Near and Across the County Line. Gov. Hoyt has appointed Charles Thom-son Jones, Henry C. Howell, Mahlon H. Dickinson, of Philadelphia; James K. Moorhead, John Paul, of Pittsburgh Henry Rawle, of Erie; William Nolan, of Reading, commissioners to superintend the construction of a state industrial reformatory at Huntingdon.

By the heavy hail of Sunday in Lebanon county crops of fine promising tobacco were entirely destroyed. The crops of Isaac Strohm, in South Lebanon township, were entirely ruined, and what he will take off the farm will not compensate him for the labor. In a house in North Lebanon there were eighty-nine window panes broken, and in another thirty-five. On the farm of Mr. Michael Shenk, South Lebanon township, there were hailstones to the depth of two inches. On the farm of Mr. Abraham Groh, Heidelberg township, a barn was blown down and other

When Courts Disagree.

Judge Henderson, of Lebanon, refused to grant a charter to a marriage insurance company, doing business there for several months already, assigning as reasons: "The inutility of the said company," "No necessity for such a company," trary to public policy," that they were on the same footing with the speculative life | the lock-up here has not put in an appearinsurance plans, and that there was no ance. warrant in the constitution and the laws to compel the court to grant it. A similar dam and Peach Bottom were bought at company organized a few weeks ago with private sale from the Lumbermen's ex-Lebanon now, came over into change by Messrs, W. H. It your druggist does from the court here, got its charter, which | county. leads the Press to say : "If Judge Henderson could find no warrant for such action it is difficult to comprehend upon what the judge in Lancaster county based his prerogative. We presume the constitution and general laws of Pennsylvania apply to all counties alike, and that which is not law in Lebanon on general subjects, such as insurance, is not law in Lancaster, and vice versa. At any rate, Judge Henderson has taken a position on this question which will entitle him to the confidence of the community in which he dispenses justice, and infuse the people of other sections with the hope that their jurists may see to expound the law as Judge Henderson does."

St. Mary's Festival. The festival at the old stone church continues to flourish, and last night the at tendance was quite large. The tables are all prettily decorated and abundantly supplied with articles useful, ornamental or toothsome as the case may be, and the attendants at all of them fair and obliging. There is indeed nothing lacking to make the place a very agreeable resort for an evening, and visitors are at once made to feel at home by the cordial welcome extended them, manifest at the outset by free admission into the charmed circle. The young ladies in charge of the enterprise are entitled to every encouragement in their work, since it they apparently who are carrying it on, the absence of masculine aid being conspicuous. ## A Correction.

In our notice of the "sorrowful visit" of Mr. Frederick A. Piercy, of Kansas City, to Lancaster and his return home, it was stated that Mr. Piercy was compelled to take his children to the almshouse during his wife's illness from small-pox at the hospital. We are assured that the statement is incorrect. During Mrs. Piercy's illness, her children were kindly cared for at the residence of Wm. H. The casus belli is the recommendation of a committee to take into special consideration the subject be placed upon these optical phenomena, which were wholly delusive. The idea that this comet was identical with that of 1907 was, he said, based upon a misapprenension of Gould's telegram, which see to allude to the comet of 1807 in one of its sentences, and then went on with some allusion to the ascension and declination, without further reference to the subject. Whether he meant to be understood that the position of the present body was the same as that of the comet of 1807, or intended to suggest that it was the same, could not be made out from the blind wording of his message. The latter he did not think probable, but all theories on the subject of identity must be conjectural until further observations had been made and the orbit had been computed. Comets were too searce in the physical universe to render it likely that two different ones of such magnitude as that now under observation and that described by Gould had appeared at the same time. 1 priori, therefore, in the absence of computations, it was probable that Gould's comet and the one discovered here last week were the same body, but it would fact until further data had been recorded. Thus far Prof. Draper has taken two pretty good negatives of the centre and coma and several indifferent ones. The best were obtained on Saturday night dur-ing the attempt described at length in these columns on Monday. On Sunday night the attempt was renewed, but not with marked success. The Man who Saw it Last Fall. Prof Klein, of Hartford, Ky., writes to the Louisville Courier-Journal: "This socalled newly discovered comet may be new to the world at large, but it is not new to me, as I have been gazing upon this very comet ever since last September. You will remember that I told you in my letters that it would be visible to the naked eye in June or July, 1881, and that t would not be seen again for 79 years. Furthermore, it is not the comet of 1819, but it is the comet of 1783, which was the supposed cause of the terrific atmosphical disturbances of that year. I feel that I know more about this comet than other astronomers, as I have nursed it, as it were, from its first appearance until the present, and I know my comet by sight, just as a father would know his children by seeing them. Prof. Swift and other eminent scientists have written to me in regard to it from time to time ever since last fall," A Charleston l'ilot Sees Two One of the Charleston pilots who came in yesterday morning reported that he not only saw the comet in the northeast, but also saw another comet in the southern hemisphere. Not being an astronomer he is unable to locate it with reference to the constellations, but as there was a comet reported visible in South America two months ago, it is possible that this may be the same, and that it has now come within range of the North American

Dudley Observatory Views. The approximate elements of the new comet have been computed at the Dudley Observatory, Albany, N. Y. The result indicates that the comet was never seen before this year, and that it is the same as that reported from South America. It is 35,000,000 miles from the earth and moving away at the rate of 1,000,000 miles daily. It passed its perihelion on June 23, and was nearest the earth on June 19. Its tail is over 35,000,000 miles long. Another accurate observation will be needed before the comet's course in space can be definitely predicted.
