NEWS AND COMMENT.

BREWSTER'S LETTER TO COL. COOK.

The Floods.—In a Trance.—Fratricidal Combat.—Miscellaneous News Items Gleaned from the Sunday Papers.

Attorney General Brewster replies to Colonel Cook as follows: I have received your letter dated the 14th of March, 1882. It was a surprise to me and I could not see the necessity for it. I have considered your proposed withdrawal from the star route cases as submitted to me in that letter. I have read the reasons which you say rule you. As they are the conclusions of your own judgment, and relate exclusively to yourself, I will not do more than accept them as they are presented, and with me they must be final. It is true, as you stated, that you were selected by my predecessor, as Mr. Bliss and myself were. Had I not been advanced to the position I now hold, I would have continued to act for the government, as I believed you would and as Mr. Bliss has acted—not complicating my relation at counsel with the supposed policy of any administration.

I did not think, and I do not believe, that the position of counsel in these cases has the remotest connection with any question of political administration. They are public cases, not political cases; they are pro bono publico. They were confided to us as lawyers, not as politicians. Since I have had the control of them as the attorney general, I have treated them as public cases; and I have been instructed by the president to give them my vigilant attention, and to see that they were prosecuted with diligence and with earnestness to a final result, and that the necessities of justice, and justice only. They will be conducted by counsel upon principles that regulate the ordinary administration of justice, and not with reference to the wishes or policies of any president, no matter what his name may be. Had you continued in the cases and labored in them your usefulness would have been appreciated.

Mr. Bliss, to whom the matter was committed at the instance of the postoffice department by whom it was specially invited, has exercised his peculiar skill in methodizing and organizing and executing all that was necessary to prepare the way for securing the bringing over and indictment of the accused, and he did secure a final result. The indictments, because of their fundamental nature, were caused to be prepared by Mr. Kor, of Philadelphia, a gentleman conspicuously experienced as a draftsman of criminal pleadings. He is an acknowledged eminent expert in that branch of the law. These indictments have been found and they are now soon to be tried before a traverse jury. At this juncture, on the eve of these trials, you announce to me that you propose to withdraw from these cases. You say that this is the most appropriate time for you to do so. It is not for my consideration and action. Of that you must judge, both as to the necessity for the withdrawal and the fitness of the time. All that I can say is to acknowledge your request and accept it.

Drift from the Southern Floods. Two hundred and seventy thousand government rations have already been distributed in the state of Louisiana. Governor McEnery has received applications for rations for 70,000 persons. The Yazoo river was one foot higher than in 1877. People are disengaging property and seeking only to save human life. The court house is crowded and steamers are removing the sufferers as fast as they can. Twelve hundred were removed on Saturday night. A cotton gin house, full of refugees, was swept away and all drowned.

New Orleans dispatches say: A resume of the week shows a large increase of area recovered by flood waters from Helena to the mouth of the Mississippi river. In the Yazoo Valley the water reported to be rising rapidly. Four steamers, of the Parish line, are continuously traversing that section, carrying supplies and bringing out people and stock. In the Yazoo Delta, from Vicksburg to Cold Water, a bar was broken over 400 yds. and from the hills on the east to the Mississippi river on the west, 40 to 60 miles in width, the greater part of the lowlands is submerged, including Cold Water, Tallahatchie, Yazoo, Sunflower and Dyer Creek. Some loss of life is reported. The greatest destitution and suffering of property prevails in the back counties. Seventy thousand rations per week should be sent to the state agent at Vicksburg for the back counties until the flood subsides, and 100,000 rations per week to the state agent at Memphis for the counties on river points, also tents for both places. There are now reported thirty-three breaks between Hushpackana and Greenville, Miss., and terrible suffering is experienced from the disaster. A dispatch says: Water from Milliken's bend has submerged the timber of Duckport and houses are floating for miles into the country. The steamer Cannon arrived at Vicksburg yesterday. Captain Campbell says he rescued over two hundred head of cattle, mules, &c., and a number of families from the tops of the trees, and at one place went out into the swamp about a mile and a half for thirty people who were literally starving to death. The captain reports a terrible condition of affairs below, and says that in many instances there is not only a lack of means, but absolute poverty. The pilots of the Cannon report five feet of water over Newtown, Miss. Below Newtown the whole country, with the exception of Natchez, Miss., is submerged.

