JOHN WANAMAKER'S ADVERTISEMENT.

JOHN WANAMAKER CALLS SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING:

Our circular silks, 60-inch, are bought entirely from the makers in Lyons this fall for the first time. We have advantage in the price, and besides a degree of confidence not to be got in miscellaneous buying.

Striped moleskin plush, 25-inch, $2.50. Very rich solid silk plush stripes on ottoman silk with fine stripes of satin merveilles between, $6.50. A distinguished novelty from Paris.

Is there anything black at 25 cents better than flannel? It is of the simplest of all weaving, and naturally money goes a long way in buying it.

Ivory-white satin de Lyon with bold brocade of cream plush picked out with uncut plush of the same color, $9.

Black serge at $1.25, full 54 inches wide, exactly the wholesale price today.

Large small-checks or small-figured plaids; not at all like small-checks and not at all like plaids; a new effect altogether; stronger than small-checks and less gray than many colored plaids, $1.50. Considered decidedly stylish. The cloth is rather heavy.

Next outer circle, Chestnut St. entrance.

Second circle, southeast from centre.

Camel-hair lightly covered with bourette plaid; the same so heavily covered with bright bourette single threads as to constitute a high illumination, $12.

Mustin underwear of a grade found nowhere else in the stores of Philadelphia and New York, with the exception of single hose; i. e., well made and of the enough material without any extravagant price; so low indeed that families cannot afford to do the same work at home.

Ladies' coats of every grade are in a good light in the new corner; and if there isn't enough room it is because many buyers are there.

We have had a variety of very rich ties of embroidery, such, and much finer than we have seen in ready-made ties, 65 cents to $2. The quality is the same in all. The difference is in width and embroidery.

New today. Coats of light cloth trimmed with plush, for young ladies only; the sizes and styles are young, $15 and $18.

Quite handsome embroidered mull ties at 15 cents.

Lightening and re-dyeing seal coats; and the sooner it is done the better. American dye, of course; but for second dyeing it isn't worth while to send to London.

By the way, would you like to look into our busy fur workshop on the third floor? You shall see all sorts of fur skins and every process of making, and ask as many questions as you like.

186 Chestnut street.

First circle, southeast from centre.
