Lancaster Entelligencer.

MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 5, 1881.

The President.

The burden of all the advices from Washington, for the past few days, has been " no loss, no gain." The uneasy feeling which went over the country yesterday morning, when the unfavorable symptoms of vomiting were reported, showed how easy it is for the bulletin to unduly stimulate or depress public condence in the hopeful condition of the nation's patient. A week ago he was reported and universally believed to be dying. Nobody doubted it. And just when the most hopeful of his physicians announced his despair, came the turn for the better. Since then a steady improvement has been reported and, on the other hand, within three days after the president had been at death's door the general solicitude had been abated by the cheerful report from his bedside, and his certain recovery was generally believed to be only a matter of time. Now it is reasonable to believe that no sufferer, especially one with such a complication of troubles, could be so soon lifted from the valley of the shadow into the sunlight of the mountain peaks. The president is better, to be sure, but

If there is any force in the constitutional provision for his inability it is plain that the problem arising from the direction of that instrument may as w ll be met first as last. Mr. Garfield will not be able to do any of the duties of his office for many months to come. If they are to be left undone somebody is taking a very great responsibility. If they are to be done the vice president is plainly the proper person to undertake them.

he is very far from the hopeful condition in which the popular mind has regarded him for the past few days. His recovery is not by any means assured, and it must be, at all events, a matter of very long time and suffering and of patient application of medical skill.

-The governors of this and other states, it will be seen, have appointed to-morrow as a day of prayer by their people for their suffering president. Why the call comes so late, or on such short notice is not explained. The clergy had hardly opportunity to announce their response to it to their congregations yesterday, though in this city, and elsewhere doubtless, they have arranged for the services as requested and given such publicity to their announcements as the time will permit. Mayor MacGonigle, it will be seen, recognizes the fitness of things and officially emphasizes the call with a local application of it.

The Indian Massacre.

The terrible news of the bloody massacre of Gen. Carr and his entire command, about a hundred and fifteen of our itself. soldiery, by the Apaches, is confirmed, and nothing of most despicable and cowardly treachery seems to have been lacking in the means by which the slaughter was accomplished. Superstition seems to have been at the bottom of it in the pretensions of the medicine men and the demoralizing effects of their influence among the Indians. This led to the arrest of one of these influential pretenders, which was resented by the killing of Lieut. Cruse and the killing of the medicine man in turn, hence the general massacre. There seems to have been some terrible blunder in the management of these bloodthirsty red-skins and in the knowledge of their movements. It required a considerable number of them-and they only number eight hundred all told-to have effected such a massacre of the troops, and the Indian agent is said to have continually reported none off their agency.

Reports of white treachery in conjunction with the natural ferocity of the Indians, and of Mormon affiliations with the murderers, will only serve to intensify the frontier and military ardor for vengeance, and bloody reprisals may be looked for before long. The humanitarian view of the Indian question will ribly unfortunate. It is marked by one ceases pulpit work for a few months. unending alternation of outrages on them, and their outrages in turn. Plenty of good people are well convinced that the only solution of the problem is their mismanagement are " a century of dishonor." Certainly as the stronger and the wiser race, the whites are mainly responsible for the trouble; for even if the true policy is one of repression by violence, it has not been wisely or steadily pursued.

THE mere finding of arsenic in the body of the dead girl, Jennie Cramer, who has been the subject of two weeks investigation in New Haven, does not even point to her murder by poison. On the contrary it looks like the escape of the coroner's jury from a problem which they could not solve. She was a notorious eater of arsenic, for her complexion. like many other silly and vain young women, and this accounts for the results of the analysis of her stomach. Shameless as her lustful lover was it must be admitted that as yet the investigation has hardly produced a prima facic case to prove anything but his moral responsibility for her fate.

THE English correspondent of the New York World devotes a good deal of mas card manufacturers in London who Gould. offered high prices for competitive designs. If the correspondent had read his own paper regularly he would have known that this is a Yankee scheme, practiced for years by American publishers. In the way of business enter. machine. While this was in operation prise the Londoners cannot teach New York and Boston much. Nor are the suddenly exploded. The pieces of the World correspondent and his London ex- boiler flew in all directions and the steam hibition unique in discovering that the poured forth in dense volumes. Six men best design in these competitions never takes the first prize.

THE New York Democrats, with a very fair show of carrying the state this very fair show of carrying the state this fall, already manifest signs of not doing drowned in the Delaware at Chester on it by waging a fierce internecine war- Saturday neight.

fare. Until they can unite on a plan of ending representative delegates to their state convention in whose selection every member of the party can particiate there will be no "peace with honor" among the Demograts of New MINOR TOPICS. THE wheat harvest in Minnesota is finshed, and the yield is estimated at 34,000,-000 bushels, about 3,600,000 bushels less the massacre by firing on our troops is also than last year.

