Mistaken Identity.

A Batch of Amusing Anecdotes. The numerous instances of mistaken identity on record are constantly receiving new additions. There is an amusing account of a French lady who was very jeal-ous of her husband, and determined to watch his movements. On one occasion when he told her he was going to Ver-sailles, she followed him, keeping him in sight until she missed him in a passage leading to the railway station. Looking about her for a few minutes, she saw a man coming out of a glove shop with a rather overdressed lady. Making sure from the distance that this man was her husband, she came suddenly up, and without a word of warning gave him three or four boxes on the ear. The instant the gentleman turned round she discovered her mistake, and at the same time caught sight of her husband, who had merely called at a tobacconist's and was crossing the steeet. There was nothing for it but to faint in the arms of the gentleman whose ears she had boxed, while the other lady moved away to avoid a scene. The stranger, astonished to find an unknown lady in his arms, was further startled by a gentleman seizing him by the collar and demanding what he meant by embracing

"Why, she boxed my ears, and then exclaimed the aggrieved genfainted,

"She is my wife," shouted the angry husband, "and would never have struck you without a cause." And worse than augry words would probably have followed had not the cause of the whole misunderstanding recovered sufficient to explain how it

A London paper gave an account of an-other case of mistaken identity in connection with a distinguished personage. An aged couple, in high life, who were cele-brating their golden wedding, by way of concluding the festivities on that occasion, adjourned with their children and their respective belongings to a theatre, in which, to accommodate so large a party, two boxes had been knocked into one. The eldest son, who strongly resembles his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, stepped forward and occupied the centre seat, with the ladies of the party beside him, upon which the orchestra struck up the national anthem, and the audience rose to their feet en masse, the innocently unconscious party of course, doing the same

There is no doubt that people of rather unusual proportions had an awkward time of it when the claimant was at large. A story goes that a corpulent gentleman once took a box at the Canterbury hall. First one person, then another, eyed him, until at length the counterpart of the claimant became the centre of observation. A cheer arose, the singing was suspended, and an ovation was the result. The supposed Sir Roger rose and bowed his acknowledge-But this was not enough. He must The manager announced that "Sir Roger" had a cold, and could not speak. Fearing the consequence if the audience discovered their mistake, he had the "claimant" removed as quietly as pos-

The intoxicated bricklayer who squared up to a post and maintained a one-sided fight affords an absurd illustration of mistaken identity; but if we can rely upon newspaper reports, such ludierous incidents are surpassed by what is said to have happened in the neighborhood of Morecambe. Sometime ago the body of tree. a human being was found lying on the beach near the place above named, having undoubtedly been left there by the receding tide. The usual preparations for holding an orthoday incomes are not belding as no what was supposed by the discoverer to be holding an orthodox inquest were put in force and kept going, until the examination of a medical man proved the suspecta monkey, which had probably been thrown overboard from some ship, and which so closely resembled in appearance a human being as to require the doctor to the beautiful to the b ed human corpse to be but the carcass of tell the difference. Such a mistake looks monkey, or an unconscious satire upon ST. PAUL'S M.E., CHURCH, S. QUEEN ST. human nature, calculated to delight all believers in the Darwinian theory.

A not unnatural mistake was that made by the policeman who arrested a Dublin youth under what appeared to be suspicious circumstances. The young gentleman referred to was at a party in the Irish capital, and joined with great spirit in a game of forfeits. Amidst the fun and merriment, it was proposed that to regain his forfeit he should pay a visit to the turf stacks on the adjacent canal bank, and bring some turf into the room. Thinking only of the diversion that his return with an armful of turf would create, he immediately hastened to the place indicated, filled his arms, and was in the act of returning, when, to his horror, he became aware that a policeman was in pursuit. 'Almost paralyzed with fright, he dropped his burden and awaited the officer's arrival.

"Oh, constable," he stammered, "I've been playing a game of forfeits, and was told to bring some turf from the canal "Not a bad story; but you'll have to come with me," declared the constable. There had been continued complaints of turf-pilfering, so, regardless of his protes-tations, the unlucky youth was locked up for the night. The first intimation his merry-making friends received of his whereabouts was when next morning they heard that he had been explaining the mistake to the presiding magistrate, who fortunately comprehended the case in a moment, and dismissed it.

An Old Friend. He was afflicted with a lame back and general debility; he was recommended Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which cured him at once. This famous specific is a positive remedy for bodily pain. For sale at H. B. Cochran's drug store, 137 North Queen street, Lancaster.

A Baptist Minister's Experience. A Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Paptist minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil always relieved me. My wite and child had diphtheria, and "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured them," and it taken in time it will cure seven times out of and "Thomas' Eclectric On cured them," and if taken in time it will care seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and it any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by suffing as hard ag they can, until nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever lelt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I am very anxious to see it in every place, to I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suf-tering with a pain like rhounatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas Eclectric Oil. Dr. E. F. CRANE, For sale at H. B.
