

Lancaster Intelligencer.

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 6, 1881.

One Sided Harmony.

The New York convention was a very tame affair, its special features being long-winded speeches by the temporary chairman, Senator Miller, and permanent chairman, Depew, who is not a senator but wanted to be.

The Lebanon judicial conference suggested by their Dauphin associates the name of Horace A. Yundt, of Berks county, as that of one whom they were ready to nominate.

Mr. Law was born November 30, 1847. He was educated at private schools, as well as at Harvard college and the university of Pennsylvania.

PERSONAL.

M. BONNAT, the celebrated artist, has had a serious fall from his horse.

Ex-United States Senator GILMAN died yesterday at Concord, N. H.

Rev. STUART ROBINSON, D. D., of the Presbyterian church, died yesterday at Louisville, Ky.

TENNYSON has passed his seventy-second birthday. The poet-laureate has been visiting Stratford-on-Avon.

Mrs. LANGTRY is resting quietly at Dinan, one of the smallest seaside resorts of Normandy.

There is a rumor afloat in Paris that Mile SARA BERNHARDT, is about to start and edit a theatrical paper.

MARY E. ALLEN, M. D., a young Philadelphia Quakeress, and a graduate of the Women's medical college of Pennsylvania, class of 1876, has been appointed resident physician at Vassar college, and professor of physiology and hygiene.

The Marquis and Marquise DE ROCHEMONT, on their way to attend the Yorktown celebration, are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childs.

In a letter to Mr. Childs the marquis speaks of the reputation for hospitality this country has gained abroad, and the impression is conveyed that this has been an influence in securing such a large and representative delegation from France to the national fête at Yorktown.

Mr. GEORGE RIDDLE, of Cambridge—who recently distinguished himself by acting Odipus in the original Greek—has resigned his position of teacher of elocution at Harvard university, in order to devote himself to the stage.

Mr. RIDDLE will travel with an English company, and will present "The Odipus Tyrannus," himself acting Odipus in Greek, while the other members of his company present the other characters in English.

Miss GEORGIA CAYVAN has been engaged for the part of Jocasta. The old Greek play will be given with Professor Paine's incidental music for the chorus.

Mr. RIDDLE intends to act for one week in each of the cities of Boston, New York, Baltimore and Washington.

THE RECEIPTS from internal revenue yesterday were $492,535.07, and from customs $771,493.07.

It is proposed to establish cotton manufacture in California. Cotton can be grown profitably in many parts of the state.

NOTWITHSTANDING the phylloxera the wine crop of France this year will be of fair quantity and of exceptionally good quality.

THE PROVISIONAL exhibition opened yesterday at Winnipeg, Manitoba. There are 13,000 entries. The staple products, such as grains, roots and vegetables, are prominent features.

THE CONGREGATIONAL union of England and Wales, now in session at Manchester on Tuesday carried a resolution tendering the thanks of the union to the English and American revisers of the New Testament.

THE meeting of citizens and those temporarily in Washington, D. C., held there last night to promote the establishment of a National Garfield memorial hospital, to be located in that city, was well attended, and much enthusiasm prevailed.

GOVERNOR HOYT has sent a notice to Insurance Commissioner Foster stating that he will not issue any more letters patent to mutual assessment insurance companies. He bases his action on the fact that, as he construes the law, the business is not being conducted legally.

THE trustees of the Peabody educational fund held their regular meeting yesterday at New York. Dr. Curry, the general agent, made his report, which spoke favorably of the advancement that had been made in educational matters in the South and reviewed at length the work that had been accomplished.

A CONTEMPORARY points out the unusual occurrence of circus calamities this season. In May, Elizabeth Davene, a trapeze performer, died in New York from the effects of a fall received in one of her performances. There have been several railroad accidents to circus trains, in which performers were killed and maimed.

In Kentucky last week two men were killed in a collision, and Louisa Montague, better known as the "10,000 beauty," was severely injured, her face being badly lacerated, on Monday Rosa Richardson, Barnum's fat woman, died, and that same night, in Tennessee, Miss Kate, a famous circus tumbler, "kissed his tips" in turning a somersault, broke his head and was killed.

There has also been a heavy loss to circus proprietors by the death of lions, tigers, elephants and other animals, which have here and there fallen victims to the hardships incidental to a summer on the road.

QUAY.

