FARM AND GARDEN.

USEFUL HINTS FROM GERMANTOWN TELEGRAPH.

Collecting Fall Waste. Many persons feel the want of manure, and indeed there are few who have more than they can use. Where it is scarce, the first thought is to buy, and often this is the best plan, but in many cases one might make considerably by a little care for articles which usually go to waste.

We know that there are many things recommended that are of little account; things which involve hard labor and yet realize but little in the end. Such are often found in the various schemes for making manure out of tan-bark, saw-dust, swamp-muck, and so forth, which once in a while and under peculiar circumstances may pay for the trouble, but in general they little more than throw away.

But it is always a good thing to keep all parts of one's place in a neat and nice condition, and the material gathered together in this way into the compost heap will generally pay for itself. However careful may be a farmer or gardener to keep things clean, there will often be odd corners that will be left by the pressure of work to grow up to coarse vegetation, which by not being removed when they can be will generally pay in the compost heap. At this season of the year, especially, there is often a great quantity of vegetable refuse of one sort or another lying about. It will pay to collect it, and especially in this time of leaves when they are in any great quantity and not far away.

We have known persons with pretty good judgment to hesitate about taking a second crop from a piece of grass-land in not very good condition because they thought it would be running the ground too hard to do so. They say it is best to leave the vegetation on the ground to rot. This all very well if it did not; but little it does. It mostly dries up, and the best matter is lost. It would pay much better to take it and put it into the compost heap, and then return in the shape of top-dressing afterwards. The extra labor in a case like this pays very well.

Above all is it a good thing for those who have no horns or cow—no horses and no manure, to have a good quantity of compost heap. Every garden might have one in some place, not exposed to view. It is an inducement to have a clean place, and then there's profit in it.

Keep Apples. It is well, especially to touch upon this subject, as the time is approaching when we must prepare room to store the winter apples. In this, as in almost everything else, people differ as to the best method of keeping apples through the winter as well as into spring. Some are in the habit of keeping until June, with the flavor very little impaired. Of course the fruit must be taken in gathering them from the trees, then sorting them and putting them lightly into dry flour casks. The barrel should be heavily lined with straw, and pressed down firmly, being careful not to bruise them. These casks should be left under a dry, open shed until as far into November as the frost will admit. Light freezing weather will not harm the fruit; in fact it is better when there is a frost of freezing that it should be removed. The barrels should then be taken into a fireless room where there will be no danger of freezing; or, which we would much prefer, a cold, dry cellar. When carefully disposed of in this way, there is little risk of apples becoming mouldy throughout the winter and spring, provided they are of a fair keeping variety, such as Smith's Cider, the Carthouse, the Baldwin, the Rhode Island Greening, the Spitzenburg, the Northern Spy, and so on.

It must be remembered, however, that a barrel, say of Baldwins, from one tree and one locality will not perhaps keep as well as a barrel from some other. It may be from some peculiarity of the soil, though perhaps as likely as not from some constitutional defect in the tree. One thing is well ascertained, that fruit from an old and worn out tree will not keep as well as fruit from the same variety of which there may be but a moderate quantity on the tree. It seems to be only when the tree is in its prime, and when it is healthy-looking fruit of any one kind should have the preference as long as keepers.

If these precautions are taken the apple is not hard to keep. Most fall from keeping them to the time when they are ready to eat, the loss is very small. A frequent change from cold to warm is fatal to the keeping quality of any fruit, much less the apple.

If any of the thousands of farmers and fruit-growers who read this paper have any views, or have any suggestions, on this subject, we shall be glad to hear from them.

Liver and Advanced Crops.

It is estimated that the annual production of wine in France amounts to $250,000,000, from five millions of acres planted with grape vines, which is nearly twice the value we derive from the entire wheat crop of the United States in average seasons. The reason of this difference is that the French grape crop is manufactured into its most advanced product—wine—ready for use in its native proportions. One of our wheat crops is exported in bulk, not even manufactured into flour; and so eager and short-sighted are we in our haste to ship this crop that we invest millions of dollars in great railroads, great steamships, and steamships, leaving the most of the profits to the foreigners who manufacture this grain into flour and who sell the flour to consumers. It would be as sensible to export iron ore to England, and bring back the manufactured pig-iron. For the grain we ship to England comes back to us in the shape of hardware, dry-goods, rails and fancy articles of every kind. Our importations of foreign wines are so large that it is worthy to note that California alone has 8,000,000 acres of land adapted to the culture of the grape vine, being three millions more than the grape culture covers in France; but at the present time she has not more than 200,000 acres so planted; the great part of her agriculture being devoted to raising wheat for export in bulk to England by the long and perilous voyage around Cape Horn.

