This is, perhaps, largely due to the presence of so much bigotry and intolthe only article of foood on the table. A erance in that profession. The history of medicine is a history which illustrates to the fullest the blighting effect of bigotry and intolerance. Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, was driven out of England. Jenner, the father of vaccination. was oppressed and scoffed at. Thompson, the founder of the Thompsonian theory, was the victim of a hateful conspiracy. Morton, in Mass-achusetts, who introduced the use of ether in surgical operations, was charged with witch craft, and yet the discoveries of these men are to-day reorganized as of infinite benefit to the race. It is the solemn duty of every physician in the land to take advantage of every opportunity which is within his reach : not to pro mote the interests of this or that school, but to heal the people of their infirmities. All have witnessed death-bed scenes and felt that the people are poor. This family has, howif skill were equal to disease death might have been postponed many years ago-that science (if use were made of all the agencies she harevealed) was equal to a cure.