THE PARLOR BOARD INFAMY.

Why did Stone and Palmer do it? From Wolfe's Platform Speech.

The chief engineer of "the machine," the ex-recorder and secretary of the commonwealth, is one who, with his virtue and his patriotism equal to his choice mental gifts and rare sagacity, would be an ornament to any state.

It is he who relieves legislatures, conventions and state committees of all their functions and skillfully moulds them to his own and his fellow-bosses' wills.

What could have induced Attorney General Palmer, who but a short time before had exhorted me, as one of the state's prosecutors, to "new to the line and let the chips fall where they may?"

And the strong lance of justice heartless breaks in rags, a pigmy's straw doth pierce him.

It is money. No. With those men money could not pay the price. What is ambition? Not if an outraged people were to decide. If it was ambition it must be such as "the masters" might gratify against the people's will.

THE ROMAN Catholic college of St. Theresa, the most extensive building of the kind in the province, situated in the village of the same name, twenty-five miles northwest of Montreal, has been burned. Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of property was destroyed.

THE PITTSBURGH bridge company is crowded with orders.

Eighty new houses are being erected in Steelton, Dauphin county.

Twelve thousand bushels of wheat were shipped one day last week from Wayne township, Green county.

Nine barrels of cider were recently purchased from one of the apples in Barry township, Schuylkill county.

Mrs. George Kerr, living near Titusville, attempted suicide by shooting while melancholy over continued illness.

One hundred Republican citizens of Allentown have signed a card pledging themselves to vote and work to secure the election of Charles Barnhart, Independent of Lehigh county, to the legislature.

In a quarrel between John Hecker and Jacob Swank at Carrick, Franklin county, Hecker struck Swank on the right side of the head with a large piece of cinder, inflicting a very painful and probably a fatal wound. Hecker is about thirty years of age and Swank about thirty.

The fund raised in Pittsburgh for the benefit of the families of the men killed at Brady's Bend by the press train going to President Garfield's funeral, is growing to large proportions. The six New York morning newspapers, the associated press have contributed $800 to the fund.

George A. Clark, the son of a wealthy Tioga county farmer, wanted Miss Fredericka B. Allen, the daughter of a Mendocino lawyer. The Allen family opposed the match. Miss Fredericka went with her father to Mansfield fair, and slipping away from her father's side, she became the lover. The couple drove furiously to a parson's and were married. They were overtaken by Mr. Allen, who recaptured his daughter, a minor. Clark has obtained a writ of habeas corpus commanding Mr. Allen to produce his daughter before the court of Wellsboro.

THE NEW COMETS. A writer in the Providence (R. I.) Journal says that the latest comet which was discovered by Prof. Barnard at Nashville, on the night of the president's death, makes small advances toward visibility, for it can yet be seen only by the aid of the telescope. It may, however, suddenly blaze forth into a famous specimen of its class, for nothing in the material universe is more unaccountable than the vagaries of a comet. The year 1880 numbering eight comets on its list, and thus far in 1881 includes only four new ones.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

What the Half-Breed Majority Did.

James C. Husted, of Westchester, was unanimously nominated for treasurer.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

For state engineer Silas Seymour, of Saratoga, was nominated by acclamation. Francis M. Finch, of Tompkins, was nominated for judge of the court of appeals.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a state ticket. General Joseph E. Carr, the present incumbent, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

HEARTS AND HANDS.

Four Weddings in this City To-day. Lancaster's social circles have been stirred lately by the occurrence of an unusual number of weddings in which some of their best-known and highly esteemed members have been concerned.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

The bride and groom, who were both well known in the community, were the daughter of Mr. H. W. Harberger, of the well-known Harberger family, and one of the soprano soloists in St. Mary's.

A HORRIBLE AFFAIR.

OUTRAGE AND MURDER.

A JOHN STREET TRAGEDY.

ED. SANDERS'S LAST CRIME.

Outrage and Death of His Victim.

John Street, in the Seventh ward, this city, a highway that leads toward the southeast, from East King street at the point made by junction with Middle, was the scene of an awful tragedy at 11 o'clock last night, the like of which has not, happily, been known in our city for many years.

The chief actor in it was Ed. Sanders, well known in police circles and whose name has frequently figured as defendant in the criminal courts of this county. He has been a dangerous and desperate character, as our local officers well know, and the last infamy with which his name is linked crowns a career that could have had no other logical ending than in shameful crime.