THE Democratic selectmen of Franconia, N. H., have given the name of "Gar- which are admirably adapted to serve as field " to the point heretofore known as ambuscades for the Indians, The moun-"Haystack Mountain," located at Fran-

FASSE, Greenback candidate for state enator in Davis county, Iowa, has been compelled to withdraw from the canvass, by the public indignation excited by a remark he made recently, that "President Garfield was a meaner man than Guiteau "

THE Mexican department of public work after an it vestigation of the Morelos rail. they reported none in the canon, he blindly way disaster, finds the company, its chief advanced until he reached the spot where engineer and the government engineer responsible for the calamity. The company will be prosecuted civilly and the engineers a conspiracy between the scouts and the hostile Apaches, and that Col. Carr and

THE Chicago Times publishes reports of the Western hog crop, indicating that it will fall behind that of last year, both in he fell, and before the smoke from the number and quality. The number has decreased about one-fourth, and, owing to a deficiency of fattening food, the animals are small in size and poor in condi-

THE New York Herald ridicules with ocrats should not organize the Senate. It recalls the fact that the Republicans never orders to his troops in this terrible failed to take advantage of such opportunities and concludes: "No, the political advantage which the Democrats enjoy rections, and the work of destruction was in the condition into which a Republican blunder has put the Senate is a perfectly fair one. They have a complete right to improve it, and the country will incur no danger from their doing so. It will be 'an act of supreme folly ' on their part if they do not."

THE New York Times, which has made war most vigorously of the star route robbers, confesses its apprehension that it Indians have come through and they all will be impossible so bring them to justice. And the World points out that our esteemed Republican contemporaries that have displayed so much enterprise and deprospect is not encouraging for those

PERSONAL.

MAUD GRANGER'S costumes in "The Galley Slave" cost $5,000. WILLIS P. HAZARD, West Chester, has been appointed one of the faculty of Delaware college, located in Newark, where he will deliver lectures on agriculture.

Lorenzo Delmonico, the famous caterer of New York, died at Sharon Springs, on Saturday evening, aged 71

Captain WILLIAM L. HANSCOM, a retired naval constructor, died at Maiden, Massachusetts, on Saturday, at the age of 69 years. He was the builder of the doubleturretted monitor Monadnock. Rev. Joseph Balfe, D. D., professor of Dogmatic and Moral Theology and Ecclesiastical History in the seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, at Overbrook, died yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. At a soldiers' reunion in Lenawee county, Michigan, last Wednesday, Colonel Amos Sopen, 83 years of age, was introduced as "the only Lenawee county survivor of the war of 1812." He went was dead on Friday. Rev. S. O. GARRISON, preacher in charge of the Thorndale and Hibernia Methodist churches, has resigned his charge on acagain fall into disfavor, and the doctrine | count of failing health. He contracted a that the only good Indian is a dead In- heavy cold last spring which seemed to dian be again welcomed. Our manage- settle in a bronchial affection which the ment of the aborigines seems to be ter- physicians say they cannot cure unless be

At a dinner given by a private gentleman of New York, at which JOHN QUINCY ADAMS was one of the guests, there were fifteen varieties of Madeira wine on the extermination, and about as many others | table, and such an expert and connoisseur know that our hundred years of Indian | was Mr. Adams that he was able to name nine of the varieties by the taste and bouquet without seeing the labels on the bottles.

E. H. RAUCH, formerly of this city and now the editor of the Mauch Chunk Democrat, has been pitching into the managers of the Switchback for charging high rates. Theodore Munford met him a few days ago, and calling him a liar, said he would whip him for two cents. The money was not forthcoming and the thrashing was postponed. This week Rauch goes for the bully and calls him a "beastly, cowardly blackguard."

GRANT has become brusque in manner. more dashing in dress and more talkative than ever before. Sometimes he wears a blue neektie with a red dot in it, and occasionally the plaid pattern of his trousers is very large as to squares, and sensational as to effect. They say he is making money. Childs says that Grant came back from his trip around the world comparatively a poor man, and before the Chicago canvass was over he was a poor man in fact. Now, however, he is worth a clear three-quarters of a million, made space to commending the novelty and in conservative stock speculations, in ingenious enterprise of a firm of Christ. which he was guided, and is yet, by Jay ancholy in consequence.

> Seven People Hurled Into Eternity. Near Patoka, Ill., on the farm of Mr. James, the owner of the property had among a number of new inventions and labor-saving machines, a steam threshing Saturday morning and surrounded by a and one woman were hurled into eternity. Several of them were horribly mangled. Several others were seriously injured, being scalded by the escaping steam.

BETRAYED BY HIS SCOUTS. THE TREACHERY WHICH LED TO THE CARR MASSAURE.

