MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

A PROPHET IS NOT WITHOUT True and yet like most truisms it has its exceptions. The most striking illustration of this is found in the reputation acquired by Mishler's Herb Bitters during the twentyfive years it has been before the people. Growing from small beginnings as simply a local remedy, it has steadily worked its way to the foremost rank among the standard medical preparations of the age; yet nowhere is it more highly regarded than right here at home, in the scenes of its earliest victories over disease. You can scarcely find a man, woman or child in Lancaster county, who, at some time or other, has not used it, and the testimony of all is given in its praise. The farmer, the mechanic, laboring men and wonen, the merchant, the clergyman, the banker, the lawyer; people in every walk and condition of life are all alike familiar with its

The Hon. Thaddens Stevens, member of congress from this district, suffering from an affection of the Kidneys, could find relief in nothing else. In a letter to a friend (now in our possession) he writes: "MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS is the most wonderful combination of medicinal herbs I ever saw,"

The Hon. A. L. Hayes, Law Judge of the Courts of Lancaster county, writes: "I have used it myself and in my family and am satisfied that its reputation is not unmerited."

Hon, George Sanderson, Mayor of Lancaser city for 10 years, writes: "It has become familtar as a household word, and a necessary their entertainment. From the gathering addition to the medical requirements of every family. In my opinion it is THE BEST REM-EDY EVER INTRODUCED."

The proprietors have in their possession thousands of letters and certificates from persons in every section of the country who have been cured of various Diseases, and it is their proud boast that they have never published a line that was not genuine, nor a name that was not authorized. Some of these read like miracles, but the facts are indisputable. One of the most remarkable is the case of Isaac Saltzer, of Mayerstown, Lebanon county, Pa., cured of Hereditary Scrotula, aggravated by a pork diet. We have two large jars of scabs tire body that is not marked with a sear, yet Mishler's Herb Bitters cured him.

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 28, 1881. The Pennsylvania Editors.

Their Annual Excursion to Long Branch The state association of Pennsylvania editors has been vastly improved in the tone as well as the number of its membership within the past few years; and it now bids fair to amply realize the original purpose of its founders and the present aim of its organization, viz: to cultivate the amenities, to preserve the dignity, to extend the influence, and to enhance the legitimate profits of the profession. It has come to extend over the whole state. to take in every class of journalists, to to Long Branch unless somebody can conembrace the representative men of the clusively demonstrate a botter place. profession, made such by experience and distinction, and it is directed unselfishly to the purposes indicated. The annual excursion of its members is no longer the object of the association so much as it is a means of realizing-by the power of association and the exercise of the social principle—the higher objects of the organzation. To the energy, the capacity and he tact of its secretary, Mr. Robt. S. Menamia, it owes its preservation through years of varying fortunes, as well as its present strength and character, so auspicious of future usefulness to the profession and of profit to its members.

Albeit the editorial association has taken on a higher tone and greater dignity, the annual excursion of the present year-the largest in its history-lacked nothing of perfect enjoyment to its participants of unstinted hospitality on part of those who aided in of the excursionists in Philadelphia on Monday evening of last week to their dis persion in the same city on Friday, the management and experience were voted a success "by a large majority," if not with entire unanimity. This was due in part to Mr. Menamin's indefatigable at ention to the details, in part to the executive committee's good selection of time, place and route, in part to the good humor and good feeling of the excursionists, and cials and hotel management to whom the safety and comfort of the travelers were entrusted. A special train, with new coaches, and rare "accommodations" in the baggage car, and the extra precautions against accidents in the person and company on the train of passenger agents and provided in the way of transportation over to Long Branch and back. The road is good and fast, and when you strike Sea Girt you get a whiff of the salt breeze and it never leaves you until you land at Long Branch-and not then, of

The time chosen for the excursion was opportune; for though it was unseasonably cool for bathing and "the season" so backward as to have checked the throng of guests and visitors to the seaside, it found the Ocean House fresh and clean and garnished in every corner; proprietor, clerks and waiters, prompt, attentive and courteous; and the very lack of other visitarrangements were equally felicitous in the choice of place. No point on the sea coast furnishes the same variety of attractions as Long Branch. It is there that "the New Jersey upland runs to the beach and it never fails them; with it in the house and the salt water splashes in the corn they feel, yes they know, they are safe against | row. ' Hence that richness of vegetation, the fertile farms and fields, the beautiful lawns and floriculture, which have had much to do with making this spot the redence of the people.

