The New Treaty of Peace. The railroad magnates tell the public that they have settled their differences and are again a band of brothers, having no aim but the filling of their treasuries at the expense of the people. Heretofore some of them have been posing as benefactors, fighting for a principle and the peopel's rights. Mr. Vanderbilt has been conspicuous in declaring that New York shall get Western goods at the same cost as Philadelphia, though it is a longer haul. The Pennsylvania and Baltimore roads have on the other hand been virtuously determined that their cities shall enjoy the natural advantage of proximity to the West. All these companies were fighting, according to their accounts, for the interests of the people of their section. But meanwhile they were unanimously grasping all the dollars they could get for all the freight which they could control along their respective lines. The local rates have been raised while the through rates have been cut down: such a course being necessary to enable years the expenses of the office have inthe treasury to stand the game. The creased only one half, while its receipts problem given was to carry through freights at a loss and keep the dividends | der receipts were over $2,000,000 last year up. Obviously the local freights had to be called upon to provide the solution and they have been.

Why through freights should be carried without profit has been an enigma. It has not been because these freights were needed to provide sufficient business for the roads, since they have lately complained of having too much business and it is notorious that the Pennsylvania railroad at least has suffered heavily by the numerous accidents occurring on its heavily-blocked road. The public, in looking around for the reason for these frequently alternating declarations of tified in finding stock-jobbing rea sons at the bottom of them. not rise so readily to the fly as they used to do. The present com pact of peace is heralded without seducing the people who have money to invest into putting it into railroad stocks. These decline to go up in price under the stimulus of the settlement of the railroad war, notwithstanding capital is now in the institution is 926, divided as very abundant and is content with low interest. The trap has been set too often to be very inviting. Maybe after awhile hesitating investors may be again lured pils who enter, less than one tenth purin to seize the tempting bait; but the number of foolish people to be caught grows steadily smaller with each snapping of the trap, and presently it will as soon as it asks its students to step becease to be effective.

There is an elegant opportunity now for aspiring patriots to make a successas possible: with railroads capitalized at would be carried with cheapness, dispelled to er rn dividends upon an extrava-

THERE is nobody we like better to commend for an efficient and vigorous discharge of his duties than Judge Patterson. mportant Habeas Corpus Cases Decided The following important case was de-

No. 11. Original. Ex parte Peter M Rowland et. al., County Commissioners of Chambers county, Ala. This was a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to procure the release of the county commissioners of Chambers county, who had been fined and imprisoned by order of the United States circuit court for alleged contempt, in refusing and neglecting to correct a special tax which the said court had ordered for the purpose of satisfying its judgment The return of the commissioners to the peremptory writ of mandamus set forth that they had levied the tax, as directed. and had instructed the tax collector to collect it, but that the latter had refused to do so, for the reason that the law did not require him to qualify and give bonds for the collection of special taxes. The United States circuit court held this return to be insufficient, declared the commissioners to be in contempt, imposed a fine on them, and committed them to pris on until such fine should be paid. Their release is sought by the present petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Tais court holds that in duly levying the tax, and putting it into the hands of the tax collector, the county commissioners performed their whole duty; that they were not properly chargable with the collection of the tax and could not be required by mandamus to compel the tax collector to do his duty if he ne glected it. It was in the power of the judg ment creditor to proceed by mandamus against the collector directly if he would to do so. In ordering the arrest and punishment of the commissioners for not doing what the law did not require them to do the United States court exceeded its juris. diction and its order is void. ## LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE FEBRUARY ELECTIONS.

The Democrats Fix the Time for Their Primaries. At a meeting of the Democratic campaign committee, held last evening, it was resolved that the meetings to place in general nomination candidates for the February elections be held in the several wards, from 7 to 8 o'clock next Saturday evening, and that the "settling" meetings to nominate the candidates be held from 6 to 8 p. m. on Saturday, Feb. 4, except in the Eighth ward, where the elections will be held from 3 to 8 p. m. of that day. At the meetings on Saturday evening, candidates will be named for mayor, school directors, council, ward officers and city committeemen, all of which will be duly set forth in the call of the committee, received too late for publication to-day.

The following places have been fixed upon for the meetings in the several wards: 1st, Shober's hotel; 2d, Theo. Wenditz's saloon; 3d, Effinger's; 4th, Rothweiler's 5th, Philip Wall's Green Tree hotel; 6th, Jos. Kautz's saloon; 7th, Kuhlman's 8th, Albert Kohlhaa's ; 9th, Arnold Haas'.

