Basiness Suspended and Services in the Churches-A Very General Observance of the Mourntul Cccasion. Never in the history of Lancaster were there two consecutive days devoted almost wholly to solemn religious services and universal lamentation as were Sunday and Monday last past. Every place of worship in the city was deeply draped in mourning ; the church bells tolled mourn. fully and all the services had pointed reference to the national calamity, while there was a general suspension of business throughout the city. It would encroach entirely too much upon our space, as well as upon the time of the reader, to attempt gelical church and heard an excellent serto give in detail a report of the services in all the churches, we will content outves, therefore, with be reference to some of them.

St. James.

The chancel of this church is very tastefully draped, the altar being hung with black, while the floor and chancel rail are similarly draped. The kneeling cushions are covered with the emblems of mourping and the standard gas posts at the choir are hung with crape, the whole pre-senting a strikingly sombre appearance. At 2 p. m. Monday, the hour announced for the memorial services, the church was crowded The burial service of the Epis- vices on Monday. Several masses were copal ritual was read by the rector, Rev. Dr. Knight, and the full litany by Rev. J. G. Mulholland. The discourse of the rector was impressive and touching and withal in the most admirable taste, and was listened to with profound attention. The music by the choir, who were attired in their black cassocks without surplices, was of a peculiarly fitting character and appropriate to the mournful occasion.

St. John's Free Episcopal.

The memorial services were held in this church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, the church being elaborately draped in mourn-ing. The pastor, Rev. C. N. Spaulding, preached a sadly eloquent sermon in which the dead president's Christian character was fully set forth and held up as an example, especially worthy of the emula-tion of others. The full burial services of the Episcopal church were rehearsed and the choir furnished very fine music, one of the pieces being the anthem, "Lord let man Samson. me know the number of my days." The congregation was very large.

Trinity Lutheran.

Trinity Lutheran church was most elaborately and beautifully draped. The memorial service was held at 10:30 a. m., Monday, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. the camp of the soldiers was visited by Greenwald, the pastor, who delivered a thousands of our citizens, who took a great most eloquent and touching euloguim on deal of interest in the battery and witthe life and character of the murdered president. #### St. John's Lutheran.

An eloquent memorial sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. F. W. Conrad, of Philadelphia, which was listened to by a large and attentive congregation.

Second Evangelical Church.

George H. Thomas post 84, G. A. R. led by Commauder James Sweger, numbering about fifty ex soldiers, and escorted by a body of twenty-five members of the Knights of the Revolution, preceded by a drum corps, attended the Second Evanmon written for the occasion by the pastor, Rev. Krause, and based upon the text found in Deut. 33d chapter, 27th verse. The Hebrews.

A large congregation assembled in the East Orange street synagogue Monday morning at 10 o'clock where impressive memorial services were held. The full Jewish burial service was said in honor of the dead president, a sketch of whose life was also prepared and read. The Catholics.

In all the Catholic churches on Sunday the president's proclamation was read and the people were invited to attend the sersaid in all the churches on Monday, the Litany of the Saints was repeated, and prayers were offered for the president.

In the County. Reports of the observance at Marietta and Mount Joy have been received at this office, but are crowded out.

Assault and Battery.

fair sex. When he sees them on the street without escort he feels that he ought to take them home. He offered his services to a Miss Smith, whom he supposed to be lonesome, but she indignantly rejected his kind offer, whereupon he struck her in the mouth and knocked her down, loosening several of her best front teeth. Near the streets. Franklin house he met another Miss and again proffered his services, and being again rejected, promptly knocked her down. Mr. Hutchinson was thereupon arrested and held for a hearing before Alder-

of each state convention. None of the candidates are sure of victory, but all hope that something will turn up to insure their success. Protracted balloting is among the probabilities. Davis, of Philadelphia, and Noble, of Erie, appear to be in the lead, but if either of the two is nominated it will be Noble. R. WILLIAMSPORT, Sept. 27.

