The Mount Bethel cemetery association elected he following directors: J. H. Mifflin, Geo. W. Haldeman, E. Hershey, J. C. Pfahler, J. B. Bachman, Dr. J. F. Cottrell, and Samuel Truscott, to serve one year.

The lecture by Dr. Wilbur, in the opera house was very slimly attended, but never theless very interesting and instructive. The Spy is a good prophet. The Excelsior elocution club is non est, having broken up at the last meeting at the residence of Miss Annie Bruner. A very pleasant evening was spent, but only five members were present. The club will meet next Tuesday evening at Miss Maggie Purple's, but not to study elocution. That is played out. Why these societies cannot be kept up in Columbia is a wonder, but then Columbians are a quoer set. We are going to do everything but never do it after all. Exit elecution club.

Mr. C. Swartz is going to tear down his old butcher shop on Locust street and erect a two-story brick building. One part will be used for a grocery store to be occupied by Mr. Lewis May, and the other will be used as his butcher shop. Work will be commenced sometime next week. The building will be a very handsome one and one that will be an ornament to the town. There are several other houses on this square that if torn down and new ones put up in their stead would make Locust street look very neat.

A number of strangers arrived in town last evening. Most of them were "drummers.

Special services are now being held in the E. E. Lutheran church preparatory to communion services on next Sunday morning. They are being largely attended. The Pennsylvania railroad pay car will day or Tuesday, as they only begin pay-ing off their employees in Philadelphia to morrow. The school board meets this evening in council chamber at 6:30 to give the members a chance to attend "Uncle Dan'l." A lively time is expected, as one of the members will read a resolution on the advisability of tearing down the railing in the library room. This is but just and should be unanimously carried. Who ever heard of a library being railed so that the subscribers cannot get a good look at the books? There is not another one in the state. It looks as though the sub scribers could not be trusted with the books. Of course they have a catalogue, but then it is not very explanatory. A person can tell whether he likes a book better by turning over its leaves than he can by looking at the catalogue. ## OBITUARY. Death of Mrs. R. J. McGrann.

Mrs. Harriet McGrann, wife of R. J. McGraun, died at the family residence, No. 110 North Prince street, this morning about half-past eight o'clock, after a week of terrible suffering from diphtheria. Mrs. McGrann was a most estimable woman, possessing all the domestic virtues to a remarkable degree. She was most devotedly attached to her children and assiduous in providing for their every want. Recently one of her children, some three or four years old, was attacked with diphtheria. Day and night the mother ministered to it, and by her affectionate nursing, supplemented by skilful medical treatment, the little one was restored to health. But the mother contracted the same dread disease in its most malignant form, and literally fell a martyr in the performance of her duties as a mother. Mrs. McGrann was 38 or 40 years of age. Her maiden name was Fell, and her native place Wilkesbarre. Her father died when was quite young, and raised in the family of she her uncle, Charles Parrish, the wealthy and well-known president of the Wilkesbarre coal and iron company. In 1867 she was married to Mr. McGrann. Since that time she lived in Lancaster, and became a favorite with all who formed her acquaintance. She leaves a family of seven children, the oldest not 14 years of age and the youngest a babe a few months old. In their great affliction Mr. McGrann and his motherless children are receiving the sincerest condolence of their friends and the public. Mrs. McGrann's funeral will take place Monday morning at half-past 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church, where solemn requiem mass will be celebrated.

Deaths From Diphtheria. John H. Ridenour, the well-known night bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise clerk at the City hotel, received very sad and gratification, I commenced to feel better. intelligence to-day. His little nephew died of diphtheria a few days ago and was just buried. This morning he received a dispatch stating that his sister, the mother of the little boy, had died of the same disease at Frederick, Md. Mr. Ridenour left for Frederick this afternoon, and he has the sympathy of many friends.

