A SAPPY NEW YEAR!

The season of PSI closed one of the most brillant and successful campaigns in the history of our trade. We congratulate our patrons and ourselves in anticipation of a lively and increased Spring Trade.
In order to meet the demand we have made extensive improvements in our room and otherwise extended our facil ities to present our spring offering of Select and Choice FOREIGN NOVELities to present our spring offering of Select and Cholce FOREIGN NOVEL-TIES to arrive about the First of Ferrauary. We will be able to please the most aesthetic as well as the general class of trade. A great desideratum among our people seems to be a cheap article in Clothing. There is no good in it We have tried it and found it don't pay. We will wager one of our $30 Overcoats will last three seasons' hard wear and look genteel, while a $20 Overcoat will hardly be recognized after one season's wear. Where is the economy in buying trash? Few persons are competent judges of fine articles of Clothing done up in first-class style; therefore, we invite special class style; therefore, we invite special attention to our establishment, where can be found at all times the very best in the market, at prices as reasonable as can be expected. We are selling a few HEAVY-WEIGHT

THE VARIED PHASES OF DAILY LIFE

Public Points and Political Pickings. Secretary Hunt has telegraphed to the navy department agents abroad to pay all drafts drawn by the Jeannette sur-Mr. Riddleberger announces that he will build up a little Senate party of his own in the United States Senate if neither the Democratic nor the Republican principles suit him. The London papers unite in congratula-tions on the abandonment of Mr. Blaine's policy and condemn him for "muddling things all round." English lawyers, according to a special cable letter, denounce Mr. Porter's speech in the Guiteau case and think that Mr. Davidge and Mr. Scoville have come best out of the trial. Judge Cox's charge is highly spoken of.

Crime and Criminals. Edward Fox, the ten-year-old incendiary of Flushing, L. I., has confessed to setting fire to buildings in order to see the firemen run. Simon Donnegan, of Pittsburgh, has been arrested and held to await the result of an inquest as to his wife's death. Burglars stole a large quanity of dry goods from H. S. Mott's store at Milford. Pa., but left untouched a bank-book which lay on the counter and contained several hundred dollars. "Harry" Maxwell, a sporting man o Fort Wayne, Ind., was struck on the head in a saloon by "Jeff" Morris, a gambler, and his skull was crushed. He will die. Maxwell's friends tried to shoot Morris or his way to jail.

At Puerto del Chocolat, near the frontier, two Mexican officers were wounded, Captain Jose A. Romero fatally and Lieutenant F. Gonzales seriously, by drunken soldiers of their command. At Laural Springs, N. C., Mr. Woodie, a young man who was recently married, came in from a hunting expedition and asked his bride to pull his boots off. She declined. He then picked up a gun and shot himself dead. A Drunken Domestic with a Carving Knife. In Montreal, Annie Marion, servant to Alderman Beaucamp, got drunk and threatened the life of the alderman's four children with a carving knife, during the absence of the adults of the family. Two of the children ran from the house in their night clothes and the other two locked themselves in their room. Mr. E. Globensky, advocate, and Constable Bastien, attracted by the cries, arrested the woman. The constable's overcoat was torn from his back and his hand gashed by the

A Pastor Found Guilty. In Bloomington, Ill., Rev. H. O. Hoff-man, pastor of the First Methodist church, has been on trial before a committee of the church for ten days, the charges being seduction and bastardy. A unanimous verdict was found declaring him guilty.

Mr. Hoffman is one of the most prominent and talented Methodist ministers in the West and is 47 years of age. About six years ago he was acquitted of a similar charge by a church court at Quiney. Murder Suspected. An unknown man, apparently a German, about 35 years old, was found in the woods near Linden, N. J., frozen stiff. He was sitting on the ground, leaning against a chestnut sapling, with a rope loosely entwined around his neck and hanging slack from a twig incapable of supporting his weight. There is a suspicion that he was murdered and put in that position to mislead those who should

Don't Slam the Door. William Rutherford, a cowkeeper in the western suburbs of Durham, was leading a bull which had broken loose into an outhouse. The slamming of the door irritated the animal and it knocked Rutherford down, knelt on him and gored him with its horns. He was taken to the Durham county hospital, where he died.

