Lancaster Intelligencer.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 9, 1881.

Another Youthful Train Robber.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

It was night.

Night in Arkansas.

It was night in several other states as well, but Arkansas is the one with which we have to deal at this writing.

It being our turn to deal.

A lightning express was booming along at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Every car was full, many standing in the aisles with that meekness and patience only seen on an American railroad, to accommodate the fellow who wants four seats all to himself.

The lamps blazed fitfully over the passengers' dusters, which seemed to fit fully as well as travelling dusters usually do.

The conductor had passed through (which was more than he would allow any one else to do without the requisite pass), punching people into wakefulness in order that he might punch their tickets.

The train boy had filled the passengers' laps with books, to keep them from bumping in their seats while going over rough places.

The brakeman had put his head in and shouted, "The next stopping place is ——," the name of the station being lost in the slamming of the door.

The boy who is always dry had made his fifty-second pilgrimage to the water tank.

And the woman who wants air had just torn off her last remaining finger nail in trying to get her window up.

This was on a railroad in the state of Arkansas.

Suddenly the car door opens.

A youthful figure appears, holding something in his hand upon which the light glitters. He presents it in a significant manner and cries:

"Now, gentlemen, your money ——"

Fifty men turn pale and cry, "Don't shoot!"

Twenty females scream with one voice, and some faint.

There is a lively thrusting of watches and pocketbooks beneath cushions and into boots.

Strong men fight for a place under the seats where they can secrete themselves.

"Gentlemen," again cries the boyish voice, ringing high and clear above the screams of women and din of the train (gasps for mercy from some of the men), "let me sell you some of this excellent tropical fruit," and he extends in his dexter hand—a banana.

It was the train boy, pursuing his useful and honest vocation.

The Dead Alive.

John Shea went into a saloon on Kinzie street, Chicago, and called for a glass of beer. Before the beverage could be drawn Shea fell to the floor apparently dead. Patrolman Bartlett was called, and believing the man dead, sent for the patrol wagon. When the wagon arrived the supposed corpse was placed inside and the driver was instructed to convey it to the morgue. On arriving at that dilapidated structure the corpse showed signs of life. Its nose became red and a gurgling sound was heard. The officers watched a moment, and suddenly the body jerked as though an electric battery had been applied to the spine. They had lifted Mr. Shea off the bunk, placed him on the wagon again and took him to the station, where he spent the night. Next morning he was all right, and the day officer, who happened to know him, recommended his discharge.

A New Way of Putting it

Down Platt in Capitol.

I must say in all fairness—and attached as I am to the memory of a great and good man who was my friend, I say it sorrowfully—President Garfield did not die a martyr to any cause we care to cherish. The penis system murdered him, but he did not fall fighting for its reform. Had he said to Conkling, "I cannot give you this office as a personal perquisite; it belongs to the government, and I shall appoint a man who will conduct it above and outside the political arena, solely for its honest efficiency," he would have stood on ground he desired, breathed an air to his taste, that time would deepen and age solidify into immortality. But all he sought to do was to transfer the saddle of power from the shoulders of one boss to those of another, and he died while in the act.

Complicated Diseases.

A prominent gentleman in Corydon, Wayne county, Iowa, writes us that he made Kidney-Wort to be the best remedy by far ever known for a complication of diseases. It is specific in action when it has on the liver, kidneys and bowels, which gives it such curative power, and it is the thousands of cures which it is performing which gives it so good a reputation. Liquid (very concentrated) or dry. Both are efficient.—N. H. Journal of Commerce. n24eodlaw

Second Edition of Job.

Mrs. Ogden, N. Dutton street, Boston, says: "I cannot better than kind of I was obedient to try your Spring Blossom. I was at one time afraid I should never be able to eat again. I seemed to be a second edition of Job without his patience; my face and body were one mass of boils and sores. I got half a dozen bottles of your Spring Blossom, and it has cured all eruptions, boils disappeared, and I feel better than I have in a long time." Price 50 cents. For sale at H. B. Cochran's drug store, 137 North Queen street, Lancaster.

The Law of Kindness is universal; it affects all it embraces tenderly, all animals, and may be even found in potent medicines. Some are drastic and the patient is obliged to suffer pains worse than the disease; but in cases of obstinate constipation, dyspepsia, there is no remedy so kind, so gentle in its effects, and yet so satisfactory, as Brandreth Blood Bitters. Price $1. For sale at H. B. Cochran's drug store, 137 North Queen st., Lancaster.

CELERY AND CHAMOMILE PILLS.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Dr. C. W. Benson, a well-known Baltimore Physician and Surgeon of Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Benson has, for the past twenty-three years, paid much attention to Nervous diseases, and has discovered that the extract of Celery and Chamomile combined in a certain proportion, invariably cures either Sick Headache, or Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Sleeplessness, or Paralysis. They are prepared in the shape of Pills and contain no opium, quinine or other harmful drug but are intended expressly to cure and relieve the above named diseases.

☞The celebrated Dr. Hammond, of New York city, says: "I have found Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile pills are invaluable in all cases of Nervous Diseases." Other physicians to the number of over 700 endorse them in equally strong terms. Everyone is now talking of the wonderful cures effected. Give them a trial and be convinced.

Sold by druggists generally.

The Pills will be sent to any part of the country by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Address all letters as directed, and inclose stamps for reply.