A Conspiracy Between the White Mountain Band and Col. Carr's Scouts—The Troops led into an Ambush and Ruthlessly Murdered.

There is no longer room for reasonable doubt that Col. Carr and all his men have been treacherously killed by the savages. The report that the Indian scouts attached to the expedition proved traitors and began confirmed. The country in which the massacre occurred is peculiarly fitted for the scene of a tragedy such as this. It consists of a succession of deep canons and gorges. tains are heavily timbered with pine and fir trees, and a few men placed in the right position could easily destroy an entire battalion of soldiers, when the troops were decoyed into the ambush. The couriers who have come into Camps Grant and Thomas describe the locality where the massacre took place as a narrow valley near a canon, the sides of which are heavily timbered, and thus afford a fine covering for a party in ambush. Col. Carr had trusted to his Indian scouts to inform him of any ambuscade in his front, and as he met his death. There can be no doubt that the massacre was the direct result of his men were deliberately led to the slaughter pen by the scouts.

The firing was begun by the scouts, and Lieut. Cruse was the first victim. As soon rifles of the scouts had cleared away, the White Mountain Apaches arose from their ambush in the brushwood of the canon and opened fire upon the troops in an opposite direction. Col. Carr and his command were thus between two fires, and the colonel seems, from the accounts of the couriers, to have become perfectly bewildered by the suddenness of fitting satire the suggestion that the Dem- this double attack. Before he had time to collect his thoughts or to give proper emergency the White Mountain Indians and his own treacherous scouts rushed in upon the doomed band from opposite disoon completed. Not a member of the two companies has as yet been heard from and it is believed that not a single soldier escaped to tell the story of the massacre. The reports thus far are all from friendly Indians, no white couriers having, up to this time, come in, but the commanding officers at Camps Grant and Thomas have the utmost confidence in the Indians who have brought the news, and they announce their belief in the story. A great many give the same account of the massacre. There is scarcely room for a particle of doubt that the brave Carr and his gallant force have been exterminated. There is a well-grounded fear in Arizona cency in arranging President Arthur's that the uprising will be more general than cabinet before President Garfield is dead it was at first thought to be, from the fact have only agreed in one detail-Mr. that Chief Pedro, who has gone on the James will not be in that cabinet ! No war-path, is an Indian leader of unusual matter what the outcome, therefore, the good sense and judgment. It is believed that he would never have joined in the movement unless he had been urged to it credulous people who have believed that by his followers and had received assurances the Republican party intended to reform of support from the other branches of the

Apache tribe. seems to have been the strange hallucination of the medicine men, who pretended that they were able to raise departed chiefs from the grave, to lead the Apaches on to victory over the whites, and the superstition of the Indians, who believed in their power to do this. In August of last year a band of White Mountain Indians, under Chief Petone, who lived about 800 miles north of Camp Apache, killed a chief named Diable, of the same tribe, who lived on the San Carlos res ervation. Upon the news of death, Diable's band, accompanied by the agency police, started for Camp Apache to revenge him. They found Petone and his band camped in a strong position on Chilo Creek, and were unable to dislodge him. Soon after, however, Petone was killed by members of another band, and Diable was avenged, though not by his own band. Soon after this two chiefs of different bands of the White Mountain tribe fought a duel, and both were killed. These three braves, the medicine men pretended that they could raise from the dead, to lead the Apaches to victory, and drive the white man from the country. Noclaydit Kleuna is the name of the principal medicine man. Col. Carr had orders from Gen. Willeox, who saw the influence which they were exerting home next day sick with dysentery, and over the White Mountain Indians, to arrest them all, and it was in obedience to this order that the expedition started from Camp Apache. The Indian scouts seem to have believed in the medicine men, too, and to have determined on preventing their arrest. They did this by betraying Col. Carr and his command to the Indians in > for the massacro by making the attack. The situation of Col. Carr's wife, who remains at Camp Apache, is particularly distressing. She has not only lost her husband, but her son, who was with his father at the time of the massacre. was 18 years of age, and had recently returned from the East, where he had been attending school, to pass his vacation with his parents. The Mexican authorities, who have a force of about 400 men on the border, have been informed of the outbreaks, and have expressed a willingness to look out for the enemy in the neighborhood of the border, and to do all in their power to aid the American forces.

ambush, and themselves giving the signal

LATEST NEWS BY MAIL.

Gen. W. H. Avery, who lately died in Geneva, N. Y., was a representative leader in the oil trade.

Guiteau was burned in cfligy on Niagara Squara, Buffalo, in presence of about 3,000 people, on Saturday night.

