An Improved Gun.

A beautiful specimen of Prof. Hall's skill as an amateur mechanic is on exhibition in the window of Augustus Rhoads' jewelry store, East King street, in the shape of a "Half Hammerless" breechloading gun. Instead of the usual hammer there are cocking levers, and the striking parts of the lock are inside, thus protecting them from the wet and dust. Prof. Hall has made from time to time quite a number of improvements in the manufacture of fire arms, that have attracted attention and received high commendation from experts in gun making.

Particular Description of Stolen Horse.

The horse stolen from John F. Stein-man, was misdescribed in being called "a At this season of the year he light bay " is a rather dark bay. Nor is he, without marks. He has a little white, say a half inch in width, running around the right hind fort. He has a spot about the size of a half-dollar where the skin was rubbed and a little sore was made, which is not yet healed up ; this mark is on the inside of left hind leg, just above the knee. The hair was rubbed off along the top of the withers, but is beginning to grow again ; it is short and rough there.

A Reautiful Altar.

Mr. Charles Hepting, of Lancaster, has just completed a most beautiful high altar for the Church of the Holy Trinity, Columbia. Father Pieper, pastor, has given notice that the church will be open on Monday next, the 10th inst., from one o'clock till 5 p. m., and invites the public to an inspection of the work. The material is Italian marble and its workmanship has been pronounced by good judges to be perfect. Holy Trinity, with its beautiful altar, frescoing and fine statuary, is certainly one of the handsomest churches in the county.

Matrimonial.

The wedding of Mr. Return E. Fahnestock to Mrs. Elizabeth Dickey at the residence of the bride, on East Orange street, on Thursday at 1 p. m., was a delightful affair. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Knight, of St. James Episcopal church, and was witnessed by the two immediate families and a few near friends. The dressing of the ladies was elegant, and of the entertainment it is only necessary