Three Days in a Trance. Rain has been falling in torrents during the last six weeks, doing great damage to railroads in the provinces Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes. The towns of Sao Paulo, Macahe, Paraty and Pirahi have been almost destroyed and many persons have been drowned.

Disastrous Rains in South America. Many fields of grain in the Suscol hills, Cal., have been devastated by wild geese and ducks. The farmers have tried to keep the birds away by illuminating their fields at night with large lamps and having men ride around on horseback every few hours, but with little success.

Smallpox in Virginia. Smallpox of a malignant type is prevailing in the negro settlement at Long Ridge, Norfolk county, Va., about 15 miles from Norfolk. Over 50 cases are reported and means in their power to restore animation, but as yet have not been successful. About 12 o'clock Friday night she was apparently revived when she asked for a drink of water a faint voice. After drinking about a spoonful she closed her eyes and did not speak again until five o'clock that evening, when one of the attending physicians succeeded in arousing her. He attempted to administer some medicine when she remarked, faintly and slowly, "I am not sick," and immediately relapsed into the same condition, being a deep sleep, in which she now remains.

Attempting to Kill His Boy to Spite His Wife. The authorities of Lenox have captured Cummings, who attempted to murder his son in June last, and will give him a trial at the next term of court. It seems that Cummings became jealous of his wife without provocation. One Sunday morning he responded to a call to attend a sick neighbor, which so enraged Cummings that he swore he would have revenge. He had an only son, Willie, 12 years of age, and he resolved to do injury to the boy to spite his wife. Accordingly he asked Willie to take a walk with him in the forest, and the boy gladly accepted. While they were walking in a ravine a mile from the house, Cummings stepped behind his son, and picking up a piece of fence rail, struck the boy with it on the back of the head, felling him to the ground. He begged piteously to be spared; but the father paid no heed to his cries, and clubbed him until he considered life extinct. He then rolled the body under the rocks and covered it with brush and returned home alone his wife inquired for Willie. He said that the boy was visiting at a neighbor's. He soon afterward left the house, and was a fugitive from justice until last week. The mother waited anxiously for the boy to return for several hours, and then with friends started in search of him. The boy had rolled several feet from where his father left him, and was alive when they found him. He was taken home, and for four months lay between life and death. He is now an idiot, and can neither speak nor hear.

Brothers in Deadly Combat. In Chesterfield, S. C., William and John Baker were brothers. The former, though quite young, was a widower, and anxious to marry again. His brother John had a very attractive daughter, and William had fallen in love with her, despite the fact that she was his niece. Her father opposed the suit, and on this account there was some bad feeling between the brothers. William went to his brother's house to talk with the young lady of his choice, and there met her father. Both men had been drinking, and William, being disposed to be hilarious, managed to get hold of his brother's revolver and fired it off in the house. John remonstrated with William, and asked what he meant by such behavior, whereupon William fired the pistol again. John then sprang upon him. A deadly scuffle ensued. The younger brother had the pistol, but the two men were entangled together so that he could not cock it, and thumped it to get hold of his knife. John in the meantime whipped out his own dirk and stabbed William fatally before the latter could use his knife effectively. John Baker has surrendered himself. He claims to have acted entirely in self-defense from beginning to end. William was the favorite son of the aged father of the two men, who has announced his purpose to do all he can to secure John's conviction.

Lynching the Executed of Gaitan. At Tampa a young Englishman, C. D. Owens, attacked a young lady and stabbed her nearly to death. He was captured and placed in jail, but within an hour he was taken out by a mob and hanged to a shade tree in the court house yard, where the United States court was in session at the time. The mayor and sheriff protested and Lieutenant Dames, of the United States artillery, ordered out the garrison to rescue the prisoner, but before the troops arrived Owens was a dead man. He was the exact image of Gaitan.

