A POPULAR RESORT.

Where People Keep Cool and Good Husaor ed Without Much Cost. There is a city in Eastern Pennsylvania, which offers rare attractions to visitors to come to it and to its own people to stay at home these dog days. It is situated on high ground in the midst of the most perfeet agricultural landscape. The drives about it, barring a few obnoxious tollgates, are "perfectly lovely." It has an abundant supply of water. Its streets are shaded and its yards filled with flowers and fruit trees. The houses are comfortable and commodious; the hotels clean and respectable; the railroad and mail facilities excellent; the markets cleap and fresh and the people elever and sociable; the newspapers enterprising and lively, publishing all that happens and some that don't; the aldermen fat and prosperous: the organ grinders -patient and the bathing not dangerous; the mercury stays at about 88 in mid day; the nights are cool and the denizen can sleep until the sparrows chattering spot makes money (if you believe them); with the remark: boarding can be had for $3 a week, and work on the street at $1 a day; enough preachers stay in town to supply the people every Sunday, and different brands of dozen sold in the saloons; where flies never trouble bald-headed bachelors and all the old maids remain single of their own choice; where widows abound and scandal is silent—not altogether silent but silent enough; whence fishermen sally in the kitchen. Gentle and much mystified freader, seek you this favored spot ? Know then, that sensible people who live in Lancaster stay at home, and those who go away come back with all their strings attuned to the melody of "There's no place like

An Aged Colored Man.

Joseph M. Williams, colored, one of the oldest of our citizens, died rather suddenly at his residence, No. 138 South Christian street, this morning, between five and six o'clock, aged about 80 years. He was a native of Dauphin county, but spent the greater part of his life in Lancaster county, living for some time in the vicinity of Washington borough and for twelve or fifteen years past in this city. He was twice married and leaves a second wife and several married children and quite a large number of grandchildren to mourn his less. For many years past he followed peddling for a living and was known to almost everybody in Lancaster. He was a prominent member of the Strawberry Street M. E. church. His funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, interment at Strawberry street cemetery. Landisville Campmeeting.

The campmeeting will commence at Landisville to-morrow and will continue 10 days. A number of the cottages are already occupied by families from Reading, Harrisburg, Columbia and Laucaster, some of whom have been on the grounds several weeks. Services were held in the vesterday, the sermon being preached by Rev. Henry Wheeler, of Colimbia. This year the campmeeting promises to be very large.

POTTER'S LITTLE GAMES.

How He Traded on a Pittsburgh Firm's

The arrest of O. D. Potter, in this city, on charges of obtaining money by falsely rep resenting a connection with the white lead house of T. H. Nevin & Co., of Pittsburgh, has been related in the INTELLIGENCER. The Pittsburgh Times, published by the Nevins, gives some further accounts of his operations:

fine looking man giving his name as Smith entered the office of T. H. Nevin & Co.'s lead work, Allegheny, and solicited an opportunity to sell some mixed paints on percentage. He stated that he was from Kansas City, where he had been engaged in the same business, and giving as reference various firms in that part of the West with whom T. II. Nevin & Co., were acquainted, and withal, being smooth of tongue and of pleasing address, he made Hon. Samuel J. Randall will deliver the a good impression and was met half way. He was given eards, &c., and assigned the West as his field of labor, he having according to his story, controlled a trade in that section which was corroborated, as far as such a corroboration went, by his mention of numerous citizens out there with whom the firm of T. H. Nevin & Co., were also acquainted. Prior to leaving the city he admitted to the firm that financially he was a bankrupt, and asked the loan of $20 to aid him in getting a start, the aforesaid

$20 to be deducted from his commission on the first sale made. His asking for so trifling a sum disarmed suspicion, and the money was advanced him in the best of feeling and he was sent on his way with a host of good wishes following in his wake. But while he had been cautious at the very outstart, his success, though it was not a brilliant one, seems to have made him a little carcless. After leaving T. H. Nevin & Co. he dropped into Tims's umchased a fine umbrella, paying part eash for it and giving as security for the payment of the balance, his connection with the firm of T. H. Nevin & Co. Mr. Tim let him have toe umbrella with some misgivings, and as soon as he had taken his departure, communication was had with Nevin & Co. and inquiries made con cerning his authority to tender the firm as security. Word was received that Smith had no authority to use the name of T. II. Nevin & Co. in any such transaction, and immediately after word was sent to the Allegheny mayor's office to have Smith put under arrest. In the meantime, Smith probably realizing that he was endeavoring to make hay in wet weather, returned to Tim's, paid the balance due on the umbrella and left, presumably for the West, before the arrest by the Allegieny police could be accomplished. He had been gone but a few days when T. II. Nevin & Co., began to receive letters of iuquiry concerning this man Smith from parties from whom he had borrowed small sums of money, so that it was evident that instead of turning his face westward, as was the agreement he had gone East, even as it was now equally evident that he was a swindler. T. H. Nevin & Co. inserted warnings in the trade papers east and work Jenkins had the satisfaction of res west, but still the letters of inquiry continued to pour in. The letters were, with-