A preparation thus approved alike by the most prominent officials and the great mass of the community must posses merit. In fact it is for purifying the Blood and secretions—A modore Garrison is doing here, they expect to live on it.

And then the steam boat runs to New York every few hours and for 60 cents you can have that beautiful ride, up between form of Indigestion—A SURE REMEDY for beaches along which is stretched a con-Intermittent Fever, Fever and Ague, and all tinuous city on either side. Over here other periodical Complaints. AN IMMEDIthat to Monmouth and then Upper Monmouth and Navesink and Sandy Hook-you hardly know where one leaves off and the other begins. Over there are Long Beach, and Rockaway and Coney Island, with Brighton and Manhattan—and all the while you are getting into that beautiful harbor, with its wonderful shipping and lighthouses and buoys and Jersey City and New York and Brooklyn, and the wooded heights and long stretches of green shore, and the bristling spires and towers and bridges and grain elevators and the factories and smoke and things of beauty and use and of civilization and energy and trade-they crowd upon you like one of Walt Whitman's poems, bewildering eye and ear, challenging all the senses and awakening enthusiasm. Mount the elevated railway and let it take you anywhere. Away up through the busy streets, out into Shantytown where squatters, thousands of them, have set their houses, patched up with drift timbers, on rocks that look as if they might be No-man's-land, and the little gardens are set in between these rocks like cups, stretching out into miles of lettuce and cabbage and beet fields. And as you come back and see the obelisk rising over yonder above the shade and beauty and fragrance of the Central Park, you get off the train, walk over and inspect it, and hereafter read with better sense about the red monolith and its big base and the hieroglyphics and the brass crabs under it, and all that. Or if you haven't seen enough of antiquity step into the museum, and look at the Cesnola collection of thousands of objects of ancient art and see what sculptured stone coffins those old Cyprians buried themselves in, and their shapely vases and statues and busts. Then after you have emerged again from the shadow of the pyramids or from in among the newspaper offices and Wall street and the stock exchange, you can stand in Castle Garden, at the gate of the New World, as it were, and see the Old pouring through her flood of emigration. What the Pennsylvania editors ought to do is to have a winter excursion of a few days in New Yorkcit. They would learn a great deal, and be able to tell what they know a great deal better.

And then they were opportune in the time of their visitation to Long Branch, because Grant was there, and Garfield, and the cabinet, or the better part of it, might have been and probably were there on less meritorious business than to see the Pennsylvania editors, their wives, daughters and sweethearts; alas! too, their sisters, aunts and cousins, for the fatal, eclipse-built and curse-rigged 'Pinafore" cruises even on the Jersey coast. good; they hopped in the hop that the nothing, but drinking all the water he can Lelands provided for them, and the wick-swallow.

Andy Spangler fished of course, and if he didn't catch all he brought in everybody who went with him got too seasick to gainsay his report. They rolled ten pins and played pool-not for the drinks, for Legislator Cooper, who helped to pass the anti-pool law was with the party. And after the banquet and while the wit was not yet chased out by the wine, they passed resolutions thanking the railroads and the Lelands and Bob Menamin with real hearty good will, and when they went home wiser, they were not sadder men-and next year they will go back

Linnaan Society.

A stated meeting of the society was held on Saturday, Vice President T. R. Baker and Secretary M. L. Davis in the chairs. The following donations were made to the museum and library :

Mr. C. Bitner, grocer, of North Queen street, donated 14 specimens of foreign and domestic woods, in finished blocks. some of which are rare, and all are interesting. Madagascar box wood, Peruvian bark wood, Norway pine, Belgian ash, East Indian palm, Brazilian sour gum, Florida dog wood, South Carolina palmetto, White cedar from Mt. Lebanon, Palestine, Japan oak, Java red rose, Central American mahogany and two specimens unnamed, which appear to be Ebony and

Mr. J. J. Nissley, through Mr. J. R. Hoffer, of Mount Joy, donated several larvæ, and one of the earth cells of the "seventeen-year cleada," the history of which has been published in the INTELLI-GENCER. The specimens evidently belong to a future broad, and doubtless to that of 1885. They are smaller than the usual fully developed insect, and are all still in the larva state.

