"Who'll make a fire to bake the bread?" Said the Mouse again, "Not I!" And scarcely opening his sleepy eyes Frog made the same reply. The little Red Hen said never a word, But a roaring fire she made; And, while the bread was baking brown,

"Who'll set the table?" she said. "Not I!" said the sleepy Frog, with a yawn "Nor I!" said the Mouse again. So the table she set, and the bread put on-Who'll eat this bread?" said the Hen.

"I will!" cried the Frog. " And I!" squeaked the Mouse, As they near the table drew. "Not much you won't!" said the little Red

Brooklyn Eagle. "I ain't having as good luck with my plants this year as usual," sighed Mr. Miles, as he dodged a blacking brush and contemplated the wreck of a geranium bed on which the missile landed. "Why not?" asked a friend who had dropped around to see the garden. "Because," replied Mr. Miles, as a boot flew past his ear and knocked over a beautiful passion flower, "because when I use the hose to sprinkle the shrubbery the people upstairs can't get any water. You'd better stay under the arbor," he continued as an ink bottle hissed through the air and crashed through a rose bush. "They are doing that to attract my attention and make me turn the water off. If you should go out there you might get hurt."

"But I should think it would injure your flowers," suggested the guest.

"It don't do 'em any good," groaned
Mr. Miles, eyeing an old oil can, as it ricotted through a patch of fushsias, "But what is a fellow to do? Plants must have water. By Jove! There goes my Japanese lily !" and he contemplated the soap dish that did it with a melancholy glance. "I don't see any use in that. Those folks have got all day to wash in, and yet they grudge me a few hours in the morning and a few more at night.' "Can't you make some kind of arrangements with them ?" "I haven't yet," replied Mr. Miles, bed of verbenas. "There is-whoop! there goes my calla !" he exclaimed, as : cuspidore mashed the fragments against the fence. "I thought a good deal of that lily, but I reckon it ain't much good

"But I wouldn't allow anybody to ruin my garden like that !" exclaimed the guest indigmently.

"I know, but if I make any fuss they'll cut up, all the worse," moaned Mr. Miles, as a bootjack caught him in the small of the back. "That was lucky, wasn't it?" he grinned. "If it hadn't been for mehalloa! that pink lias outlived its usefulness!" as a hammer flopped down on it.
"What I'm most afraid of is they'll get to heaving furniture and clocks and looking glasses down here."

"Why on earth don't you turn off the water and save your flowers ?" "Can't! If I don't water 'em they'll die anyway, and I'm in hopes the folks will dislocate their arms sometime. Holy smoke! There's my heliotrope busted!" and he gazed on the stair rod that did the damage with tearful eyes. "I've spent hundreds of dollars on this garden and I hate to see it bowled over like ten pins. There goes a dahlia, but I don't mind that

"Did your folks break in your hothouse panes like that ?" asked the visitor.
"Oh, I don't know!" sighed Mr. Miles. "I guess a cat fight got in there. The cats are most as bad as the family. When one ain't shying bric-a-brac the other will get up a prize row, and between 'em it puts me to expense. Whew! that ends my tuberose !" he murmured, as a stove lid banged through it. "I guess I'll let up now, or there won't be anything left to

And Mr. Miles coiled up his nose, and with a parting look at his wretched flowerbeds, dodged a door knob and went mournfully to his supper.

A Portrait of Dr. Holland.

There is hardly a literary man in America whose writings have been more widely read than those of Dr. J. G. Holland, nor one whose name is better known among the people. It is said that nearly 600,000 copies of his books have been sold, to say say nothing of the enormous sale each month of Scribner's Monthly, over which he presides as editor-in-chief. The Century Co., publishers of Scribner's (to be known as " The Century Magazine" after October), will soon issue a portrait of Dr. Holland, which is said to a remarkably fine likeness; it is the photograph of a life-sized crayon drawing of the head and shoulders, recently made by Wyatt Eaton, and will be about the size of the original picture. It is to be offered in connection with subscriptions to The Century Maga-

Brandy as a Medicine.

The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physi-cian of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice It is commended to the attention of those at-

Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims, With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miserable disease.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, A Sovereign Remedy or all their fils and aches. Bo ft, however strictly understood that we prescribe and us-but one article, and that is REIGART'S OLD BRANDY,

Sold by our enterprising young friend, if E SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore as our experience extens, and we increment give it the preference over all other Brandies nomatter with how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case or pass. In proof of the curative powers of ases. In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Brandy,

In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite:—
A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour cructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed carnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try Reigart's Old Brandy, In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stometh capable of directing anything. a stomach capable of digesting anything which hechose to cat. He still keeps it and uses a little occasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the dector.—A Paacrising Physician.
