It is fairly timeful with the harmony of colors; and fairly tuneful with the harmony of colors; and yet most difficult to express. Why dont we tell what the colors are? Because there are several combinations; and even one of them is so hard to set forth in words that a full statement of it would be dull. ACES FROM EUROPE.

Hitherto we have applied the peculiar principles of our trade to the buying and selling of laces; i. e., we have bought as well as we could and sold as low as we could; and our lace trade has grown out of all proportion to our other trade.

Now we begin to buy largely abroad. This is only carrying out our principles more fully. We bought last summer about $100,000 worth of laces of the manufacturers in various parts of Europe: and saved at least $20,000 thereby. This saving we give you; and, knowing the generous trade to come, we have higher grades of laces and greater variety.

The market is asopen to others as to us; and it sounds unfair to say that we get better goods than anybody else. But think what advantages we have. We can keep all grades of goods from the very highest to the lowest; for we have large trade in them all. Others who keep line goods have little trade in any but fine. How can they get rid of passe goods? They have no trade for such. So they must buy cautiously. We can mark down and sell to the next rank of buyers.

Merrily Quaffing Beer. The Von Steubens at a Commers in Lieder kranz Hall.

There was revelry at the rooms of the Liederkranz on Wednesday night. The large hall resounded with joyous music and the clinking of glasses. A "commers," given by the Liederkranz and Arion to the von Steubens, was proceeding. "Commers" is a German technical term difficult to translate, but it is a meet. ing conducted somewhat as follows: When a man drinks one glass of beer his neighbor sees him and goes him one better; then the first man raises the other and this continues. From the middle of the gallery hung large crayon portraits of Baron Steuben of Revolutionary fame and of the present generation of von Steubens. On either side the gallery was draped with the German colors and with large German war flags. A huge German war flag and American flags hung back of the platform over another picture of Baron Steuben. Long tables were on the floor, at which sat about 1,000 guests.

At 10 o'clock the von Steubens arrived, escorted by Messrs, Steinway, Diehl, Hoff-man, Kamerer and Hundt, The entire as-sembly rose and applauded. The von Steubens bowed, and so did James G. Blaine, Walker Blaine and a gentleman who was introduced as Carl Schurz. The guests seated themselves at small tables on the platform. At a signal from F. Beringer, the chairman, the band in the gallery struck up the "Wacht am Rhein." A thousand voices swelled the chorus, in which the Steubens joined, Col. Arnt von Steuben waving his beer glass in moments of enthusiasm, while James G. Blaine quaffed a glass of lager without heel taps in full view of all.

Then the combined chorus of the Arion and Liederkranz sang Meine Mutter sprache Mr. Remmertz taking the solo so beautifully that two of the von Steubens jumped down from the platform and embraced, kissed and drank beer with him.

Then the chairman welcomad the guests in a brief speech, giving as a reason for its brevity that they would probably rather go into another campaign than hear a long speech. Then he proposed a "salaman-der" for the von Steubens. At a given signal a tattoo with a thousand glasses was begun pianissimo on the tables. The sound grew loader and louder, antil suddenly all arms were lifted, and the glasses came down with a tremendous crash, and the band struck up a lively air. Secretary Blaine at this point had his glass filled

Col. von Steubon, in returning thanks, he had found no gathering in which the minutes fell dead-German spirit had prevailed as in this. Millions of Americans and Germans had heaped favors upon them. "Well," he said, quoting Schiller, "let me embrace you millions !"

Schurz's health was proposed, and Mr. James G. Blaine emptied his glass with the rest. Then the chairman said it was von Steuben's special desire that a "salamander" should be given in honor of James G. Blaine and Walter Blaine. Secretary Blaine's glass was filled again.

The "alamander" was given and Mr. Blaine was called upon for a speech. He slowly and with good pronunciation:
"Ich danke euch vom Herzen, meine lieben Freunde!" Then he sat down. There were loud calls of "Speech! Speech!" He rose again and said: "I think you call on me again to expose my for me; it is for the illustrious guests from the Vaterland you love so dearly. They have been received most cordially well as Germans. Our kindliest wishes for their health and prosperity go with them!" Here Mr. Blaine again emptied

The band struck up "Hail Columbia," and Col. von Steuben jumped from the platform and began beating time with a chair. After a while he dropped the chair and began making motions as When the music stopped Dr. Damresch congratulated the colonel.

Carl Scharz was next called on for a speeches by Shumaker, the German consul-general, and Herr Hundt, Oberforster yon Steuben said: "All's well that ends well. But our trip began well, went well all along, and ends well." [At this point Mr. Blaine's glass was filled again.] "Every German belongs to a singing so-ciety. Long may they live!" [At this point Mr. Blaine emptied his glass.]

Col. Arnt von Steuben, made another speech, in which he eulogized Mr. Blaine, and called him the "incarnation of the German-American spirit." The colonel made no allusion to Mr. Schurz in either of his speeches.

The blue tobacco smoke was rising in wreaths, the band was playing, the chorns was singing, and Mr. Blaine was having his glass filled again when the Sun reporter left.

