

Lancaster Intelligencer.

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 25, 1893.

The Relevancy of It.

The Examiner indulges its fancy in a great deal of irrelevant talk in its notice of the contested election in the First ward of this city.

The Relevancy of It.

Very naturally, therefore, when this latest contest is inaugurated and the affidavits made by two of the same ready swearers who made affidavits that Steinmetz had received 300 illegal votes...

How much of this is "fancy" may be determined by a reference to the fact that on Tuesday, December 19, 1870, before the commissioners appointed to take the testimony in the Leaman-Steinmetz election contest...

As to its relevancy: This same Hiestand and Eberman now make an affidavit that the election in the First ward last month was "undue and illegal," not because any body voted who had no constitutional right to vote...

Furthermore, it is somewhat doubtful whether the neglect of election officers to their duty is sufficient to disfranchise persons legally entitled to vote.

When Longfellow's poems were first printed, though Bryant had published his "Thanatopsis" and Irving his "Knickerbocker's History," "Poe," says Dr. Abbott, had not yet issued his first book...

A NUMBER of the Republican members of the Philadelphia bar have followed the example of their Democratic brethren in holding a public meeting to demonstrate their opposition to Judge Briggs' election.

For some time the weekly Inquirer, of this city, has been engaged in the rather arduous task of trying to prove that the INTELLIGENCER "lied" when it said it did not know whether or not it had been sued for libel by Calvin Carter.

SEARCH FOR DE LONG.

WHERE HIS BODY MAY BE FOUND.

Secretary Hunt has received from Passed Assistant Engineer George W. Melville, under date of Yakutsk, Eastern Siberia, January 3, a copy of a letter of instructions sent by him to the Ispravnik (local governor) of Verkhoyansk, as follows:

"It is my desire and the wish of the government of the United States of America and of the projector of the American expedition that a diligent and constant search be made for my missing comrades of both boats. Lieutenant DeLong and his party, consisting of twelve persons, will be found near the west bank of the Lena river. They are south of the house known among the Yakouts as Qu Yna. They could not possibly have marched as far south as Bulour. Therefore, they are dead or alive, they are between Qu Yna and Bulour. I have already traveled over the ground, but I followed the river bank. Therefore, it is necessary that a more careful search be made on the ground back from the river for a short distance, as well as along the river bank. I examined many huts and small houses, but could not possibly examine all of them. Therefore, it is necessary that all every house, large or small, be examined for books and papers, or the persons of the party. Men without food and with but little clothing would naturally seek shelter in a hut along the line of one of the huts. They would leave their books and papers in a hut if unable to carry them further.

"If they carried their books and papers south of that section of the country between Mt. Yai and Bulour, they will be found piled up in a heap and some prominent object erected near them to attract the attention of searching parties. A mast of wood or a pile of wood would be erected near them, if not on top of them. In such a case, the Ispravnik should be sent to the American minister resident at St. Petersburg. If they are found in time and care be forwarded to me before I leave Russia, forward them to me. The persons of the dead I wish to have carried to a central position and convenient of access to Bulour and placed inside of small houses, arranged side by side for future recognition, the hut then securely closed and banked up with snow or earth, and to remain so until a proper person arrives from America to make full disposition of the bodies. In banking up the hut have it done in such a manner that animals cannot get in and destroy the bodies.

The Search for Chipp's Men.

"Search for the small boat, consisting of eight persons, should be made from the west mouth of the Lena and beyond the east mouth of the Lena river. After the separation of the three boats no information has been received concerning the small boat, but as all three boats were destined to Barkin and then to go to the mouth of the Lena river, it is natural to suppose that Lieutenant Chipp directed his men to Barkin, and he has been overtaken by the gale, but if he could not find a Lena mouth he would continue along the coast from Barkin west for a north mouth of the Lena, or south for an eastern entrance or mouth of the Lena river. If it is successful in getting into the Lena river he might, from stress of weather or other cause, be forced along the coast toward the Yana river.

"Diligent and constant search is to be commenced at once and to continue till the people, books and papers are found. Care be taken that a vigilant and careful examination of that section of the country where Lieutenant DeLong and his party are known to be made in early spring time, when the snow begins to leave the ground, and before the commencement of the monsoon to overflow the river banks. One or more American officers will, in all probability, be in Belan in time to assist in the search, but the search mentioned in these instructions is to be carried on independently of the party, and to be entirely under the control of the competent authority of Russia."

PERSONAL.

ARCHIBALD FORBES is visiting some of the friendly Indians on the plains. General GRANT was serenaded last evening by the government workmen of Washington.

MR. PRUCE JOHNSTON, of the Philadelphia Record, son of Mr. J. M. Johnston, is visiting his family in this city.

It is rumored in Washington that Richard T. Merrick will be appointed assistant counsel in the Star Route cases, to succeed Cook, resigned.

JOHN M. FRANCIS, of the Troy, New York, Times, is mentioned in Washington as likely to be the next minister to Belgium. He was minister to Greece under President Grant.