A Steamer Blown Over on a Dam. The large stern-wheel steamer Montana, on her way from Pittsburg to St. Louis with a large miscellaneous cargo, was blown over on a dam at the mouth of the canal in Louisville. A portion of her hull is broken, but it is believed that she can be released. It will be necessary to dock her, however, before she can proceed on her voyage. The accident was caused by a blockade of coal barges at the entrance of the canal.

Two European Theatres in Flames. In Marsailles, the Crystal Palace theatre has been destroyed by fire. The loss is $100,000 francs. The actors had great difficulty in effecting their escape from the burning building.

In St. Petersburg a fire broke out in the Winter Livadia theatre during the performance. So far as known no lives were lost.

Setting Forests on Fire. It is believed that the fires started in the woods at Mastie, in the town of Brookhaven, N. Y., and which destroyed over fifty acres of valuable timber, were started by a party of boys who had been secured against several persons, and a number of arrests are expected in a few days. The woods and houses are now guarded night and day.

Snow Blockade. The snow blockade on the Central Pacific railroad continues. Advice from Emigrant Gap says that a snow plow, with eight engines, has cleared the road between Truckee and Blue Canon. Two sections of a western bound migrant train and two plows are stuck between Ala and Blue Canon. One section of a western-bound passenger train is also lying there. It is now snowing.

A shad, weighing 51 pounds, the largest of the season, caught off Weehawken, on St. Patrick's day, was exhibited in Fulton market yesterday. The fisherman received $1 a pound for it. Fishermen say that shad will presently begin to run in numbers.

Disastrous Rains in South America. Many fields of grain in the Suscol hills, Cal., have been devastated by wild geese and ducks. The farmers have tried to keep the birds away by illuminating their fields at night with large lamps and having men ride around on horseback every few hours, but with little success.

Smallpox in Virginia. Smallpox of a malignant type is prevailing in the negro settlement at Long Ridge, Norfolk county, Va., about 15 miles from Norfolk. Over 50 cases are reported and many deaths. A colored man vaccinated himself and others with a scab from a smallpox patient and all thus inoculated died.

Killing Her Child While Drunk. In New Brunswick, N. J., Nancy Bell, colored, while on a drunken carousal at her home, fell on her ten months' old child and killed it. She left the city before her arrest could be effected.

Result of an Old Grudge. An' Good Hope, Ill., Thomas Edmonson, an old and highly respected citizen, was shot three times and almost instantly killed by a young man named Dick. The murderer was promptly by an old grudge.

MEDICAL. THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL. AKRON, Erie county, N. Y., December 4, 1881. To the Proprietors of Thomas' Electric Oil: GENTS—Last March I took a severe cold, and being negligent in doctoring it, brought the Asthma on me very severe. I could not lie down or sleep for wheezing and shortness of breath. I took this thing and that, and tried different doctors, but found no relief. Six months ago I saw an advertisement in the papers recommending Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, so I thought I would try that, and wonderful to relate, yet nevertheless true, the first dose I took relieved me in a few minutes, and before I had taken one fourth of a 50-cent bottle I could breathe freely and sleep as usual. It is equally efficacious for cuts, bruises, burns and rheumatism. I woke up one morning since with such pain in my chest that I could not draw a long breath. My wife said "rub on Thomas' Electric Oil." I did so, and in a few minutes the pain was gone, and I have not felt it since. My wife also had a severe attack of rheumatism in the arm and side. She applied the oil with the same result. I would not be without it. I had to walk ten miles for it, and then pay $5 for a 50-cent bottle. I send you this testimonial, hoping you will publish it, so that suffering humanity may be relieved of their aches and pains. Yours respectfully, S. S. GRIOU, AKRON, O., N. Y.

A Lady Cured of Rheumatism. Baltimore, Md., May 7, 1880. My health was much shattered by Rheumatism when I commenced taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, and I scarcely had strength enough to attend to my daily household duties. Kidney Disease Cured. Christianburg, Va., 1881. Suffering from kidney disease from which I could get no relief I tried BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, which cured me completely. Heart Disease. Vine St., Harrisburg, Pa., December 2, 1881. After trying different physicians and many remedies for palpitation of the heart without receiving any benefit, I was advised to try BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief. Mrs. JENNIE HESS.
