We prefer two eyes or buds to a graft, and would rather have only one than more than two. One year's wood should always be used when it can be obtained, as it is more certain to take and grows more vigorously, and the graft should be cut from bearing branches. We wish to remind those preparing grafting wax, that we have found four parts of rosin, one part of beeswax, and one part beef tallow to be the best proportions. Melt them together in a skillet, (which is best,) or a tincup, and mix well. It should remain in the vessel and used as needed. Twenty or thirty scions can be waxed with one heating up. When much grafting is to be done, a little fire for heating the wax should be made on the spot, between the bricks or stones. We have seen various preparations for making grafting-wax, and we believe we making grafting-wax, and we believe we have tried nearly all, but perfer our own where there is only a little grafting to do, though we should adopt that recommended by our friend Larkin of Delaware ded by our friend Larkin, of Delaware TURNPIKE STOCKS. ette:—
A hard-working farmer had been aff. Letea with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed carnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try

Reigart's Old Brandy, used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; th first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which helchose to cat. He still keeps it and uses a lit-tle occasionally; and since he has this medi-cine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor .- A PRACTISING PRYSICIAN. H. E. SLAYMAKER,