John Pomeroy, the well-known Lake captain, who recently attempted suicide. as died in the hospital, at Chicago. The ninth annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen will take place on the Potomac river next Thursday In Newark, N. J., Owen McFadden was struck by John Quinn during a quarrel and falling against a heavy door died in a few

Elijah Axley was murdered by Robert Triplett, in a quarrel, near Madisonville, Tennessee, provoked by Triplett courting Axley's daughter in opposition to her fathers wishes. Louis J. Braillard, a silk dyer, hanged himself in his shop, in New York. He had lost all his grown children within the last three years and suffered from mel-The Jennie Cramer jury concluded that she came to her death by poison or vio-lence, James Malley, jr., being held criminally and Walter Malley and Blanche Douglass morally respnsible. The mutilated remains of a Bohemian farmer were found in a field near Cedar being shot six times.

Bloomington, Ill., who recently married a beautiful young lady of that city and on beautiful young lady of that city and on the day following the nuptials was sued for a breach of promise and $25,000 by a the president vomited during Saturday Miss Farley, to whom he had plighted his troth in the mellow days of October, 1880, has returned from his wedding trip and soothed the lacerated feelings of the bereaved young woman by paying her $6,000

THE LOSS OF THE TEUTON.

Only Thirty-six of the Three Hundaed Sixty-one Souls on Board Saved.

A telegram to the Union Mail steamship ompany, London, confirms the account relative to the loss of the steamer Teuton, that the boat containing thirty women and children, of which it was thought at one time there might be some hope, was swamped. The survivors say that two hours before the ship sunk the boats were lowered to a level with the bulwarks, and said the secretary, "he certainly has not provisions and compasses placed in them. one boat broke loose from its fastenings while being launched, and six were brought alongside. About twenty women and children took places in them first. When the water rushed into the engine room the steamer sank by the head carrying with her four boats, which were not fairly clear of the ship. Those of the passengers and crew who rose to the surface clung to the floating wreckage until pickup by those who righted a third boat. At daylight the boats made for Simon's bay, all who were clinging to spars were first taken aboard. The Teuton had 256 passengers, 85 of the crew, and 20 coolies on board. Eleven of the passengers and 25 of the crew were saved.

At the time the steamer struck the weather was clear. It was a moonlight night, but there was a haze along the shore. The striking of the vessel was utterly without warning. After floating the Teuton steamed direct for Simon's bay, but her speed gradually slackened. The compartment which struck the rocks remained sound, but that next to the engine room filled with water, probably through the starting of a plate. Perfect order was maintained among the passengers and crew during their embarkation in the boats. The sudden sinking of the vessel was caused by the collapse of the bulkhead dividing the compartments. The steamer Danube has returned from the search for survivors, having discovered nothing. The corvette Dido has also returned from a earch without finding anything. The secretary of the company writes saying that further inquiries relative to the passengers bound for Kuysna have proved beyond a doubt that they were all, forty four in number, on board the Teuton at the time of her loss, and that only three of them were saved.

STATE ITEMS.

Andrew Goodwin, aged 18 years, son of Captain Andrew Goodwin, of Philadelphia, was drowned by falling into the canal at New Brunswick, New Jersey. The Bradford Era will be universally believed when it says that the establishment of first-class baths in that city "supplies a need that has long been felt." The Philadelphia Democrats seem to be n earnest and solid for Select Councilman John S. Davis for state treasurer. Give Little Harvey Drumbeller, of Sunbury, saved two Baltimore girls from drowning in the Susquehanna. He staid away from nome till his clothing dried and never told of his exploit because his father had forbidden him to go into the river.

A middle-aged man, of respectable appearance, committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself in the head and jumping into the Delaware river from the hurricane deck of the Gloucester ferry boat Dauntless. Lemuel Griffith, an intemperate book canvasser of Mount Carmel, insured for found dead in bed the other morning where his wife had left him alive shortly

Thomas Sommers, 39 years of age, fell out of a third-story window in house No. 1, Joint alley, Philadelphia, and went crashing through a sky-light on a onestory back building. He received a number of serious cuts ond bruises and lies in Erie has recently lost one of her most respected citizens in the person of Mr. Quang Long, who, after six years of strict levotion to the principle of "no checkee no washee," has retired on an accumulated capital of $2,500 and departed for his native land to enjoy a distinction of opu-lence which, as he officially stated, is only equaled in this country by our leading trunk line magnates.