He failed to sell a single pound of paint, neither was his authority to make a sale once questioned, showing that his whole time was spent in finding those who could be gulled out of a five or ten dollar note. An effort was made to stop him in his swindling career but without success. he always being just leaving a town as those who very much desired an audience with him were entering it, until Friday last when a note of inquiry was received from a gentleman in Lancaster, this state, who it subsequently turned out was the alias Smith's brother-in-law, asking whether or no Smith was in the employ of the firm. A denial was transmitted and also a request that he be arrested. The brotherin-law sent word that Smith had left town, but that his wife was in Lancaster, and that he would return on Saturday, when he would be placed under arrest. On Saturday Edward Nevin went to Lancaster and found that Smith, whose right name is

O. D. Potter, was in jail there. Mr. Nevin dropped in to see him and was greeted thus familiarly: " liello, Ea! Get me out of this, will you? I will give up everything, only get

While go ing from one town to another, he managed not only to be carried free, but to get $10 worth of confidence out of the conductor, who wrote T. H. The small scale in which Potter, carried on his operations has led to the belief that he was also engaged in a swindle of another kind, for the reason that during the two months he succeeded in eluding arrest, he obtained not more than $125 in money which would hardly have paid his travel ing expenses. Since his arrest it has been learned that while out West he played precisely the same game, and that he is a man in whom there is little or no good and

Our right name of Dr. Agnew, one of the consulting physicians, and yet it is not likely that many of them are aware that Dr. Agnew is a Lancaster county man. Such, however, is the fact. He is a native of this county, and after graduating as a physician, hung out his shingle at Christi ana. Like many other young doctors he had a hard road to travel, and was so poorly patronized that he relinquished his profession and engaged in the iron business. In this, too, he failed, and we next hear of him as a surgeon in the army and subsequently as a high-priced Philadelphia practitioner. And now, when ever Dr. Bliss gets scared he telegraphs for Dr. Aguew to hasten to Weshington as consulting surgeon in the president's

THE DOCTORS HOPEFUL.

THE WASHINGTON BULLETINS.

Dr. Rhes In Good Heart. EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 25 .- 7 A. M.-Dr. Bliss says he feels very much gratified at the condition he finds his patient in this morning. The president, he says, had no chill and slept well during the night. A casual examination just made shows little or no fever and his pulse 98.

Doing Well This Morning. EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, July 25.-8:30 A. M.-The president has passed a more comfortable night and has had no rigor since that reported in the bulletin of vesterday morning. Pulse 96, temperature 98.4, respiration 18.

Continuing Favorable Condition. EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 25-10:45 A. M.-Unofficial-The president's condition continues favorable, and at this hour he is very comfortable. No material change has occurred in his pulse or temperature since the last bulletin was issued. · He has partaken of limewater and milk alternately, with meat juice this morning, with a relish. When the wound was dressed the cotton was found well saturated with pus of a healthy character. The surgeons say there has been a gradual and very satisfactory discharge of pas ever since the incision was made. No Indications of Another Chill. EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 25.-NOON-Thirty-six hours have now elapsed since the president had his last chill, and there are as yet no indications of another. With the exception of the slightly increased weakness caused by the relapse of Saturday, his condition to-day does not differ materially from that of the early part of last week, The surgeons are now assembling for the noon consultation, and within the next hour an unofficial report will probably be made of the patient's pulse and tempera-

His Condition at One O'clock. EXECUTIVE MANSION, 1 P. M.-The president's condition at this hour is regarded by the surgeons as extremely favorable and encouraging. His pulse is 104 and his temperature and respiration normal. There is no indication of fever at present, but it is probable that the usual slight febri'e rise will occur this evening, as it did last week, before the formation of the pus Distinguished Cailers. Ex-Senator Conkling, accompanied by Senator Jones, of Nevada, called at the executive mansion at 1 p. m., and be was in the cabinet room. He remained only 15 or 20 minutes at the executive mansion and saw no one except the president's private secretary and Dr. Bliss. To the latter he said that the unfavorable turn in the president's case has been a source of anxiety to him and he called in person to day to make inquiries. Upon being informed that the presidens's symptoms this afternoon were all of the most encouraging character he expressed gratification and asked Dr. Bliss to convey to Mrs. Garfield his sincere sympathy and good wishes.

