.
