Sheep on the Farm.

Germantown Telegraph. Fifty to sixty years ago every farm, however small, had its little flock of sheep, to supply the family wool and the material for knitting the family stockings. In almost every farm-house the humming of the big wool-wheel, which manufactured the yarn, could be heard at some distance from the house, and everywhere stockings were being knitted for family use. They were not very fine, but they were thick and warm and wore two or three times as long as the present machine-made article. This little tlock of sheep was always the pets of the farm. Their feed cost next to nothing. Pasture fields which cattle could no longer graze were just what the sheep preferred. Every hole and corner they nipped clear of grass; and in the winter the poorest hay and a little salt kept them in a good condition, while the lambs not only kept up the stock, but furnished all the mutton required in the family. . The knitting machine had not yet made its appearance, and each family which could not afford to supply its wants from the costly foreign manufactured articles was forced thus to provide for itself. The little girls in a family were taught to knit as soon as they were able to handle the needles, and hence the cost of the supply of stockings for the family was quite inconsiderable—in fact, it took no ready cash from the farmer's pocket.

Now, the keeping of sheep is extensively pursued, especially on large farms, where portions of the land is hilly, rocky, and untit for cultivation. Here sheep thrive finely, and where systematically managed they are the most profitable branch of the entire farm. The best breeds are used-or ought to be, that is-for both wool and carcass; and we may add that just as sheep husbandry is better and better understood, the more extensively will it be introduced. Our Western and Northwestern farmers, where this branch is rapidly increasing be-yord other sections, are abundantly satisfied that in many respects the flock of sheep is the best helper, not only in filling the purse, but in keeping up the condition of the land, without really any actual expense, that is within reach of the husbandman. One thing should, therefore, be remembered by farmers who have suitable land at their command, that they make a very great mistake and submit to an annual loss of more importance than they imagine in the absence of a good and beautiful flock of improved sheep browsing upon the hills,

Greene has treated over 3,000 patients since January 1st. 1880, made up largely from those turned away as incurable by other M. D.«. Over 1,200 deaths have occurred under others' practices, and not a half-dozen using his remedies. Most of the 1,500 have died prematurely. Physicians have lost their wives, brothers and sons, and drangists their wives and children during this time. Over 1,000 pressons have been during this time. Over 1,000 persons have been cured, and all benefited, by his methods, with a few exceptions, and the citizens will bear him witness that he has never guaranteed to cure any one or forfeit $1 or $1,000; that he has not thrust his pictured face into their houses or on the fences, in the disgusting Pinkham style a common to quack wenders of nose or on the tences, in the disgusting Pinkham style, so common to quack venders of nostrums. His claim is simply to cure all the various ills of mankind by external applications of remedials, and that he does not make a drug shop of the stomach, and he will before leaving publish a large pamphlet containing hundreds of rames of persons cured in this city and county, many'of them very extraordinary. A banker's wife cured of sick headache of over thirty five years, and her glasses removed, reading and sewing with natural vision. REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE.

Brandy as a Medicine. The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physician of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice. It is commended to the attention of those attention with Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE.

This now much abused Alcoholle Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims.

With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those efficied with that miserable disease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more of less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, A Sovereign Remedy or all their ills and aches. Be it, however strictly understood that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is REIGART'S OLD BRANDY,

Sold by our enterprising young friend, if E SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never falled, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies no matter with how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such ease of ases. In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Brandy, In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we bers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite:

A hard-working farmer had been athleted A hard-working farmer had been all-leted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour cructations constantly—uo appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try

Reigart's Old Brandy, Reigart's Old Brandy,
In his case, he looked up with astonishment but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which he cocasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.

THE KIDNEYCURA MF'G COMPANY.

Gents—It gives me much pleasure to say that after using one pack of KIDNEYCURA I have been entirely cured of a severe pain in my back and side, of long standing, and that, too, after trying various known remedies. I have every confidence in your medicine, cheerfully recommend it, and know that many of my friends who have used it have been benefited.