Shot Sitting on His Coffin. At Hermosello, Mexico, a large crowd assembled in the public square to witness the shooting of Yoqui, an Indian, convicted of assassinating a Mexican. The Indian scated himself on the coffin, and, refusing to be blindfolded, stolidly faced the file of soldiers drawn up in front. He never flinched when the word was given to fire and fell over from the coffin pierced with the bullets. An American named Yates and a Mexican are still in prison at the same place undersentence of death for Sending Home an Account of His Own Death at the Hands of Stage-Robbers. A few days ago there appeared a copy of a letter forwarded to the Brooklyn Eagle narrating the murder on the Staked Plains of Texas of Ed. White, a boy known as the "Brooklyn kid." His parents are now living in Brooklyn. Since the publication of that letter the original has been carefully compared with other effusions which are undoubtedly in the same handwriting, and it is agreed by White's brothers, some of his old companions and by Will Howell, who traveled with White, that the communication was written by the "Brooklyn kid" himself, Superintendent Campbell, of the Brooklyn police. has sent a communication to the sheriff of the place asking for all information in the matter. The boy was well known in the neighborhood of his home and attended the public school in his district. An Attack on Two Women Quickly Avenged A young man named Lee, of West Middlesex, Butler county, started out on a hunting expedition. Late in the afternoon, while walking through the woods a few miles from home, he met two young lady acquaintances, who also lived in West Middlesex. Without any provoca and will see a rather portly gen-West Middlesex. Without any provoca tion whatever, Lee raised his gun and fired two shots, wounding both women, but neither of them seriously. He then ran away, and the young women managed after much pain and difficulty to reach their homes, where they informed their friends of the shooting. A brother of one of them, named Allison, together with three other men, started in pursuit of Lee and came upon him in the woods. He Cunning Mr. Wilde! They were greatly surprised and informed the inspector that they would make good the until another appointment be made. They concluded to do the latter. Grant has tendered his resignation, to take effect on the first of the coming month. Two of the sureties, Bechtel and Kutz, were willing to let Grant stay in charge of the office until his successor had been named, but Levan would not agree to this. Grant has confessed judgment in $3,000 to his bondsmen which was entered in court. A number of candidates are already in the field, among them being George K. Whitner, who is pushed by J. Howard Jacobs and the united delegation to the next Republican state convention. A delegation in Whitner's interest will leave for Washingington shortly to press his claims. Senator Dou Cameron is said to approve Whit ner's candidacy. Efforts have been made for some months to secure the removal of

Is Smallpox Spread by Carriages? Some excitement has been caused in Philadelphia by the publication of a letter addressed to the board of health by D. H. Schuyler, an undertaker, who writes that smallpox is being spread over the city by means of carriages. He says that it is largely the custom to have the bodies of children, who die of smallpox or other contagious diseases, carried to the cemetery in a carriage, instead of a hearse, as a carriage costs less. Very often, after a carriage returns to the stable after such a funeral, it is immediately sent to take a family shopping or to the theatre or elsewhere. Inquiry among the undertakers of the city corroborates Schuyler's statements. The undertakers say there is no doubt but that many cases of smallpox found among well-to-do families and for which no cause has been assigned arose in this way. This practice is said to prevail more or less in every large city, and one undertaker said that in New York he knew it prevailed, because he had been in business there at one time. Schuyler's reason for writing the letter is, he says, that "he could not bear to see death spread so certainly any longer." He admits having been guilty of the practice

Railroad Accidents. Flagman Patrick M. Griffin, of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, found a piece of wood driven between the rails at the Riverdale avenue crossing, near the iron bridge, so as to throw the train off the track. Two trains had passed over, when the wood was found. The wood being part of an old tie the flange of the wheel cut into and passed over safely. The police are of the impression that the obstruction was placed on the track by some laborers living along the railroad who helped to clear away the wreck of the Albany express at Spayten Duyvil. They worked all night and were not paid for their services. A collision occurred on Thursday night on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, near Sturgis, Mich, in which two freight trains, including fifteen ears and two engines, were completely wrecked. The accident was caused by the carelessness of a telegraph operator. The loss is heavy.

