FALL OF AN ELEVATOR.

But Bad Enough for Some Who Rode on It. About noon to-day an accident, which might have been a great deal more serious than it was, occurred at the new tobacco warehouse, on West Lemon street, which is owned by the Messrs. Bumgardner, and is occupied by D. B. S. Kendig.
The building has an elevator in the centre of it, which runs from the third story to the basement and is used for moving tobacco cases from one floor to another. After the men who had been working on the third floor stopped for dinner twelve of them boarded the elevator to ride down. The names of the party were as follows : David Carr, Frank Scheid, Ed. Hoover, Henry Caruthers, David Hardy, Peter Wagner, George Carr, Scott P. Lytle, Harry Kautz, Harry Aument, Harry Kuhns and Ed. Boas. They had just boarded the elevator when t was started, and descended into the basement with frightful rapidity, striking very hard at the bottom, very much to the astonishment of the men, who were thrown off in all directions, while some were injured. Scott P. Lytle, living on South Queen street, had a bone in one of his feet broken; Ed. Boas re-ceived a terrible cut on the back of his head and it was thought that his skull was fractured; he was unconscious for a short time, but when the physicians examined him, it was found that his skull had not been injured, but he had received a slight concussion of the brain his arms were also bruised. He was removed to the Black Horse hotel, where he boards. Ed. Hoover, residing on Water street, had his leg sprained and had to be removed to his home. Several other of the men were bruised about the arms and legs, but it is very fortunate

How the accident occurred is a mystery as yet, but probably the weight was too heavy for the elevator. At all events after the accident occurred it was found that all the cogs were broken from the small wheels at the top and a number were broken from the large one. The long box in which the weight works was torn from the side at the top. When the elevator struck at the bottom the wire rope came off the wheel.

WEDDING IN LEWISTOWN.

Marriage of a Son of Jay Cooke to a Lady of

The morning papers have additional particulars to those published in the In-TELLIGENCER of the marriage in Lewistown, Pa. yesterday of Miss Esther Rus-Hart and the Misses Mayer. The groom, Mr. Harry E. Cooke, is a son of Mr. Jay Cooke, the famous banker, and is soon to take clerical orders in the Episcopal church. The wedding has been the theme of social conversation for the past three weeks in Lewistown. At precisely 11:02 the bridal party entered the room. First were followed by the third, second and Mr. Geo. W. Ryon, of Pottsville, who has been visiting his cousin John F. Hook, under a magnificent arch with a beautiful horseshoe of white buds. The ceremony was performed by Dr. E. W. Appleton, an uncle of the bride. The groomsmen were Mr. Dick Howell, Mr. W. P. Stevenson, Lieutenant Fred. Cooke, 18th regiment, regular army, and Mr. Pitt Cooke. The brid smaids were Miss Bessie Myers, Miss Miriam Woods, Miss Mamie Cooke and Miss Sallie Franciscus.

The bride's dress was white satin de Lyon and brocade, and her bridesmaids were dressed in mull and lace. She received over eighty presents in all, the most important and most elegant being a grand piano from the groom's father, an elegantly engraved gold watch and chain from the groom, and a fine ebony cabinet. Three handsome heavily-ornamented clocks, six dozen silver spoons, knives and forks, one cathedral clock, pair of crackleware vases, a solid silver tea service, together with a large number of china ornaments, were also given. The newly married pair expect to visit friends in Ohio, where they will remain for a short time. Then they will return to Philadelphia, where they expect to reside. Quite an amusing and interesting feature was the cutting of a bridesmaids' cake in which had been placed a gold ring, it being supposed that the fortunate bridesmaid would be married first. The first, second and third with anxious looks, half in hope, half in fear, cut in vain, but it was left for the fourth bridesmaid, who was rendered happy and enviable by striking the golden band.

How it May Be Found and What is Expected of it. A clear sky and a dark night favored the gazer at this new comet which appeared last night under the star Merak, forming the northern lower corner of the Dipper. It has been visible for several nights after 9 o'clock, and has moved slightly to the west of an imaginary line drawn from the North Star to the horizon. By looking carefully at this point the observer will see two tolerably bright stars close together and isolated from the others. The one to the right is the comet, while on the other hand and a little above, Merak burns more steadily, but scarcely as brightly as her inconstant companion. The dim and tenuous tail is discovered after a moment. though it is not conspicuous, but an opera glass brings it clearly into view. At Long Branch, Manager Yecker informs us, the troupe played under the auspices of the Christian Ladies' association, before an audience composed mainly of ladies. Special attention has been given to the musical portion of the programme, and some novel and amusing instrel effects have been introduced.

Secretary Blaine's Dispatch. Washington, Aug. 24.-The following was sent this afternoon: To Lowell, Minister, London :

According to the opinion of his physicians there is no marked change in the president's condition since last dispatch. At this hour (half-past 1 p. m.) there is some indication of an increase of fever which they say is in part caused by the increased heat of the day. He continues to take liquid food and does not seem troubled by nausea or indigestion. [Signed]

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24, 2:15 P. M.-Unofficial.-A careful examination this morning convinced the surgeons that pus had already begun to form in the paroud gland, and as the patient's condition was satisfactory it was decided to make an incision immediately after the morning examination. The operation was a comparatively trifling one, and was performed by Dr. Hamilton without the use of anæsthetics, local or general, but with anæsthetic precautions in the shape of a carbonic acid spray. The cut was made just under and forward of the right ear, and resulted in the liberation of a small quantity of healthy pus ation of a small quantity of healthy pus estimated by Dr. Bliss to be about equivalent in bulk to two medium sized peas. The patient's pulse went up to 115 immediately after the went up to 115 immediately after the operation, but soon began to recede, and in half an hour had fallen to the point at which it stood when the examination was made for the noon bulletin, viz., 104. No Further Glandular Trouble Feared. The patient is now resting quietly, and his general condition is in no respect worse than before the incision was made. It is thought that there will now be no further trouble with the pariotid gland, since if more pus forms it can readily escape through this opening.

The patient has swallowed to-day about fourteen ounces of liquid food, consisting principally of Beef extract, peptonized milk and milk porridge. At this hour he continues to do well.

The opinion is based on the ground that the original contractor in such event does not perform the service and that the purchaser of a contract violates existing

A moonlight drive would cost at least three dollars, and as he agitated seventeen cents in his right trousers pocket he surveyed the lunar orb with a knowing gaze, and remarked: "I should be happy to take you, but it's a wet moon, and you know you are so liable to catch cold, dear." The next morning the disappointed maiden observed to her mother: "Charley and I have quit. He knows a heap about the weather, but he's a perfect ignoramus about me."