In Forks township, Northampton county, a tramp, who had often been fed by Mr. John Lehr, made a villainous assault upon his wife the other morning before the rest of the family were astir. Though weakened by blows and blinded by blood she managed to call her daughter. They fought him off just as the husband reached the scene with a gun. The scoundrel was pursued, caught and lodged in jail. The Harrisburg Patriot has heard by way of Philadelphia and New York, that its city editor, Kilburn J. Chandler, on Friday night at 9 o'clock, was wounded in the left leg by a bullet discharged from a pistol in the hands of Naudain Hamilton. They had a dispute at a house where they were spending the evening, and on the way thence "to fight it out" the altercation ensued in which the wound was given. Rev. G. P. Stearns, of Mt. Alto, Franklin county, in order to give Christian instruction to a large number of neglected children in his neighborhood, has commenced the building of a church, nondenominational in character. Mr. Stearns has cut sufficient timber for the church and hauled it to the saw mill to have it sawed. He intends to do all the carpenter work himself. To secure means for obtaining other building material he is canvassing, recommended by James Black, esq., of this city, and others.

A "Rampageous" Madman.

Thomas C. Neal was sleeping with David Fagin in a cheap lodging house in Chicago when, some time after midnight, he awoke Fagin by appeals to "save his wife and children." Fagin, bewildered, said : "Yes, yes; I'll come;" whereupon his companion placed a revolver against his check and fired. Neal then ran out of the room, and meeting William Springcord. night watchman, at the head of the stairs, he shot him in the back. The madman reaching the street, successively shot a colored man named Johnson, and two other men named Flynn and Wolf. He then encountered a policeman and levelled at him the now empty revolver, but the officer, after wounding Neal in the neck, arrested and placed him in a cell. The prisoner is about 25 years of age, and not desperate looking. Nearly all his victims are seriously wounded, and it is feared Springcord and Johnson cannot recover.

A Villain Stain. Harwell, alias Love, at Fitzpatrick's on Rapids, Iowa, having been killed by a Jer- elio Montgomery & Eufaula railroad, atsey bull, which literally tore him to pieces. tempted to chloroform a young lady who ed in the house of which he hoarded who approached him, but was killed after He administered the chloroform through a crack in the floor of the room she occu-Near Saltillo, Indiana, John C. Russell, arrested on the charge of stealing a watch, was taken from an officer by a mob and out his purpose three times. Her brotherhanged up three times to extort a confession. The last time he was strung up blood gushed from his nose and mouth and he was resuscitated with difficulty. He protested his innocence all the time.

Mr. Gridley, the rich young man of The President's Condition night, but it appears that the gastric disturbances was only temporary. The patient vomited twice, the last time after taking milk porridge, but he expressed relief after getting rid of the porridge and slept soundly. Yesterday there was no return of the irritability, and he took food as usual, and passed a comfortable day. The parotid swelling has almost entirely subsided, but there is no material change in the condition of the wound. He had little fever, but his pulse was more frequent than during the two preceding days, and he showed more fatigue after the dres ings.' At 6:30 p. m. the pulse was 110, temperature 99 and respiration 18. Secretary Blaine telegraphed to Minister Lowell last night that the surgeons did not think the patient had lost ground; "but," gained ground since last (Saturday) night's despatch." The arrangements for the president's removal to Long Branch have been nearly or quite completed, and it is expected that the removal will be made some time before Wednesday next.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Meeting of Prison Iuspectors. The September meeting of the prison inspectors was held to day, all of its members being present. Wm. A. Kieffer having examined the gas pipe &c., in the prison reported that all the pipes in the dwelling house leak, being clogged with dust ; new brackets are needed and the fixtures in the corridor need repairs; the gas pipe between cells 1 and 20 and 37 and 40 have been drilled into by the prisoners and are in bad condition; new lanterns are also needed on the posts in the yard. The report was received and Messrs. Wolf and Carter were appointed as a committee to have the repairs made. The following bids were handed in for the coal needed during the coming year-150 tons of furnace and 50 tons of range coal: Keller k Reilly, furnace $3.90, range $4.00; Stewart & Son, furnace $3.69, range $3.68; H. Baumgardner & Co., furnace $3.64, range $3.64. The contract was awarded to Messrs. Baumgardner & Co. Frederick Brock was elected messenger and to make himself generally useful at the prison for two months, at a salary of 830 per month.

A resolution was passed notifying the commissioners that $25,000 will be required for the maintainance of the prison during the coming year. The following was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the clerk of the prison is hereby instructed to collect all book accounts due on or before the close of the fiscal year, November 30, 1881. Resolved, That from and after the close of the present fiscal year all running accounts with dry goods or hardware stores must be settled and paid every three months Prayers for the President. On our first page will be found the governor's call for the observance of to-morrow, between 10 and 12 a. m., with prayers and other religious exercises having special regard for the condition of the president. The mayor of this city, it will be seen, has promptly issued his proclaservices, which will be found in our advertising columns. In Trinity Lutheran there will be a number of short addresses pertinent to the occasion. In accordance with the recommendation of the governor, there will be a union service at the First Reformed church tomorrow at 10:30 oclock, to implore the Divine mercy for the recovery of the president in his sore affliction. The service will continue no longer than an hour. $100,000, and supporting his family by Christians of all denominations are corfees received from the policy holders, was dially invited by the following participating pastors: Revs. J. Y. Mitchell, D. D. J. B. Shumaker, D. D., J. Max Hark, J.