So little profit is made in raising grain for export in bulk that it is not surprising to find the farmers in California and in the Northwest turning their attention to other pursuits. Thus in California the grape culture and the manufacture of wine, the raising of sugar beets and the making sugar therefrom, the rearing of cattle and the export of hides and beef, and the culture of the orange, the lemon, the fig, and other tropical fruits, are all making headway; while in the Northwest butter and cheese factories are rapidly multiplying, wool flourishes, cattle and flax receive increased attention, and some of the vast grain farms are breaking up into vegetable or truck gardens. In fact the primitive forms of agriculture yield sufficient profit. The crop receipts are put through the advanced process before the money value begins to fall. Nothing could show more forcibly than the amazing contrast between the value of the French wine crop and that of the American wheat crop.

Of the two the latter is inherently by far the more valuable; and yet we do not make it so simply because we export the grain in bulk instead of putting it into more advanced products.

An American Hotel in London.

The latest American innovation across the water is to be the erection of a hotel in London by Mr. Austin Corbin and other wealthy New York capitalists, to be conducted on the American plan. The property which the capitalists are seeking to lease for a long term, is that of the Thames embankment, below Westminster Bridge, and convenient to the house of Parliament. It is said that sufficient money has been subscribed with which to build the largest and handsomest hotel in the world. An American plan, would astonish the average Englishman.

CELEBRATED CHROMIUM PILLS. IN THE SECRET. RAILROAD MEN, BANK OFFICERS AND CAPITALISTS AFFECTIONED SERIOUSLY.

A Little Inside Chapter That Will be Read With Interest by the Public. Railroads, banks and capitalists are the great moving and controlling power of the world now, and there is no road, rough road, through which all that attain to eminence must pass and many fall in the fight. Thought, study, mental and brain work is the highway to eminence, and work, thought, worrying, planning, calculating, all feed upon the brain and nervous system, and the result are Nervous Prostration, Heart Disease, Apoplexy, Paralysis, Neuritis, and other diseases. Sufferers with Sick and Nervous Headache, and a sudden dropping out of one's system, or other ailments, find relief in some of its forms. This is the natural consequence; but if the nervous system is fed and supported in proportion to the waste and demands made upon it, these fearful results would not be heard of or known.

The remedy is a simple, sensible one. Simply to feed the overworked, irritable nervous system. And that can be done, and that is being done successfully every day, by the use of Dr. Benson's Chromium Pills, a special preparation for Nervous Disease, Sick and Nervous Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Neuritis and Dyspepsia. These pills are not a patent medicine, but made by a regular physician and used by the profession at large. Sold by all druggists. Price, 50c. a box. Depot, 162 North East street, Baltimore, Md. BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. The following article was voluntarily sent to me by H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for the Old Wine Store, by a prominent practicing physician of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in the enclosed card. It is commended to the attention of those who are afflicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine, and it is one of the most powerful of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. I have a patient who has been afflicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

Ageed, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, a Sovereign Remedy for all their ills and aches. It is, however, strictly understood that we prescribe not use our own article, and that is

REIGART'S OLD BRANDY. Sold by our enterprising young friend, H. E. Slaymaker. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandy. So many of our patients are afflicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia, that we are obliged to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case of Indigestion. In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Brandy, I can name a number of witnesses—one case in particular we cite—

A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had serious and constant constipation; no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to water and bread, and as a beverage he used McLean's Food Drink. He is a Methodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in a recent letter declared earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to use Reigart's Old Brandy, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow their lead, and used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the result was, in a few days, he was able to eat and drink his usual food, and in a few weeks he was able to do his usual work, and has since had no return of his complaint. He is now a confirmed teetotaler, and has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A. FRANCIS FROST, M.D.
