SATURDAY EVENING, AUG. 13, 1881.

MAJ. BRENEMAN ABROAD. Among Abbey Eutus and Busy Cities. From private letters written to personal friends in this city, by Maj. B. F. Breneman, now traveling in Europe, we are permitted to make the following extract:

YORK, Eng., July 25, 1881. Having found Scotland much more attractive than I even anticipated, I delayed there longer than I expected. On my way here I stopped at Abbotsford, the home of Walter Scott. It is a charming place, a grand old mansion built by Scott himself in 1811. Every room and corner of the house are filled with objects of interest the armory with its walls covered with broadswords, daggers, old muskets, bugle horns, etc., almost every one of which has a history : the drawing room with its elegant ebony furniture, the gift of George the 4th; the dining room with its old portraits; the library with its 20,000 volumes of Scott's own selections; even to the closet, in a glass case of which is preserved the blue coat with brass buttons, plaid trouserss and broad-brimmed white hat, worn by him just before his death. Much as I have always enjoyed the writings of Scott, I shall take even greater interest in them now, since a visit to his country and his home. From Abbotsford a drive of a few miles brought me to Melrose Abbey. This old Abbey I had read and heard so much about that before secing it I imagined I could almost draw it upon paper, but how different when standing within its crumbling walls. I was awe struck with its grand proportions; its rich and elaborate carvings; its grand window still in a good state of preserva-tion; its floors are filled with tablets to the illustrious dead-I would like to have lingered for hours among its ruins, but time did not permit.

Another drive of six miles brought me to Dryburgh Abbey. Parts of this Abbey are in a better state of preservation than Melrose. one of its aisles is buried Sir Walter Scott. The walls are almost covered with ivy and present a beautiful appearance, but to attempt a description of these old ruins would exhaust both my time and your patience. So I will hurry on through a grand country, the very heart of England, to Leeds, a large manufacturing city for wool and flax spinning. Not finding much to interest me there, I took an early train for York. This is one of the oldest towns in England and has much to interest strangers; being in search of antiqui ties, I concluded to stop at one of the famous old inns-" Black Swan," two hundred years old. When I entered its timehonored portals and was received by one of the most levely bar-maids perhaps in all England, I thought I had struck it exactly. An examination of the rooms, how-ever, and one table d' hote dinner satisfied me that no amount of romance or historical associations would repay for filthy beds and bad living. Still, had I been alone I might have endured it all, for the lovely face and charming man-ners of the bar-maid have haunted me ever Of course, the great attraction at York is its cathedral. Its grandeur and magnitude are far beyond my anticipations. Its character. One might spend a week examining the tracery and sculpture in this magnificent structure and see new beauties every moment.

about half of which is within the walls (York and Chester are the only two walled cities in England), and you have a fine view of the city by taking a walk around on its walls. This I did this afternoon in company with a friend. Almost every step some object of interest would be pointed out-the ruins of an old abbey; a palace built by Henry VIII., or rechaps by one of the Richards. Here some king had been born, there some king crowned, and there one buried, and so on

The Yorkshire Fine Arts and Industrial Institution is holding its summer exhibi-tion here at present. Having our Centen-nial fresh in my mind, I liesitated about going, but as the Prince of Wales' Indian presents were to be exhibited I concluded to go, never dreaming, what was in store for me. These presents alone occupied three large rooms, and the magnificence of them is beyond discription. There are all kinds of armor, Hindoo temples, palanquins, elephant harness, table mats, personal ornaments, state swords by the doz en, goldsmiths' work, silversmiths' work. and every thing you can mention, every article blazing with precious stones This display alone was well worth crossing the ocean to see. I leave early in the morning for Chatsworth, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire, and one of the finest places in England. THE THEATRE. A Glance at the Coming Amus On the 22d of this month the deers of Fulton opera house will be thrown open in the inauguration of the amusement season of 1881-82, with the appearance of the well-known and popular Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's minstrels. under the management of Mr. John D. Mishler. There is every prospect that the approaching season will be one of unsurpassed brilliancy, judging the attractions a ready by Manager Mishler for his circuit. Among those booked are the fo!lowing celebrities: The Goodwin-Weatherby combination, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence, the new sensation of "The World," Genevieve Ward in the society melodrama of "Forget-me-not," George H. Adams's new pantomime company, "One Hundred Wives," Hague's European minstrels, "Boccucio," Mrs. G. C. Howard's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Galley Slave."

Rice's Surprise Party, "Diplomacy,"
"Hearts of Oak," "The Slave's Dream," "Evangeline," John T. Raymond in 'his new comedy "Fresh," Collier's "Banker's Daughter," Denier's pantomime company Buffalo Bill, Pat Rooney combination, Oliver Doud Byron, Joe Emmet, Bernard McCauley, Hooley's comedy company in the new tiree act comedy "Birds of a Feather," "Our Goblins," "Fun on the Bristol," Hermann, the magician, "My Geraldine, 'Neil Burgess the original Widow Bedott, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Knight in their new play "Baron Rudolph," the Holman opera company in "Olivette," Power's dramatic company, "Deacon Crankett," Gus Williams in his new play "Kaiser," John S. Clarke, and

Rial's pantomime company. As may be gathered from a perusal of the above list, which will be largely augmented by later engagements, our city will not suffer during the season for lack of pleasing entertainment, embracing a wide variety and exceptional merit.

If Mr. Windom,

now had refunded at 2 per cent., he would have had something to brag about; but it is scarcely worth his while to keep on oragging about a transaction which provd, as plain as need be, that he and his political act were all in the wrong last winter, and that the Hayes veto of the funding bill, at the demand of certain banks and certain politicians, was an act of egregious folly.

A Proper Move.

Pittsburgh Post. The suggestion of Mr. Hensel, of Lancaster, in the Democratic state committee, for a committee of seven, of which Mr. Dill is to be chairman, "to draft rules for the government of the party in the state. these rules to be laid before the next state convention," is a move in the direction of greater efficiency in the organization, and we are glad, as stated in the Post yesterday, it was adopted. The rules under which the party now acts, are merely the usages of the last half century, and we don't think there has been any advance in that time. Our state conventions are constituted and conducted as they were fifty years ago, when attendance on them from the western part of the state occupied a week and sometimes longer, and everybody moved and thought slower than they do in these days of steam and electricity. We have some very decided views as to devising new party rules, so as to secure greater efficiency in campaign work, and will recur to the subject at another time.

REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE. Brandy as a Medicine.

Mr. H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physi-cian of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice It is commended to the attention of those at-

Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abased Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miserable dis-

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly,

A Sovereign Remedy or all their ills and aches. Be it, however strictly understood that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is

REIGARTS OLD BRANDY, Sold by our enterprising young triend, H E SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as the as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies no matter with how many jaw-breaking French, titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case or ases. In proof of the curative powers of In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Braudy, In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Koot Beer. He is a Mcthodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try

Reigart's Old Brandy. Reigart's Old Brandy,
In his case, he looked up with astonisament, but after hearing of its wonderfut effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, in at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, will,
a stomach capable of digesting anything which helphose to cat. He still keeps it and uses a liftile occasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