A. Peters, S. Stall, and others. Accidental Shooting. A painful accident occurred on Saturday about 2:30 p. m. to Miss Catharine Wolf an aged lady, at her residence No. 443 West James street. After the recent burthe Pennsylvania hospital in a critical glary of their neighbor, Prof. John S. Stahr, the ladies concluded they ought to have the protection of firearms in the house and Mr. Harry Powers, of Geo. M. Steinman & Co., a relative of the family, was requested to bring out a pistol and show them how to use it. After loading it in the presence of the ladies he brought it down with his hand to show them how to use it and in so doing it was, in some unexplained way, discharged and the ball struck Miss Wolf below the knee, entering the bone a considerable distance and in-

New Banking Quarters. By way of preparation for the building of the new bank on the site of the edifice now occupied by the Lancaster County National, the business of this well-known banking institution will be removed tomorrow afternoon to the west room of Gable's building, which has been temporarily fitted up conveniently for the purpose. Colonel Peiper, who has long re-sided in the bank building, has removed to his country home and to his new and handsome mansion on East King street, above Lime; and on Wednesday morning the work of tearing down the present bank building will be begun. The erection of the new building will be pushed forward rapidly.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is the list of letters re maining unclaimed in the postoffice for the week ending Sept. 5: Ladies' List-Mrs. Kate Brubaker, Mrs. Susan A. Elias, Maggie Eicholtz, Louie Fisher, Mrs. Fannie Hense, Ella Myers, Mrs. Annie E. Reynolds, Martha Shrepple, Dolly Strump, Mrs. G. T. Wiley. Gents' List-John Bently, Edw. Q. Brown, Chas. Bridgewater (for.), Levi Deeper, Harry J. Frey, A. Hertzler, John A. Hess, Jos. W. Horst (for.), Jos. Koap, T. B. Mercer, H. Miller, Clarence Nourse, E. J. Prall, Thomas Rees, J. G. Robbins, John Rouea (for.) Badly Kicked by a Horse.

son of George Guyer, residing at Springville, Mt. Joy township, with some other boys attended the colored campmeeting near Elizabethtown. While there young Guyer was kicked in the face by a horse

Died in the West. A dispatch has been received in this city stating that Henry Caldwell has died at Vinton, Benton county, lowa. Deof Mrs. Sarah Caldwell, of South Water street. He learned the trade of turning at Lebzelter's shop, this city, and went west about 16 years ago. He will be buried in tended by a physician.

Decidedly N. G.

says: good; his alleged play is no good; hard fight and a restitution is due him for affair. the suffering, indignities and loss of livelithinks those who saw the play went home to kick themselves for going.

Postal Appointments. C. R. Terry has been made postmaster at Colerain, and G. L. Truman at KirkAMWEG-HAZELTINE.

THE ST. LOUIS SOCIAL SENSATION.

Correspondence Which Vindicates the Tenor The following special to the INTELLI-GENCER, regarding the gossip about John M. Amweg, jr., late of this city, and Miss Neilie Hazeltine, the belle of St. Louis, will be read with interest here and with satisfaction by the young man's friends in Sr. Louis, August 30, 1881.

Thinking your readers might have some interest in matters that have been transpiring in this big Western city, more particularly a certain series of circumstances concerning a young man well known in your community, I have set about gathering some very spicy and interesting facts regarding the matter, with later developin one respect, as it was exceedingly warm in others. Some thirty murderers are now lodged in the Four Courts awaiting trial or execution of sentences, and the list is added to almost daily. The performances at Urig's Cave have also been not unmixed with sensations. This is a large summer theatre, which is much patronized by the ton of the city, who are particularly fond of al fresco entertainments. Ford's opera company had a splendid season of three months, and during that time there were the following episodes: An intercepted billet-doux from a gallant of the masher type, to a lovely girl named Speer, who was in the chorus, which resulted in the filing of a $15,000 libel suit against the Post-Dispatch, the evening paper here; two knock-down fights, in which the two leaders of the orchestra figured; a quarrel in the company resulting from jealousies, and ending with the discharge of the aforesaid beautiful Miss Speer and another lady; and last, but not not least, the highly sensational episode in which the belle of St. Louis, Miss Nellie Hazeltine, a young lady whose reputation had ever been above reproach and whose beauty was of national report, figures in a double barreled flirtation with a comely young chorus singer, John Amweg, who, by the way, has been ridiculed and scoffed at continuously and without warrant; and in order to get the true inwardness of the affair I put myself to some pains and believe for the first time the true version of the affair is given publicity. Mr. Amweg related a very circumstantial story, and he has certainly carried himself through the matter in a manly and self-reliant manner, for the odds were very heavy against him.