It is impossible to make any forecast the the outcome of the convention. A dozen candidates are here with friends, and all are determined to press for the nomination. None of them will hear to anything except their own success, nor will any consider second choice. Philadelphia is harmonious and nearly solid for Davis. Noble's friends are here in force and hard at work. Kerr has a goad deal of quiet strength. As yet nobody can count on over fifty votes on first ballot, and this indicates a hard struggle-a long and close contest, with as good chance for the present weak as for the strong candidates; a better chance for the dark horse than any. There are whispers of Joseph Powell, of Bradford, or Robert E. James, of Northampton, as possible new men ; neither is a candidate. Noble feels that he is in the dangerous position of leading candidates-not strong enough to win, but with enough strength to combine the field for his defeat. There is no sign whatever of any factional fight. Wallace is busy

Zion Lutheran.

A very large congregation attended Zion Lutheran church yesterday morning, to participate in the memorial services. The pastor, Rev. Mayser, preached a vigorous sermon on the assassination, and the music, prayers and scriptural lesson were all in accord with the unusual solemnity of the occasion.

The Reformed Churches

At St. Paul's Reformed church the:o was a union memorial service at 10:30, Monday, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. B. Shumaker, assisted by Rev. Morrison, of the Baptist church, who read the scripture lesson. The services consisted principally of singing and prayer. The First Refermed church was very beautifully draped, an attractive feature of which was a floral sickle, the emblem of Death, suspended in front of the black covering of the pulpit. The memorial service was held at 2 p. m., Monday, the church being crowded with adults and children. An eloquent tribute to the memory of President Garfield was pronounced by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Peters. The music by the choir was unusually fine, but of the most solemn character. St. John's German Reformed.

The memorial services at this church were held at 10:30 a. m. Monday, and consisted of prayers, hymns, authems and a special serman on the death of Garfield by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Dahlman. The church was draped outside but not within. The attendance was very large.

Duke Street Methodist

A memorial service was held at 10:30 Monday morning, in the Duke street M. E. church, which was very largely attended, the pastor Rev. W. C. Robinson officiating, assisted by Rev. Seilhamer, of the Union Bethel. The service consisted of the reading of the president's proclamation, scripture selections, anthems by the choir, and addresses by Rev. Robinson, James Black, esq., and Revs. McIlwain and Appenzeller. The attendance was very large. The pulpit and gallery were heavily draped in mourning.

The New Rules.

Your committee begs leave to submit the rules appended hereto as fit and suitable for the government of the Democratic party in this state, directing the manner of organizing the state committee and state convention, and providing for their own amendment, alteration or abrogation, whenever the same may appear necessary or expedient. In considering the duty assigned them, and in reaching the conclusions herewith submitted, the members of the committee were guided simply by a desire to meet what seems to be the almost nanimous wish of the party in the state: First. That whatever system of organization is to prevail should be formally expressed, instead of being left to be contended about year after year, as occasions arise which are too often met by the letermination of disputed precedents, according to the interests of the majority, Secondly, To amend the existing unwritten rules in certain features which have been a source of needless and easily-to-be-prevented irritation The members of the committee are confident that a fair examination of their recommendations will disclose no radical changes proposed in those existing regulations which long use has commended to the approval of the party; and that in the respects in which the previous practices have proved deficient or unsatisfactory, practicable orrections are offered. It is proposed to substitute for the present rep-resentation on the state committee the county chairmen ex officio; because they are the best representatives of the local organizations and stand near to the party masses, and their associa-tion will be the most reliable and best representative state council; because, being elected at different times, they will constitute a continuing body, subject to no complete dissolution nor sudden reorganization, and of very gradually changing membership; and, because, by this arrange-ment, there will be avoided the possibility of any conflict of rights or duties between the state com-nitteemen and county chairmen. The annual meeting of the committee is fixed for January, because it is believed its organization and action then will be freer, than otherwise, from the personal and sectional influences which too often interfere with state conventions and control the selection of state chairman with narrower views than for the general party welfare. Besides, in the winter months and between the excitement of political campaigns the most effective work can be devised and put into operation to in-fluence independent and thoughtful voters. The state executive committee, under control of the state committee, is proposed for the special management of campaigns, when a closer atten-tion and greater concentration are needed than can reasonably be expected or is even desirable from the larger body, besides preventing the withdrawal of the state committeemen from their important local duties. The ex officio member-ship of the chairman and secretary of the state central committee in the executive committee will prevent any conflict between these commit tees. In the election of executive officers of these committees the greatest flexibility is desirable to accommodate the selections to varying exigencies, while the minority vote plan of choosing the executive committee prevents misrepresentation or lack of representation of any element of the party. The abolition of senatorial delegates is intend ed to abate an entirely useless system of representation, since every county in the state now has at least one representative, and the selection of senatorial delegates, as well as their anomalous position in the convention, has too often been the occasion of discord and unseemly strife. In many other States they are not known. The necessity of some prima facie roll for a convention is manifest, and no better or fairer way to make it can be devised than that suggest-ed by the committee; the meeting of the whole State committee to revise the list of delegates affords a means of protection from any serious error or fraud, and the rules still permit the committee, in cases of closely contested rights to seats and inability to decide prima facie rights, the power to exclude both contestants from the temporary organization ; fictitious contests, too common in the past, should plainly not bar honest delegates from Frightfal Gunpowder Explosion.

