Don't Neglect the Lawn. jermantown Telegraph.

It must be freely admitted by every man and woman of taste, that where there is room there is nothing about a private residence so attractive and beautiful as a well-kept lawn ; but this addition cannot be permanently secured unless it receives proper attention. This proper attention, however, is of a rather peculiar kind, but requires very little labor and expense There is nothing that will keep in good heart by so little manuring or rather fertilizing, and there is nothing that resist so pertinaciously the application of long or stable manure. In course of time no doubt a lawn will suffer for want of recuperating by the application of some stimulating fertilizer but he would not even recommend guano for this purpose unless occasionally to a light extent, and then to hurry up some bare or barren spots, which would otherwise disfigure the rest. No doubt ashes would be good, and so would the rich finescrapings of a woodpile, a dungyard, etc.; but we conceive that there is nothing so well adapted to lawns as artificial fertilizers of undoubted excellence, as are some of the phosphates, of course as a topdressing ; but none of these should be ap plied yearly; in fact once in three years i quite frequent enough. Our own experi ence proves this. At one period we used nothing for eight years, and the lawn was better than a majority of others that we saw ; but we should not recommend this. The soil of our lawn has not been dis ought to have been done. Besides it was sown in August of that year, and before add more land, and in the mean the season closed it was covered with a perfect, even sward. In the spring, as soon, say at the end of