Miss Nellie Hazeltine is certainly a very lovely young lady of a refined type of what straggling characteristics, and both beauty, a graceful, spirituelle figure, delicately chiseled features, dark brown eyes mation conforming with the governor's that merely have to plead for amorous call. The clergy of the city, too, have reglances to receive them, and an abund- rough draft in pencil of Amweg's reply, ance of rich dark auburn hair. Her face is one which would be noted in a large audience or congregation where beauty was the rule rather than the exception. She is sensible, experienced, and possesses traits which have made her extremely popular with her associates. As Mr. Amweg says for several nights, she frequented the Cave, occupying with her gentlemen escorts front seats. A companion in the ballet called Amweg's attention to the notice the young lady was taking of him, and he accordingly very naturally watched in return. One evening she took a small bouquet from her bosom, motioned with it, and placed it beside her chair. He made inquiries and was told by several persons who the young lady was. The susceptible young man was no Joseph and he lost no time in following up his conquest. Correspondence and interviews at the lady's house followed, and the belle presented him with several photographs on the back of which were inscribed lines signifying her undying dovotion. Amweg sought counsel of several friends, whon? he considered as trustworthy confidantes, but one these proved unworthy of the trust, and in a brief time the particulars of the affair had reached the ears of her flicting a painful wound which has not as of the affair had reached the ears of her yet been relieved by the extraction of the brother, Will Hazeltine, and her alleged intended, Fred Paramore. Of Amweg's good faith in the matter no better evidence could be furnished than that he sent one of the young lady's epistles home to his and the small piece remained in the hand, mother, who returned it, at his request. Then came the meeting with Messrs. Hazeltine and Paramore. They succeeded in enticing Amweg into an office in the Merchants' Exchange building, and made the Hotel Brighton, Long Island, by an an assault upon him upon his refusing to sign a retraction taking back all he said in regard to Miss Hazeltine. He defended himself as ed from being struck by a bex swing on well as he could, but sustained some severe injuries, one of the bloods using a loaded eane on him with considerable effect. died in June, leaving no heirs to his estate which consisted of about 16 acres of land. They offered him money to get out of Deputy Escheater D. P. Rosenmiller has town and made all sorts of offers to compromise, but these he declined, and the next day his suit was in the hands of a prominent lawyer. A criminal suit was instituted, also a civil suit for loss of position and consequential damages. The taking of depositions was commenced but, as yet, nothing new has been elicited. In the meantime the belle of this affair, has returned from her summering at White Sulphur Springs, and is still en rapport premises. Some of the press have behaved un-

On Saturday evening a seven-year old warrantably bad towards Amweg, and him were palpably untrue. In one paper it was stated that during a supplementary engagement he played at and his injuries may yet prove fatal. He Urig's with Mattie Vickers and was taken to his home where he was atstage. This was made from whole cloth, for quite the contrary is the case. He was well received by the unusually large audience present. His rendition of the "gobceased was 38 years of age and was a son ble-gobble" "bah-bah" duet as Pippo, in "La Mascotte," with Mattie Vickers, was encored several times before the audience was satisfied, so admirably did he sing it. It is no secret that public opinion has from the start been with Amweg-The Pottsville Chronicle man must have been pleased with "Alvin Joslin." He highly complimented for his independence says: "Mr. Davis, as an actor, is no and self-assertion. He certainly had a run and which promises to be a large hood, to which the unfortunate business has submitted him.

On the Other Hand.

him as the profile on a postage stamp, and John Amweg is not quite as gook-looking as the picture makes him out. On the contrary, he is rather an ordinary young man, with but little intellect flashing from his eyes of opal fire. When on the stage, however, with the aid of top-dressing and things, he is quite presentable, and just the sort of a troubadour to gaily touch his light guitar and send her letters home to

He has been re-engaged at the Cave, and will appear there next week, singing "The Heart Bowed Down." No doubt he will be able to jork a great deal of expression into it.

If the ease should go to trial, the key to the situation will be a letter now in possession of the plaintiff's attorneys. is the epistle which Amweg has sent to his mother. Paramore and Hazeltine com pelled Amweg to send a dispatch to his mother, who is summering in Virginia, to mail this letter to him, 2731 Pine street, when, of course, it would have fallen into ments in connection therewith. St. Louis | the hands of the defendants. As this letcannot only boast of a very hot summer ter is the only one in existence of the proof of the alleged flirtation, its possession, as a matter of course, was of vital importance to either side. Amweg had no sooner escaped the clutches of his adversaries than he telegraphed his mother countermanding the previous dispatch and instructing her to send the billet-doux to him at Urig's Cave. The second telegram reached Mrs. Amweg about half an hour after the first, just in time to secure its mailing to Urig's Cave. It arrived there on Tuesday afternoon, and within half an hour afterwards a copy of the missive was in the hands of the Post Dispatch, to the great disgust of both the plaintiff and his attorneys the latter especially being annoyed at the fact.

