No cases are set down for Thursday, as that will be Thanksgiving day, and there will be no court. Beginning next week court will be almost continuously in session until the holidays.

The Young Men's Christian association was indebted to the old Lancaster gas company for $160 worth of gas consumed during the years 1879 and 1889. At a late meeting of the managers a resolution was passed authorizing the secretary, Mr. George K. PICKING THE JURY. THE MEN WHO ARE TO TRY GUITEAU.

Resolved Not to Have a Colored Man in the Box, but Subsequently Accepts One. Washington, Nov. 15 .- The pressure for admission into the court room was greater than yesterday. The five jurors selected yesterday were early in attendance and a few minutes after ten court was formally opened. When Guiteau came in and the hand-euffs were removed he shook hands with his sister and brother and took his seat. He manifested his nervousness less than yesterday. Mr. Scoville ap-ber, who was peremptorily challenged by the defense. The next was a man named Burns, who said Guiteau should be hanged or burued; he was, of course, excused, as was also the next, who believed Guiteau crazy. The next was a colored man remarkable for a frilled shirt front and dramatic posture and manner. He related the history of his past life and was then peremptorily challenged by the defense. In fact it is understood Guiteau is resolved not to have a colored man on the jury. The next was an Irishman named Michael Shocky, with a very pronunced brogue, who had no opinion except that Guiteau was "out of his head." He was sworn as the sixth juror. William Talbot, who has never bothered his head about Guiteau, was challenged peremptorily by the and Pittsburgh has been awarded to Sucused on account of preconceived division from Harrisburg to Lancaster. opinions. A long-faced young colored man named Foster, who declared himself perfectly free from prejudice, but admitted he had spoken of the assassination as 'quite a serious accident," was peremptority challenged by the defence. Samuel F. Hobbs, a plasterer, was accepted as the seventh juror. G. W. Gates, a machinist, was accepted as the eighth juror. For an hour after this every man had an "unalterable" opinion of the prisoner's guilt, except one colored map, who had read no more of this case than he always read " in ordinary cases of that kind" He could form an impartial opinion, but believed no ensible man could have done such a thing as shooting the president. After consultation between the prisoner, his counsel and his brother, Mr. Scoville said they would accept this juror and the colored man, Ralph Wormley, was accepted and sworn as the ninth juror.

At this point the list was exhausted and the marshal was ordered to summon seventy-five more for to-morrow. Court then, at 12:20, adjourned.

There was some difficulty found in maintaining order among the crowd of spectators who were present to listen to the proceedings of the trial. There were no manifestations of ill-will against the prisoner, except now and then a slight disposition to applaud the expression occasionally made by those being examined for jury duty, that they were of the decided | 17254c. opinion that the assassin ought to be hanged, but the applause was in every instance promptly checked by the deputy marshals. The cause of the disorder was he overcrowding of the platform assigned to the general public, and the efforts of a number of young men, of whom the audience was chiefly composed, to secure more bec. 1.20% 5.60% 41% 5.00% available places of observation, regardless of the fact that in so doing they obstructed Nov... 1.12 the view of others; and the pushing and bec.... 1434

Yesterday a delegation of McKeesport citizens, headed by Col. Thomas M. Bayne, congressman of the district, waited upon the president to protest against the commissioning of Carothers. Rev. Dr. Kelso, in behalf of the delegation, addressed the president, entering in behalf of the citizens of McKeesport, a solemn protest against the appointment of . E. Carothers in place of Dr. Baldridge, the incumbent, and asking that the commission of the former be withheld. He recited the facts relative to the appointment of Carothers substantially as they have been published heretofore in the INTELLIGENCER, and stated that the sentiment of the people was overwhelmingly in favor of the retention of Baldridge the present incumbent, as the petitions would show.
