Cattle and Cow-boys on the Plains.

Country Gentleman. The management and control of great herds of cattle on natural pastures has many features both novel and interesting to the eastern farmer.

The management and control of great herds of cattle on natural pastures has many features both novel and interesting to the eastern farmer. From the state line south of Kansas and from the western boundary of Harper county, for a long way, the whole country is an open range where instead of fences the cattle are controlled by mounted patrols, the "cowboys" of the plains. The system of guarding is now quite perfect. Cattle are held by parties owning one hundred to ten thousand head, and these parties are holding under one system a range of forty to eighty miles across. Camps are made so that the boys can ride a line around the outer circle, and turn back those which are straying. Each camp has a dog out or so called, and accommodates two to six men and their cook, and the riding a line and guarding cattle is their sole work. The spring "round up," "cutting out" cattle for market and going for strays are the reliefs to a rather monotonous life.

The brands of various owners are carefully recorded and known in each camp. Often during a driving storm cattle will get out of the pool, and during the severe blasts of the winter of 1880 and 1881 very many lots were quite scattered, and not recovered until late in the succeeding summer. A party of three of us were camped in one of the first of these storms, and sleeping safely under our tent cloth in a deep "draw" or ravine. Awakened at night by cattle we soon were surrounded by several hundred head of Texas long horns. They stopped partly sheltered from the wind, and here, for three hours in the darkness, and the rain, near our heads, a mounted cowboy sat and sang a musical refrain. I supposed for his own amusement, but learned next day that it was to soothe the cattle and let them know of his presence. The scene was particularly weird and strange, but this is part of the guard's duties. At the annual round up a party start out with mess wagon, cook, men having three to six ponies each, and for weeks are gathering the cattle in bunches and branding them. Strayed cattle are recognized by the brand, the owner and the vicinity of his pool determined by a reference to a book, and a card sent to him when at some distance. Should his pool be one joining, the outriders or "liners" can check them where they belong. These cattlemen now largely graded with fine stock, and many even bunches held for one time of sale.

The cowboys are as such a separate class as the sailors are: sometimes very similar. A way from the settlements they are sociable, kind, and hospitable, and pay day they often flock to the border towns, spend in a spree the entire earnings of an entire season, and finally, after getting in some conflict with city authorities, jump on their ponies and are off for another six months. Many of these are Missouri and Texas boys, but among these are a great many steady young men, who, having a few cattle, thus isolate themselves for a season to learn the business and recruit their pockets. Their ponies are Texas bronchos, tough and well broken. The outfit commonly a walk, with head drooping, and a rider on a forty to sixty pound saddle seated well back, nearly on the haunches. The cowboy's outfit is peculiar, and betrays great pride in getting up in style. According to authority a man's hat makes the man, and his is a great waterproof with leather band or an imitation rattlesnake instead. The necessities of an outfit were given by one as follows: Saddle, $35; quilt, $5; bridle, $5; boots, $10; slicker, $2; leggings, $1; pony, 15 cents. But in truth their ponies are commonly good, and must be of good wind and bottom for rounding up and cutting out cattle.

Early Garden Crops. As soon this month as the ground is in a condition to prepare for planting, there are several varieties of seeds that can be sown or set out, such as Onions, Rutabaga, Hoseradish, Celery, Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, Lettuce, Spinach, the Long Scarlet and White Turnip Radish, Tomatoes to follow those in hotbed, Extra Early Peas, &c.

Asparagus beds can also be prepared. The ground should be dug twelve to four ten inches in depth, heavily dressed with rich barnyard manure, the crowns of the plants set from three to six inches beneath the surface. The rows should be two feet apart, and the plants in the rows from nine to twelve inches apart. In field planting, where the work is done with farm implements, the rows should be at least three feet apart. Some people think that in raising asparagus there is a great deal to be learned from a garden, where it is a regular crop, they will soon discover that it is about as easy to do as most other garden crops. A bed carefully prepared will last for a quarter of a century, and there is another crop about which there is so little trouble? Covering the beds up in November with a coat of rich manure, and in the beginning of April rake off the coarsest portion that remains, and fork the rest in, and the work is done. Asparagus plants, before they are put in ground, should be as little exposed to the sun as possible. If they come from any distance they should be packed in sand, and if otherwise it is well to cover them with soil until planted.

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 11 Platt street, New York: GENTLEMEN:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. BENSON'S CAPSICINE PLASTER is a genuine Pharmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

When other remedies fail, get a BENSON'S CAPSICINE PLASTER. You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pains or Electrical Magnetic Toys.

REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE. Brandy as a Medicine. The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practicing physician, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice. It is commended to the attention of those afflicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abused Alcohol Stimulant was never intended for medicinal purposes, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miserable disease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, A Sovereign Remedy for all their ills and aches. Be it, however strictly objected that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is REIGART'S OLD BRANDY, sold by our enterprising young friend, it is the best for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give the preference over all other brands, no matter how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case of case. In proof of the very little potency of Reigart's Old Brandy, in cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite.

A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly; no appetite in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McEgrian's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as his preaching at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When asked to try Reigart's Old Brandy, in his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of receiving anything which he chose to eat. He still keeps it and uses it occasionally; and since he has this health, he has been very little pecuniary benefited to the doctor.—A PRACTISING PHYSICIAN.

CLOTHING.

TALK: Christmas has come and gone. The old year has kissed its "good bye" to "and dropped back into the past, taking its place among the most eventful years of history. The Holidays are over. The giddy gives have ceased their giving, and the time when any thing and everything would sell so readily has gone. The "old fog" merchants are preparing to wear out their cushions and trousers by sitting themselves down during the months of January, February and March, to await the coming of "SPRING TRADE."

The "WIDE AWAKE" MERCHANT, the "Man-Who-never-Has-a-Dull-Season," the man who has learned that trade can be made in the usually dull months by working for it is launching forth some new idea, some attraction which will draw the people; and accordingly keep the trade a "booming" and give his sleepy neighbors something to talk about and worry over. Can any person be so obstinately blind as not to see that the "EVER RUSY MERCHANT" is the one who REDUCES HIS GOODS TO COST in the dull season rather than store them away for the next season, whether his neighbor likes it or not, and such a store is being sought after by the swarming thousands of Lancaster city and county's purchasers.

AND NOW WE HAVE OUR STORE ILLUMINATED BY THE ELECTRIC LIGHT by which every tint and color can be seen as well by night as by day. I therefore call your attention that every garment has been MARKED DOWN TO COST FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, whereby you will be enabled to buy an OVERCOAT OR SUIT OF CLOTHES AT A VERY LOW PRICE Having still a good assortment on hand to select from. My "Custom Made Department" is filled with the choicest Wooleens the market affords. A perfect fit always guaranteed.