A carload of gunpowder on the Rock Island railroad, at Council Bluffs, Iowa, exploded last evening, shaking the city to its centre, demolishing the round house and car shops, while windows were shat-tered and general havoe done all over the town. Omaha, across the river, felt the shock, and its effect extended for a distance of twenty miles. Loss is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars. No one killed.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27.-For the Middle Atlantic states, fair weather, folowed by increasing cloudiness and local rains, lower barometer, nearly stationary temperature.

A READING PREACHER.

What He Knows About Democratic Sincerity spirit of Berks Interview.

" I did say, and I repeat it, that it is a very convenient thing for those who have slandered this good man in the past, now to make Guiteau and the devil scapegoats to bear away their sins. No one man killed James A. Garfield. There are two elements that made Guiteau-one was the element of partisan abuse (that's the Democratic party) and the other the iniquitous spoils system (that's the Repubhean party.) One year ago there was no more abused man than Garfield. To day he receives a burial such as no king ever had. The same people who slandered President Garfield during the campaign, have mourned over his dead body and laud him to the skies for his goodness and his purity to-day. Either they slandered and lied about him then, or they are insincere now. I take it that they are sincere now, for it is popular to be sincere in this case. Therefore, I argue that they lied and slandered a year ago and they knew it. Take the Reading News, for instance, of our own city. A year ago they printed what they knew to be a lie and a forgery, and, heading it 'Garfield's death warrant, spread it broadcast through this city and county. They knew they were lying, yet they did it anyhow. And I condemn, without any reservation whatever, this spirit of partisan abuse, so common in our country." The representative suggested that Mr. Mills's remarks had given offense to some of the Democratic citizens of the city. To this idea the reverend gentleman replied, "I don't care what they think or what they say. I do not accuse the Democrats of killing Garfield, but I dosay that slander heaped upon the president a year ago, and the infamous Jacksonian spoils system invented by the Democrats and fostered by the Republicans, so wrought upon Guiteau's mind as to bring him to the awful deed he committed. The News quotes me as saying 'I hate Guiteau.' In this, again, they misconstrue my remarks. What I said was 'I hate the practice of partisan abuse and I hate the principles of the cursed spoils system.' Partisan abuse was one edge of the sword that killed General Garfield, and the spoils system the other. I care not what people may say of me; if they wish to take offense at what I have said they can do so, or they can let it alone ; just as the please. I put it even stronger than the papers represent me as doing, though I did not use the words attributed The selection of the temporary organization by the state committee in the manner proposed, will the death of the field and neither one facilitate the proceedings, prevent a needless the death of Garfield, and neither one is less innocent than the other. Ge
