COLUMBIA NEWS. OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE

That Elecution Club. The young ladies who report to the Spy that the Elocution club still lives take their fling at the young men. It was the president of the club who told us the organizawas non est. As to the nine original gentiemen members, two have left town, one cannot attend Tuesday evening meetings, one is "out" with some of the young ladies and two others have reasonable excuses for absenteeism. For three nights in succession only five members were present and as seven was a quorum, a meeting could not be held. Success to the club, but spare the young men. They are not

"utterly" to blame. Officer Dysinger wants the credit for the skillful search after Dr. Lineaweaver's stolen instruments. The facts are that upon our information to Officer Roden hauser of the robbery he began a search, found the thief and upon asking him what he had done with the articles, was told that he did not know. He after some further search found that they were at Wagner's hotel. He told Dysinger about it and told him to keep his "eye open." He did so and recovered the stolen articles. At the time we wrote the article of which D. complains, the stolen things had not been recovered, but the thief was caught and by Rodenhauser.

The Movement for a New Trial. Washington, Jan. 28.—In the criminal court this morning, Messrs. Scoville and Reed, counsel for Guiteau, appeared, and the former inquired of the court, in respect of the form of his bill of exceptions, whether he would be compelled to except specifically, or whether a general exception would suffice. Judge Cox stated that under the practice of the court he would have to except specifically. Mr. Scoville then stated that he had intended to file his motion for a new trial, but he would like to have until Monday. The district at-torney objected, and Scoville stated that in that case he would file his motion this afternoon in the clerk's office. The district attorney asked that the court assign Tuesday next for the hearing of argument upon the motion, but upon representation from Mr. Scoville that he would scarcely be able to enter upon the argument at that time, the court declined to fix a day at

· MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY.

A Wealthy Woman Poisoned by Opium Ad-ministered by Unknown Hands. In Louisville, Mrs. Belle Oldham, a well known and wealthy woman, who lived near the city limits, was found lying dead to make general nominations for the several in her bed. From the discoloration of her offices to be filled at the coming municipal face, her clenched bands, and the general appearance of the body, the physicians decided that she had been poisoned with opium, violently administered by other hands than her Fourth, Sixth and Eighth . wards: Common Councilmen and Ward Officers; Aldermen in own. The only circumstances that go to shed light upon the deed are these : Early in the evening a negro woman called at Mrs. Oldham's house and asked FROM 6 TO S P. M. (except in the Eighth ward, permission to remain all night. The request was complied with, and a pallet made for her in an adjoining room. An eight-year-old boy of Mrs. Oldham's says that his mother put him to bed and then went into the room where the negro lay. The boy, on awakening, missed his mother, and after calling her went to her room and found her lying on the bed with her clothes nearly all torn from her body. The negro had gone out of the house through a side window which ham is suing for a divorce from her husband, and at the last term of the chancery court had won a law-suit conveying to he