Garfield's Horse at Chickamauga.

Cincinnati Commercial. Garfield's horse was said to have been killed at Chickamauga. We once heard Garfield state what the fact was. He said he was writing, sitting on the ground, where there was a depression such that the flight of shot was overhead. His horse was held by an orderly, when a round cannon ball came close to the group, and, striking another horse full in the breast killed him instantly. General Garfield said he looked up, hearing the thud, and saw that his horse was frantic with fright. He had seen the terrible death of the other horse and had abundant sense to be scared. Garfield got up and stepped beside his horse, speaking to him kindly and patting him with his hand, soothing and reassuring the animal, which became calm and manifested his gratitude. The money, and it is said they did not expend $10,000 altogether. The contributions flowed in upon the Wolfe committee, and it is understood that that body spent more money than either of the other two parties. Mr. O'Donnel is said to have expended some $3,000 in his canvass, while Messrs. Douglass and Lawson are said to be about $4,000 and $1,800 respectively poorer by their battle. So far as could be learned, Mr. McManemin made the most costly friends claim that he will be from $5,000 to $8,000 out of pocket by the fight he to $8,000 out of pocket by the light he made. Mr. Haggarty's expenses are footed up as nearly $2,000 for his nine months of campaigning. The committee of One Hundred, it is said, expended over $15,000 this campaign, and it has laid out over $56,000 since it began the battle for Reform last February. The Democrats experienced the most trouble of all the parties in regard to collecting money. A parties in regard to collecting money. A large contribution was expected last week by the state committee, but this failed to come, and the result was that some persons who had been expected to help the ticket along in the city failed to respond.

How Dan McCook Died.

As Related by Gen. Gartield. J. L. Hayes in the National Wool Bulletin. I went up Thursday at 5:30 o'clock. We had a simple family dinner-soup, roast beef, California wine and cherry pie, the general, Mrs. Garfield, a little son, and myself sitting round the table. We discussed the general questions of protection. General Garfield putting queries to me which I answered satisfactorily. He then asked me if I knew anything about iron, and plied me with questions as to that. After a long talk upon these matters, not once mentioning wool, I said: "Now, general, we have talked tariff long enough; let us talk about the war. Tell me about your battles." I told him about Joe (my brother) and he told me about Shiloh and Chickamauga and other battles. At Chicamauga he was Rosecrans's chief of staff. Talking about the character of our soldiers, he said, walking across the room and warming with enthusiasm :

"Why, they were men who went into battles inspired by all the heroism of antiquity. They marched into the fight with Miltiades and Themistocles and all the heroes of history in the air above them "-stretching up his arms. "There was that glorious soldier, General Dan McCook ; he was storming the heights of Kennisaw mountain at the head of his troops. The summit was crowded with rebel troops; the ascent was precipitous; the troops had to lift themselves up by the bushes and branches; he knew it was almost certain death. In a momentary pause in the ascent he was heard to utter. as if speaking to himself, but in calm, lays of ancient Rome : "Then out spoke brave Horatius, the captain of the gate : To every man upon this earth death cometh soon or late, And how can man die better than facing tearful odds. How the Republicans Won.

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. The calculation of the Baily managers was that if they could make two-fifths of Wolfe's vote Demecratic their candidate would "pull through." The result in this rose and holding his glass in his hand said city is significant, a comparison of the returns showing that nearly one-half of Wolfe's vote must have come from alleged Democrats. In round figures, Baily received 55,000 votes and O'Donnel 62,000, a difference of 8,000 to Wolfe's credit. Noble received 42,000, and Veale 49,000, ignorance of German. This meeting is not a difference of 7,000 to be added to the Wolfe column. As the complete returns from the country districts come in, the same relative condition of the vote will all through this country by Americans as undoubtedly be shown, giving peculiar and suggestive interpretation to a recently published letter of the chief manager of the Baily canvass, in which he frankly asked the person addressed to "demonstrate how admirable that form of nonpartisanship is which best succeeds in dividing the Democratic party." In a word Baily's election, if he is elected, for that claim is not yet settled by any means, is though he were playing a trombone. clearly and unmistakably the joint work of the combined "bosses" through the systematic manipulation of the corrupt and trading elements in both the great speech, but he had evaporated. After parties. The Republicans who are Republicans from principle were earnestly besought to "stand by the party" for the party's sake, and yet the men who were loudest in this cry were working by day and by night to form an alliance with the worst element in the party which they were supposed to be battling with patriotic fervor and devotion. Such is the sincerity of Cameronian Republicanism.

Sound repose is so essential to good health that we feel surprised to know any one would risk loss of rest from a Cough or Cold, when a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup would give refreshing slumber.

I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtheria, and "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured them," and it taken in time it will cure seven out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one and reassuring the animal, which became calm and manifested his gratitude. The horse, as much as said to him: "Old fellow, this does't look well to me, but I have confidence in you that it is all right." The horse was not burt. The real story thus told, seems much more interesting than the romances that have been expanded out of it.