Until to-day, however, its publication has been withheld in the hope of obtaining a fac-simile copy thereof. As the plaintiff's attorneys decidedly refuse to allow such a copy to be made or the press to even make a verbatim transcript of it, the Post-Dispatch, as usual, in spite of all, presents the letter, inasmuch as it is bound play a most important part of this cause celebre. The letter is as follows:

Sr. Louis, Friday, 22d inst., 1881.

Mr. John Amweg: " If, as might readily be imagined, your recollections of last evening are pleasant ones, and you can offer proof of your being thoroughly TRUSTWORTHY, able to keep a confidence sacred from the jibes of our coarse associates, then answer this epistle, and you will, no doubt, hear something to your advantage and profit before many hours. You appear refined, intelligent, gentlemanly, modest and dignified, elso you would never have attracted the notice of the writer. It is not necessary to go into any explanation of the identity of the writer of this letter to you; and if your response is worthy of it, you will hear again from your triend.

"MISS ELLEN MANGAN. "Care Mr. Wm, Hauk, " West St. Louis Postoffice." The words italicized are all underlined in the original, while those in small capitals are twice underscored. The writing is in a fine angular lady's hand, with some composition and calligraphy point to the author as being a lady of education, and not an ordinary servant girl. On the reverse side of the letter is the in which he states that of course his recollections were pleasant one, and further in quires if he possesses all the characteristies which the lady has given him, and if he is refined, dignified, etc., how could be betray the sacred confidence.

LITTLE LOCALS.

Here and There and Everywhere. Wm. K. Martin has sold to Lederman acres of tobacco at 23, 8 and 4, The York Dispaich thinks the INTELLI-GENCER is a good paper, but "too utter-Democratic.

A Chester county farmer, E. G. Wor rall, near Chatham, who had a $1,000 patch of tobacco, has plowed down the hail-riddled weed Mrs. Franklin Paules, of Marietta, in starting to go down stairs, made a misstep, and fell from the head to the foot of the stairs, breaking both bones of the forearm an inch above the wrist and bruising herself badly. Rev. A. P. Diller, of Marietta, having returned much improved by his summer stay in Canada, had a reception from his parishoners and was presented by the ladies with a dressing gown, pair of slippers and several handkerchiefs There is general complaint against Frank Thomson's wholesale slaughter of the railroad newsboys and the classification and exclusion of daily papers as nuisances, with the faded bananas, gluey gum drops, wilted apples and sour grapes. Last February Mrs. Daniel Kieffer, of New Holland, ran the hooked point of a bone crochet needle into the palm of her hand. The needle broke off about threefourths of an inch from the hooked point annoying her until the other day, when it quietly made its way out.

Davis G. Ziegler, esq., of York, whose mysterious disappearance has caused great anxiety to his friends, was met in front of acquaintance, looking crest-fallen and gloomy. George F. Maebeth, aged cleven, of Harrisburg, has died from injuries receiv-

Independent Island. Perry Martin, of Greenbank, East Earl, declared it escheated in proper judicial Back From Europe.

After an absence of three months and a half in Europe Rev. Alonzo Michael (late pastor of the Little Britain Presbyterian church) returned home on last Thursday, Sept. 1. A few of his many personal friends and admirers gave him a surprise and serenade about 91 o'clock on the evening of September 2 at the house of his mother in law, Mrs. Amelia F. Mewith her friends, who will not accept that their positions at a point where his slum-Sparran. Noiselessly the company took she had done anything wrong in the bers would most easily be disturbed and sang a number of appropriate selections, among which was "Home Again" and "Home, Sweet Home." At the conclu some of the statements made regarding the parlor. Soon Mr. Michael made his sion all were most cordially invited into appearance and was warmly welcomed back again to his home and friends. The affair was a complete surprise to him and he evidently appreciated most heartily this mark of estcem. He is looking better Chas. Rogers, and was hissed from the than when he left home, and says his trip was invaluable to him as a source of information. After partaking of the hospitalities for which the family of Mrs. McSparran is noted the company retired, each one with a feeling of pleasure that they had contributed their part towards this enjoyable meeting.

Concert and Exhibition,

On Saturday evening the Keystone cornet band gave a concert and magic lantern exhibition on the balcony in front of Nim-

Cut With the Shears.

This morning Joseph Bender, employed at the Penn iron works, was working with the small shears, when he was struck in The St. Louis Post Dispatch, of a late date, publishes a pretended picture of Amweg, which does not look as much like broken. Dr. C. H. Brown attended him.