The fast freight on the New Jersey Central road struck and killed James Tinsman, living at Milford, N. J. He was on his way home from Washington, N. J., where he worked-each week he spent Sunday with his family, and when killed he was walking to take the train for Mil-

The Anti-Jewish Agitation, The persecution of the Jews in Russia continues to awaken the deepest sympathy among all classes in London and to provoke a strong feeling against Russia. Mr. Gladstone's refusal to remonstrate with the Russian government is strongly condemned. When the bastard and mongrel population of Bulgaria was badly treated the premier made all Europe ring with denunciations of the unspeakable Turk, but he was not in power then. The Rothschilds and other powerful Jewish families are raising a fund for the emigration of the Russian Jews to the United States, but they cannot do much without active aid from the government, and this Mr. Gladstone declines to give them. The Russian authorities appear to be encouraging the war upon the Jews, probably because Jew-baiting is heading off Nihilism. Dispatches relating to the brutalities perpetrated upon the unhappy people are suppressed by the military consorship, but the tales told by fugitives show that they are being subjected to the vilest treatment and torture. The Czar, who is said to be personally well disposed to the Jews, is powerless. All his time is de-voted to providing for his own safety, and should murder Jews rather than dig dynamite mines. It is stated on good authority that German residents in Russia are also being maltreated, and that when the Jews are disposed of the peasants will made short work of Bismarck's copatriots. The Czar and the Emperor William are continually exchanging love messages, but their subjects cordially detest each other. A meeting of citizeos of New York, without distinction of creed, will be held on Wednesday evening at Chickering hall, for the purpose of expressing their sympathy with the perseented Hebrews in the

I notice that a great many journals are denouncing Mr. Wilde as a "fool" and an "ass," because he wears long hair and knee-breeches and is so exceedingly "asthetic," but they are altogether wrong. He is neither a fool nor an ass, but a very astute young gentleman, who, as poor Louis Napoleon said, comprehends his era. Whoever happens to encounter Mr. Wilde some ten or twelve years hence wil probtleman, dressed in a plain business suit, wearing his hair close cropped, taking a keen interest in the stock market, but little or none in Beauty with a large B, and is in humbug, and you know it.

An Old Bell.

The bell hanging in the belfry at the Episcopal church in Ellicottville, N. Y., s one of the oldest in America. It was cast in Moscow, Russia, in 1708, and was one of a chime of bells in a cathedral in that city. The cathedral was burned by Napoleon in 1811. Several years after ward the bell was sold in a lot of old metal which became ballast for a vessel sailing to New York without cargo. Audrew Menceley of Troy discovered it in a scrap pile in New York years afterward. He bought it and for a long time it was kept by him at his bell foundry in Troy as a curiosity. In 1831 a resident at Ellicottville went to Troy to buy a bell for the Episcopal church which had just been completed. He induced the foundryman to sell him the old Russian bell. been in use here ever since.

A White House Reminiscence Hon. R. Stockett Mathews lectured at Otterbein chapel, United Brethren, corner of Scott and St. Peter streets, upon "Polities and Politicians at Home and Abroad. In illustration of the lack of proper dignity in American politics, Mr. Mathews caustically recounted his experience some years ago as a member of a committee which went to Washington to present the then president's wife with a portrait of her husband. The president was found standing, with an enormous cigar in his mouth, between two disreputable politicians-one from West Virginia and the other from Kentucky-and while the committee presented the address and the portrait, the president puffed away at his eigar, his hands meanwhile being plunged deep in his pockets. At the conclusion of the presentation the committee was allowed to withdraw without a word of thanks. From this Mr. Mathews was led to believe that good manners were not considered an es sential characteristic in a public officer.
