OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE. Affairs Along the Susquehanna-Gleanings in and Around the Borough Picked up by the Intelligencer's Reporter. The Fair a Succes The sun-bonnet and apron fair of the St. ing health for some time past, but was not John's Lutheran Church Working society, regularly attended by a physician. Yesheld on Friday and Saturday evenings, o last week, was a decided success, notwith-standing the inclement weather of Saturday evening. About $100 was the net proceeds for both evenings' entertainment.

The ladies of the society desire to return empanelled a jury and held an inquest. It their thanks to Mr. A. R. Hogendobler for appeared from the testimony before the the use of his room, to Mr. S. S. Klair for jury that death resulted from a general donations of ice, and to the many citizens breaking down of the system in consewho so kindly contributed articles to the society and gave them their patronage. The proceeds of the fair will go towards the farnishing of their new church.

Large Funeral. The funeral of Mr. Amos Hershey, son in law of Mr. Christian Hershey, yester-day from the latter's residence on Walnut street, was very largely attended. Fiftythree members of the Osceola tribe of Redmen in regalias, of which deceased was a member, were present. Their ceremony had a hearse and coaches in waiting to at the grave was very impressive as they laid to rest the remains of their faithful departed comrade. Mr. Hershey's death has cast a deep gloom over all who knew him, and with whom he had ever been a great favorite. A handsome wreath of flowers was presented by a committee of sic young P. R. The "German Volunteer," a grand military allegory, for the banefit of the Marietta post of the G. A. R., will be played in the Columbia opera house on Friday evening, March 24. Wherever this piece has been played it has been received with unbounded enthusiasm. With the exception of the two leading characters, the cast will be taken by members of the Marietta post. Our Columbia citizens should give them a good house, as the Post is "just starting out," and besides they are our neighbors.

Borough Briefs. The Susquehanna is on the rise. A young boy in playing "hop scotch" had his right aukle severely sprained this morning on Second street, by jumping Queer-Snow fell this morning while the sun shone. Mr. Ed. Ziegler has been given the through Columbia daily for the east. The Herald is mistaken in saying the members of the Chiquesalunga tribe 1. O. R. M., held their annual reunion at the Franklin house, on Tuesday evening. Neither was the affair largely attended. There was no re-union at the above place, but there was to be an oyster supper. It was, however, postpoued. A large number of the congregation of the United Brethren church, greatly surprised their pastor, Rev. C. S. Miley. by giving him a party. A delightful evening was spent.

THE SHIFFLER. Meeting of the Company Last Night.

Last evening the Shiffler fire company held a meeting, at which about sixty members were present. A resolution was passed appointing a committee, consisting of B. Bartholomew,

J. W. Anderson and Henry W. Rudy, to wait on the members of the new councils and offer their services as volunteer fire-

George Nagle resigned as a member of the new board of trustees, and John E. Gibson was elected in his place. The new trustees were ordered to file their bonds by next meeting or have their seats declared vacant. Peter S. Goodman was reelected delegate to the state fireman's association.

Mr. Goodman (the same) read an editorial from the Firemen's Journal, of New York, in regard to the new system in this city, in which the writer condemns the call system.

It was stated at the meeting that the company has had two offers for their engine, one from parties in this city and one from Petroe, of Philadelphia.

The fire committee of councils met last night, when the contract with the American fire company was signed, the terms being the same as published in last evening's INTELLIGENCER. The contract with Peter Fordney for a house on Beaver street to be used as an engine house was also signed, Mr. Fordney to make such alterations in the house as the committee

James Haggerty, for being drunk and begging on the street, was sent to jail for a short term by Alderman A. F. Donnelly. James Scerney, a boy who says that he lives in Manayunk and ran away from home, was with Haggerty and he is still with him in prison. Eliza Stewart was also sent out in order that she may sober

Mary Taylor, colored, was arrested while drunk last night for kicking up a fuss in the house of Horace Reynolds. Alderman Donnelly committed her for a hearing.

Burglary.

Last night thieves entered the cellar of the residence of Joseph Umble, county recorder, and stole therefrom a large pound cake, a quantity of bread, butter, meat and other eatibles, and several bottles of wine. An entrance was effected by the thieves by breaking open a back cellar door that was not very securely fastened. They did not attempt, apparently. to force their way into the upper part of

THE GARFIELD GHOULS.

The Greedy Attempts of the Hyers Crowd. Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. The evidences thicken to prove that the illness and death of President Garfield have been made the occasion of the most disgraceful expenditures and the most disreputable attempts to cheat the government with false or extravagant claims for services. From the surgeon general of the army down to the lowest lackey of the army down to the lowest lackey of the White House, there are only a few honorable exceptions to the general rule of an indecent and greedy attempt to extort money out of Congress on the strength of a tragedy that should have warned off this hyena crowd by the awful dignity of its circumstances. Not even all of the physicians have resisted the common temptation, but some of those who did least for the president and whom the dying man finally drove from his bedside, are found among those who are pressing exorbitant demands for uncarned rewards; while all sorts of people in Washington and elsewhere have flocked like carrion crows around the congressional committee room, eager to share in the plunder that is to be divided over the bier of the dead president of the United States.

president of the United States.

Perhaps the very worst feature of all this disgraceful business is the participation it it of members of Congress itself, the body that is to pass upon all these claims for expenditure in President Garfield's case. Hitherto the committee has guarded the itemized bills that have come before it with a close secresy, and well it may, if there is any truth in the fragmentary statements that are gradually leaking out. It is openly alleged that in connection with the funeral expenses, there is an item of $1,700 for champague, brandy, whisky, cigars and lunch, and $300 for cocktails, and another of $1,200 for white gloves. Ice men, who had been charging the general public $3 for ice, have sent in bilts for ice furnished to cool the White House at the rate of $5, with extra claims for carts and help. Persons who rushed in unasked to give advice as to the best way to cool the White House, and whose advice was not taken, have sent in bills for their t ouble. Some of the personal bills of expenses made out by members of the House in connection with the funeral are decency in this matter, to set themselves the country at large. That the exposure will bring disgrace with it is no doubt true. But it will bring the disgrace down to the men to whom it belongs and will relieve Congress itself of the intolerable odium of

It does not occur to Representative Page that there was anything wrong. The bills had all been paid, he says, out of the could not be counsel for company claims, money voted by Congress early in theof which he might as senator have to pass session, and "it was nobody's business if a congressman who had accompanied the funeral train had purchased a jug of During his examination Shipherd stated whisky to take along, even though the hat the only official of the U. SIGNOR ROSSI'S COURAGE.

He Extinguishes a Fire on the Stage and Averts a Panic. Quite an exciting incident occurred at the Chestnut street opera house, Philadelphia, last evening during the impassioned acting of Signor Rossi in the dressing room scene of "Edmund Kean." When room by her husband was made clear to Kean Signor Rossi sprang up and tearing away the cloth which the hairdresser had placed about his shoulders, he hurled it frightfully near one of the flies. Somebody shouted to the people on the stage. Rossi turned, and discovering the danger, Pottsville, March 22.—The fire in stepped quickly to the spot, tore down the Witness was then asked by Mr. Kasson who now holds the Landrean claim, and replied: "It is pow held by Americans but he could not without violating private confidence disclose their names." He declined to give particulars of the company but gave a long explanation of his connection with it and his negotiations commencing with Governor Boutwell in March 1881. He had interested a certain senator whose name he refused to disclose to lay the case before Secretary Blaine. This senator had positively refused to accept a retainer, saying it was a just claim in which the whole country was interested.