The terms of the following Democratic members of the school board expire this year : C. Zecher, J. M. Westhaeffer, J. M. Johnston, Rev. C. Reimensnyder and Wm. McComsey. The Democracy this year will nominate and elect six members of the board which will make it henceforth a tie. To each fire alarm box there will be five keys-one hundred and fifty in all. Each policeman will be given a key and the others will be distributed among the members of the fire department and reliable citizens in all sections of the city. Who ever first reaches the box in the vicinity of a fire can strike the alarm, but cannot remove his key from the lock. It remains there until the chief of the department releases it with another key. In this way false alarms will be prevented; for each key is numbered, and should the person who sounded the alarm break off his key in the box, the number stamped upon the end of it, would at once make known the holder of the key.

his Disinclination for Newspaper Notoriety. In a private letter John M. Amweg, jr., formerly of this city, now of Ford's opera company, takes exception to an article printed about him in a local contemporary in which he is represented as "very free in speaking about his love affair with Nellie Hazeltine;" of saying "without vanity that his name is more familiar in the West than is President Arthur's," and of exhibiting "a revolver presented to him by the judge of the St. Louis court, with judicial recognition of John's bad treatment neatly engraved theron, and also a gold watch given him by St. Louis friends expressing, in fitting words, their appreciation of his worth and the 'deep dam nation' of the untimely taking-off of his expected bride." Referring to this pub-lication, John observes that if the editor wished to publish an article he should be sure to have it correct. It would be greatly to his credit if he were to stand closer to the truth, for a paper of his kind can't aford to become so extravagant in its circulation of reports untrue. He winds up with the parenthetical threat that if anything more of the kind is heard they will be apt to hear from me."

THE "BAL MASQUE."

The Cannstatter Volksfest Masquerade. Last evening the masquerade ball of the Cannstatter Volksfest Verein for the benefit of the Lancaster Benevolent society came off in the opera house. It was quite a brilliant affair. A'large floor had been built over the parquet, extending from the stage to the end of the circle in the main hall and it made a very nice place for dancing. The seats in the circle and on the gallery were reserved for spectators who did not wish to dance and the former place was full almost all evening. The evening entertainment opened with a tableau representing a legend. The stage was nicely set with a castle scene, and the costumes were handsome. After the tableau the curtain fell, but soon rose again, when the music struck up and the promenade began, with between seventyfive and one hundred couples in it. Every person was masked and wore disguise of some description Near-ly all of the costumes worn were furnished by the society, who hired them from a Philadelphia firm. They were all good and presented a fine appearance. The scene on the floor was a curious one when the dancing begun. All kinds of persons were represented, including Turks, Scotchmen, Clowns, Pages, Fairies, Monks, &c. The dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning, and the affair was a success in every way except financially. The management did all in their power to show their guests a nice

COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE A Fight on Fifth Street. One of the worst fights had in the borough for a long time occurred on Saturday evening on Union near Fifth street. Jake

Weiner, white, and John Johnson, colored, had some hard words, which ended in blows, but before any damage was done to each other they were parted. Johnson then went up street, and Weiner, not being satisfied, followed. Near Brimmer's saloon he caught up to the other, and a fierce fight ensued. During the melee Johnson drew a revolver and shot Weiner through the fleshy part of the leg, below the knee, the ball going clear through, making a painful but not necessarily dangerous wound. Johnson then took himself off, but did not leave town. The wounded man was taken home and had his injury dressed. Johnson, fifieen or sixteen years ago, cut a man stomach that his bowels fell to the ground. He afterwards died. Johnson was arrested and went to jail for 11 years, but for good behaviour was set free after serving years. He also killed a colored man in a fight, and being a dangerous character, it would be well if he was sent down for

A Narrow Escape

A traveling gentleman got on the 6:25 train last evening at Laucaster. In front of him an old gray haired individual sat and caused condsiderable laughter by his quaint remarks : he was intoxicated. When the Brakeman called out "Mountville," thinking he said "Columbia" the old fellow arose, and, as he had numerous bundles. it took considerable time for him to gather them together. As he approached the open door the train started and with such force that his bundles flew one way and he was thrown upon the platform. A number of the passengers ran to his assistance. And just in time, for in another moment he would have fallen between the cars. He was pulled out from his dangerous position, considerably bruised and minus his hat, but was completly sobered up. After gathering his bundles again he took a seat and remained quiet, until Columbia was reached, when he got out. He