Mr. Coulson was a native of this county. After receiving a common school education, he entered as a student at Millers. ville normal school and graduated with honors. He then read law under Hon. A. Herr Smith, and was admitted to the Lancaster bar, but on account of ill-health did not practice before the courts. Having a taste for journalism, he took a position on the INTELLIGENCER as local editor, and performed his duties in that capacity with fidelity and ability, for about three years, at the end of which time he was compelled to resign on account of increasing iil health. With a hope that out-door employment would benefit him, he brought a farm near New Freedom, and with his family removed to it in the spring of 1870. He remained there but a few years, and then removed to York, and for some time held a position on the editorial staff of the Gazette of that borough. His health still failing and his illness being attributed to Bright's disease of the ki neys, he was advised last spring to make a trip through the Western and Southern states, which he did, but without securing permanent relief. In October last, by advice of his physicians, he went to Kansas and purchased a new home in Emporia, taking his family with him. Instead of getting better he grew worse, and died of Bright's disease on Sunday last, as above

Mr. Coulson was a ready writer, a fluent talker and a logical disputant, especially on religious and political topics. He was of a gentle and genial disposition, and made many friends while he sojourned in this city. He leaves a wife and three children in Kausas. In consonance with his own expressed wish he was buried in Kansas. Peace to his ashes.

A gentleman stopped at the blacksmith shop of Peter B. Shearer, Exeter township, Berks county, to get his horse shod. After the work was done, Mr. Shearer invited him into his house, saying that he would show him a sight he was not likely to see the equal of again in a lifetime. To the utter astonishment of the visitor, he showed him his two little blind girls, one aged eleven years, October 31st, 1881, and weighing eleven pounds, the other nine years old, January 6th, 1882, weighing ten pounds. He says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs tollowed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summe of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half collar. I expend ed over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicine. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave un hone but a friend told me of Dr. WM. pecial dispatch to the INTELLIGENCER.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Two hundred respectable, influential Independent Republicans made up the independent convention. John J. Pinkerton, of West Chester, presided. Holahan, Kline, Ziegler and Hauk represented Lancaster county. The proceedings were very frothy. Many orators were present strugling for the delivery of speeches against boss domination, and three hours of talk PHILADELPHIA, January 12. — Flour dull and weak: Superfine, $3 75@4 25; Atra $4 50 65 25; Ohio and Indiana family, $6 50@7 12; Pennsylvania family $6 55@ ensued from twenty speakers on general ssues and inconsequential points. Messrs. F. W. Leach, of this city; F. M. Nichols, of Luzerne; B. S. Patterson, of Schuylkill, and W. A. Mitchell, of Warren, were chosen secretaries. Mr. Nesbit, of Northumberland, offered a resolution that a convention be held on April 26, 1882, for the purpose of placing in nomination a full Independent ticket for offices to be filled at the general election next November. Hou. Charles S. Wolfe, amid great applause, arese to speak on the resolution. He said the conference had gathered as patriots and Republicans because the standard of the party had fallen into the hands of those who dishonor it. This was the first formal step toward regenera-Mr. Derr, of Lebanon, offered a substitute for Nesbit's resolution recommending to the state committee that they order conventions to be held in the different counties for the purpose of sending delegates to the regular convention May 10th.

He made a long speech in direct opposition to the utterances of Mr. Wolfe and advocated reform within the party lines. Darlington, of Delaware, offered an amendment to Derr's substitute to Nes bit'e resolution, that a convention be held June 1st, for the purpose of either ratifying the nominations of the regular Republicans, or nominating separate candi-

The convention then adjourned sine die.

THE ISSUE UNCERTAIN. Predicting Gowen's Defeat on Third Street PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.-Mr. Gowen reached the end of his proxy list at noon with a total of 186,695 shares. This is ex-clusive of the Vanderbilt holding, which will not be voted until the Bond proxies are in. The p ceting then adjourned until 2 p. m. The feeling on Third street is that with this vote, and including even the Vanderbilt holding, Gowen cannot be elected. It is now the genaral impression on Third street that the Vanderbilt vote in the Reading election will not be cast on the losing side. If Gowen can seeure an lindisputable majority, including the Van derbilt proxies, then they will be voted for Gowen. The Gowen vote so far polled is still considerably short of the required figure.

DAVIDGE SPEAKS

The Opening Argument to the Jury in the WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 .- A large and intelligent audience was present this morning to listen to the argument in the Guiteau case. Mr. Davidge then took a position in front of the jury and opened his argument. As Mr. Davidg, progressed with his forcible argument the prisoner began to squirm and soon broke forth with his usual interruptions, snarling and commenting upon counsel's remarks. Finding that Davidge took no notice of him he gradually subsided into complete silence.

Murderous Assault on a Prominent Citizen. NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 12 .- A. M. Sykes, prominent citizen of Norfolk county, and a member of the firm of Joseph L. Guy & Co., wholesale liquor and tobacco dealers of this place, while going to his home in Berk ley late last night, was seized from behind while in the streets of that suburb by an unknown man.