His victim in this case, who came to a most horrible death, was a "grass widow" named Mary Seymour, the mother of three children and reported to be an industrious and hard-working woman.

The Victim.

John Seymour is a well-known coachman and ostler of this city. He was formerly in the employ of Hon. Thos. E. Franklin, but had to be dismissed some time ago for dissoluteness. At times he and his wife lived together, and at other times his habits were such that his neglect of his family compelled her to support herself, and even that failing, she would seek public charity in the almshouse.

She was a woman of about 35. Her maiden name was Quade and she came from the country, according to one report; another, and probably the true one, is that her name was Dempsey or Dumpty and her father had a farm on Turkey Hill. She was betrayed years ago and left home upon the disclosure of her shame. Her first and illegitimate child was born at the almshouse, where she sought refuge. After that she met and married Seymour, who left her soon after the birth of her last child. She has a married sister, Barbara, residing in Quarryville, and a cousin, John Kiley, in New Jersey. Beyond these children—Emma, aged 11, Daisy, aged 4, and Johnny aged 3 years and 2 months—she has kept with her in her desertion her poverty and her struggles to maintain herself. About three months ago she left the almshouse for the last time, and Superintendent John Brock says he was sorry to see her go and always glad when she came, she was such a excellent worker and so industrious and faithful a woman in all her departments of household labor. Mr. B. says she was fond of men's company, but he knew nothing to her discredit. She was always averse to being the subject of public charity and never lost any opportunity which opened to earn an independent livelihood. Finding a chance to rent a house cheap on John street, she took it and took an old invalid woman from the almshouse, Adelaide Robinson, sister of the constable of Willow Street, with her, to whom she proposed to give a home, lodging, attention and board, in turn for the old lady's care of her children when she went out washing and otherwise working. The house was furnished in the meagerest and scantiest manner and only those who saw it could realize that a family of five persons could live with so few of the necessities of life. It seems that from this humble home Mary Seymour went forth almost daily to whatever employment she could find; and among her neighbors she bore a good name and with those for whom she worked she had the reputation of being industrious and faithful.

The Crime.

Philip Rogers, alias "Pop" Rogers, a young man whose associations are none of the best, and who has led a kind of vagrant life in that neighborhood, used to hang around Mrs. Seymour's house a good deal, and the neighbors say she was wont to ask him in and give him a bite to eat and a roof to cover him. Last evening he was at the house and seems to have been asleep in the back room. According to all the reports of what followed Ed. Sanders, who is intimate with Rogers—though no connection between them last night can be traced—came to the house some time before 11 o'clock last night. Mrs. Seymour was in the front room, down stairs—it is a one-story frame house—attending to Adelaide Robinson, and was in the act of administering her medicine, when Sanders knocked at the window and asked to be let in. It seems that Sanders had never visited the house before, except once to run through it; as the neighbors testify, "she hated the sight of him." Mrs. Seymour heard him knock and call and recognized the voice. She refused to let him in, said Mrs. Robinson was sick and needed her attention. He urged her again and again to open the door and finally told her he wanted to tell her "something very particular." Thus appealed to, she consented, and opening the door he entered. Almost immediately he fell upon her and fiercely assaulted her. She screamed and struggled and resisted all his efforts of persuasion or force to outrage her person. Finally he forcibly overcame her and accomplished his vile purposes.

Rogers's Flight.

Meanwhile Rogers, who had been dozing in the kitchen, was awakened by the screams and struggles, and looking in the door was affrighted by what he saw in the front room, and, sneaking out the back door and across the lot, fled the scene. It does not appear that he had any further cognizance of the crime nor any knowledge of its fatal results, until the officers, who learning of his presence, went in search of him, found him seated between two tramps and hiding behind a boiler at the rolling mill, where he is accustomed to loaf.

Finally Mrs. Seymour got loose from her ruthless assailant and ravisher and ran screaming into the street. The old lady, sick as she was, had been able, too, to help to raise the alarm and people in the neighborhood heard it. Adjoining the almshouse on the southeast is the house of Nathaniel Bickel, or Pickel, a carpenter, of whose family himself and wife had retired; a daughter was spending the evening with some neighbors. All heard the screams of Mrs. Seymour as

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1881.

LANCASTER