COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE. An adjourned meeting of the school board was held last evening in the office of J. A. Meyers, esq., at 8 o'clock; members all present except Messrs. Bahn and Wike. The finance committee reported the tax duplicates of 1878-79-80 ready to be closed. It was ordered that upon payment by the different collectors of amounts due the boards, as shown by the finance committee's statements, and upon the collector handing over their books to the board, the duplicates of 1878-79-80 be finally closed and the solicitor be instructed to enter satisfaction for the judgments. Preposals for collecting tax for 1881, were received from J. G. Hess and and T. B. Dunbar, the latter gentleman receiving the position. The application of Jane E. King, daughter of Sarah J. King, for admission to the soldiers' orphan school, was recommended. On Mr. Given's motion it was ordered that the treasurer be instructed to issue $5,000 in bonds, dated September 1, 1881, the bonds to be redeemable in three years, and payable in ten years, and that the treasurer also be instructed to advertise for proposals for sale of the bonds The repair and supply committee was instructed to fit up the vacant houses on Fifth street school property, with the old school furniture, for temperary school purposes; and to procure bids to furnish coal to the public schools for 1881, and report at the next regular meeting of the board, Adjourned.

The Spy thinks the INTELLIGENCER and Examiner reporters should be on the police and sanitary committees in council. The Spy tries to be sarcastic, but it is very near the truth-unconsciously of course. The gentlemanty proprietor of the "Temperance billiard halt," A. D. Reese, deserves much credit for the handsome appearance of his room, which is beautifully and tastefully decorated and has all the conveniences necessary. No drinking nor gambling there.

THE EDWARDS BURGLARY. Young Palwards Arrested-No Evidence

Produced Against Him. The hearing in the case of George Edwards, who was charged by his father, Charles Edwards, with being concerned in the burglary and attempted robbery of the latter's residence, No. 248 West King street, on Thursday night, took place before Alderman Spurrier this afternoon. Charles Edwards, the father, being affirmed, made a statement of the circumstances attending the robt ory, substantially as reported in Friday's INTELLIGENCER. He knew nothing connecting George with the burglary, except that he had made certain threats, after his mother's death, and insisted on searching the house for his

Mary S. Mann, a little girl in the employ of Charles Edwards testified that George showed her a key and told her it would unlock the desk in Mr. Edwards's store.

Mrs. George A. Askew testified that George showed her a key, and the little girl told her that George said it would unlock the desk. George told Mrs. Askew that he was sure his mother made a will, and insisted on making a search for it; but that she had persuaded him not to do so, saying that his father would make it all right with him. Robert Faulding testified that George requested him to go up into the third story of his father's house to examine an old bureau, where he thought might be found some papers or money belonging to his mother.

None of the witnesses knew anything to connect George with the burglary. For the defense Walter Gast and Wm. Brecht were sworp. They are two boys who went on the excursion to Philadelphia Thursday morning; called upon George Edwards at his residence, No. 732 South Fifth street, and slept in the same room with him Thursday night, (the night of the burglary.) They saw him as late as 11 o'clock Thursday night and as early as 5 o'clock Friday morning. They are positive that he was not only in Philadelphia, but in his own boarding house all Thursday

At this stage of the case District Attorney Davis, who represented Charles Edwards, the complainant, abandoned the case and Alderman Spurrier promptly dismissed the case and discharged George Edwards.

George Edwards is a printer, learned his trade in the Examiner office, this city, and has been for some time past working on the Public Ledger, Philadelphia. He believes his mother made a will before died and that his father destroyed it, for the purpose of getting hold of her property, and thinks that the recent complaints made against him by his father have been brought with a view of having him locked up or scared off, so that the old man can turn Mrs. Edwards's property into cash and return to England. George was at work at case at the Ledger office when he was arrested yesterday, and as he was not given time to get a "sub" before leaving for Lancaster he fears he may lose his situation.

natural circumstance to find a father accuse his son of so serious a crime without a particle of evidence to substantiate the charge.
