ROBBID IN MEXICO.

Misfortunes Which Betel a Lancastrian. A private letter dated Hermosillo, Mex ico, states that Horace D. Gast, formerly of this city and more recently city treasurer of Pueblo, Colorado, but now connected | White Swelling, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes and for with a new railroad enterprise in Mex- young men suffering from Weakness or Deico, recently met with an exciting adven- baity caused from imprudence, and to females ture near Hermosillo. It appears that he in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are had visited the village in company with a especially recommended, lady and gentleman, and by some means became separated from them. Being unacquainted in the place he lost himself while searching for his companions, and seeing a cab driving in the direction he thought he ought to go, he bailed the driver and engaged him to take him home. Soon after he cutered the cab it stopped, and a Mexican got in and took a seat beside him. After being driven for some distance, the cab left the road, and Gast became suspicious that the Mexican the driver meant to rob him. sprang from the cab and to his beels. The Mexialso sprang from the cab and gave chase, soon overtaking him. A struggle ensued, and Gast, being unarmed, pulled from his pocket a large door-key and aimed it at the Mexican, which kept him in check for a short time, but the driver coming up, and the pair finding that Gast had no pistol, closed in en him, and after a desperate struggle succeeded in robbing him of $15 in money, a silver watch given him by his father, and a chain made of his father's hair, which were highly valued. They then left him, and he wandered about for several hours before he was able to find his way to his quarters. He has some hopes of recovering the watch, as the robbers are likely to attempt to pawn