Dr. Bliss's Two O'clock Keport. EXECUTIVE MANSION, 2:15 P. M.-Dr. Bliss at 2:15 reports: "Everything is going well." There has been no reappearance of fever and the president is sleeping quietly.

Death of Judge Clifford. PORTLAND, Me., July 25. - Nathan Chfford, justice of the U. S. supreme court, died at Cornish at 9 o'clock this morning. [Hon, Nathan Clifford was the oldest Judge in service on the federal supreme bench, having been appointed by President Buchanan in 1858, from Maine, and being many years the senior of his colleagues. He resisted all the advances made to him to resign, and frustrated the expectations of waiting Republican politicians, because, he sincere ly believed it to be his patriotic duty to remain until a Democratic president could appoint his successor. Amid all the subversions of the constitution he remained fixed in his reverence for the fundamental law, and on the questions of centralization, legal tenders, military trials &c., he and Judge Field have stood by the faith of the fathers. He was on the electoral commission and though he could have interposed technical objections to delay Hayes's inauguration he did not do so; though to the last day of Hayes's incumbency Judge Clifford refused to visit the White House, whose occupant he so well knew got there by base fraud. His Roman virtues are not likely to be paral leled by his successor, to be appointed by

TELLIGENCER. | ...

The Woman Who Shot Her Paramour. NEW YORK, July 25 .- The inquest in the case of Geo. Y. Coles, who was shot and killed by Mrs. Coleman, who charged him with having drugged and deceived her, was held here to-day. The prisoner was handsomely dressed and was accomby her husband.

Wm. J. Wassam testified to going to Miner's theatre for Coles at the request of Mrs. Coleman and to observing the shooting. He said he pursued the woman, but failed to catch up to her. Other witnesses who observed the shooting corroborated this testimony. Other parties were called who testified that they were in the theatre when Coles staggered in saying he was shot by Lizzie Coleman. Officer Quirk testified to Mrs. Coleman surrendering herself to him, stating that she had shot Coles because he had drugged and seduced her, and that afterwards Coles had told her husband. The JEALOUS FOR CAUSE. And So He Beat Her to Death.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 25 .- Yesterday morning when John McMullin, a team day morning when John McMullin, a team-ster, returned to his house he was informed by his little daughter that her mother had been in the bedroom with John L. Dwelly, of whom McMullin had been jealous. The latter beat Dwelly badly and also beat his wife at intervals through the day. This morning the woman was found dead in bed beaten in a shocking manner. McMullin and Dwelly were arrested.

Coal Pickers Killed. WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 25 .- At Ashley this morning Edith and Lottie Low aged respectively 10 and 12 years were run over by a passenger train on the Central R. R., of New Jersey. They were picking coal from the track. The former was killed and the latter so horribly mangled that she cannot live.

WEATHER INDICATIONS. WASHINGTON, July 25 .- For the Middle Atlantic states, fair weather, possibly followed by local rains in the northern portions, winds mostly south to west, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature.

The Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, July 25 .- First race: Blenheim first, Macbeth second, Nellie Pryter third. Second race : Thora first, Boulevard second, Eole third.

New Jersey's Dick Turpins Walter Aarvard, living near White Hill, New Jersey, whilst going home in a car-riage, last Thursday night, was stopped by two men at a place called "Commodore Stewart's Wood," and told to hand over his money, or he would be killed. He had a large sum of money in his possession, which had been paid him that evening. He escaped by whipping his horse into a run. Two shots were fired after him by the ruflians, one of which passed through his coat, but inflicted no injury.

A Graceless Villain. August Topel, a coachman, has been arrested in Chicago for arson, burglary and larceny. He confesses that he fired buildings whose destruction caused an aggregate less of $50,000.