Mrs. Zell and others, exhibited some very fine and singular flowers and plants. [The reporter of the proceedings notes, hat if those who have any donations or exhibitions to make would make a short descriptive record of them, as well as giving their names and locality, it would be great aid in making an intelligent and satisfactory report of them. Otherwise it must impose additional critical labor on those who may have the least time and ability to do it justice.

Mr. Geo. O. Hensel, florist, of East

brange street, donated a number of the

Mr. II., during the present season, has successfully reared a area, but very rich in resources. brood of these interesting insects, in an improvised ecconery on the second story when your girl gives you the mitten, and the second story of 11.000 eggs he raised 10,900 worms, which spun the same number of cocoons. With the exception of about twenty individuals of the Japanese variety, all had spun cocoons prior to the 24th inst. These cocoons, among the Chinese variety, are variously colored, from a pure white, through sulphur, to pale orange, and differ in form and size. The greatest uniformity in color, size and shape is among the Japanese variety. Among the mass are quite a number of doublets, triplets, quadruplets, quintuplets &c. Some theorists had alleged that the male eccoon is more oblong than that of the female, that it is depressed in the centre (like a double kerneled peanut); but Mr. II., has practically demonstrated that this theory is very defective. He separated and set aside twenty eccoons, and they developed cighteen females and two males. Mr. II., fed his worms on the Italian mulberry, and for tifty days during the last "age," they devoured fifty pounds of leaves a day.

Mr. H. also donated a specimen of the "seventeen year cicado," which evolved on his premises the first week in June. He heard them frequently during the learned them frequently during the Queen street, Lancaster. specimen. He thinks he must have de stroyed the larger portion of the brood in digging the foundation of his green house

For a brief history of this abnormal brood in this locality, the reader is referred to a paper read before the "Lancaster Microscopical society " in April last, and published in the April number of the Lancaster Farmer, pp. 51-53, by S. S. R. Additions to Library.

The Mexican Mishap.

The following additional facts are learned touching the accident on the Morelos railway. A temporary bridge over a chasm near Malpais, on the recently opened Morelos railroad, was washed away, and a train carrying the Third bat talion of infantry plunged down the abyss. For some time past the district where it occurred has been swept by fierce storms. swelling the creek into torrents, and laying waste many fertile fields. The bridge spanning the river at the point mentioned, although known to be unsafe, was still in use when the fated train bearing a battalion of soldiers attempted its The result was a crash undermined supports gave way, and the engine and cars were hurled headlong down the chasm Searcely had the magnitude of the disas ter become apparent when a new horror was added. In the freight vans comprising a portion of the train was a consignment of alcohol. This took fire, and the consequent explosion contributed much to the loss of life. The few who escaped uninjured at once applied themselves to the rescue of their unfortunate comrades, but it was some hours before the exact extent of the disaster became apparent. It is now known that 17 officers and 197 privates were either killed outright by the fall or roasted to death, while fifty others sustained hurts of more or less serious character. The train was entirely con-sumed. When news of the appalling ealamity reached Mexico the excitement was unbounded, and crowds thronged all the news centres, anxiously awaiting partie ulars. Never in the history of the repub lie has so frightful a casualty been chronicled, and its occurrence it is feared will still further prejudice the popular mind against railway enterprises. However, Los Gringoes, as the natives term all outside barbarians, can come in for no share of the blame in this connection. The latest accounts report that the list does not include railroad officials and omployees, or the women and children of the soldiers, many of whom were on the train. Only about sixty persons in all were saved alive, and of those forty are more or less injured. The Morelos railroad, on which this terrible disaster-the first of the kind of serious importance in Mexico-occurred, runs from the city of Mexico in a southwesterly direction into the state of Morelos, of which Cuernavaca, the favorite home of Cortez, is the capital. Cuautla-Amilpas, near which the accident occurred, was the scene of two of the most famou battles feaght with the Spaniards during the Mexican war of independence by the celebrated Cara Morelos, whose name is borne by the state. The state is small in