The Right Rev. Dr. HOWE, bishop of the Central Pennsylvania diocese, is in the city, the guest of Thos. E. Franklin, esq. He will on to-morrow morning hold confirmation in St. James', and in the evening in St. John's church.

Prof. A. R. HORNE, D.D., of Muhlenberg college, Allentown, has accepted the presidency of the Texas University, at Tyler, Texas, to which he was recently elected. Prof. Horne was a graduate of Pennsylvania college, class of 1858.

BLAINE'S somewhat acrid criticism of the South American policy of the Arthur-Frelinghuysen administration creates but little remark in New York, and that little is based on the conviction that it is simply the querulousness of a disappointed man, whose sensational diplomatic performances have been odious.

ROBERT N. WILSON, Rep., and SAMUEL G. THOMPSON, Dem., are spoken of for the succession to Judge Briggs, of Philadelphia. Either would be acceptable to the people who believe in a non-partisan judiciary. If a Republican is elected in place of Briggs, a Democrat will next year supplant Elocok.

HENRY WARD BEECHER "would like to put the torch label to every custom house on the American coast. He would not abolish those devil dens all at once, but gradually he would abolish the tariff for revenue and raise the revenue by an internal tax. He would have liberty of conscience, of thought; now we want liberty of commerce."

THE LATEST NEWS.

The Mississippi floods continue to subside, except along the Black and Tennessee rivers in the States of Louisiana. The loss in these districts, which contain a population of 58,000 persons, is estimated at $150,000 in stock and fences. The country beyond the mouth of the Black river resembles an inland sea, and water on many of the fields is 9 feet in depth. Several lives have been lost in the flooded districts of Louisiana within a few days.

The farmers in the neighborhood of Columbia, South Carolina, who are fencing their pasture fields in accordance with a law of the late Legislature, which will take effect on the 1st proximo, have been threatened by masked riders for their compliance with the law. "Coffins with death handles and crossbones" have been left at farm houses, and incendiarism has been threatened. A recent fire in Richmond and another in Kershaw county are attributed to these ruffians.

William's Congressman. The Senate of Wisconsin yesterday adopted a congressional apportionment bill, which it is said, will give the Democrats two congressmen from that state if not three.

VanRensselaer's Remains. The remains of the late Philip S. VanRensselaer, who shot himself in the Hotel Brunswick, in New York city, on Wednesday night, were yesterday removed to Andalusia, Bucks county, Pa., for interment.

The painters in Pottstown, this state have demanded an advance of 25 cents per day, to take effect on the 1st proximo.

The Color Line. Judge Nelson, in the Brooklyn city court, yesterday rendered a decision denying the application of Teresa King, the young colored girl, for an injunction to compel the principal of a white school in that city to enroll her as a pupil.

Sale of a Newspaper. A controlling interest in the Boston Advertiser has been purchased by a party of gentlemen, the money being furnished by Mr. Oliver Ames, who, however, will take no part in conducting the paper.

Broke His Neck. F. Hallock, a well-to-do farmer of Franklinville, Suffolk county, New York, fell from his wagon on Thursday and broke his neck.

The Urope. Crop reports from Illinois and Kansas are unusually promising.

Mutilating a Monument. The desecration of the Andre monument at Tarrytown is followed now by a mysterious mutilation of the statue of the soldier on guard surmounting the monument at the entrance of the department to the memory of the fifty-eight of its members who lost their lives during the Civil War. The statue was erected in 1874 at a cost of $45,000, and is one of the most conspicuous adornments of the Central park.

The Last Banner. The banner worn by men for years past has been in the habit of making odder constructions, where with to denote the count down of the moment and the printing office, but in an appearance this morning set up her banner against the railing of the soldier's monument. It contains the usual number of crosses, candles and scriptural quotations, and a letter of explanation, of which the following is the concluding paragraph: "I am done making banners for the streets; and to relieve my mind a little by having a hearty laugh. I say before God and the world if John Wilkes Booth is dead, God has deceived me; and to have revenge I hope all Catholic priests will turn out dancing masters."

Handsome Wagon. Mr. Wm. H. Bollinger, who was until lately proprietor of the "Famous Litzitz Bakery," of that town, appeared on the street to-day in his new baker's wagon, which is a model of convenience and is very handsome. Mr. Bollinger lately removed from Litzitz to Lancaster, and is now doing business in this city.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A YOUNG WOMAN FATALLY BURNED.

Settled fire to her dress with a candle—On the 21st inst. at 10 o'clock a young girl, Miss Lizzie Steigerwalt, a domestic in the family of Sebastian Essick, No. 143 East Chestnut street, met with a terrible accident that will result in her death. Mrs. Essick had retired to her room, and Miss Steigerwalt was in an adjoining room on the second floor front. She had in her hand a lighted candle and was about to retire for the night when she heard on the street, a short distance off, a great noise, caused by a calithumpian serenading party. Placing the lighted candle on a chair beside her, she raised the window and looked out. A moment afterwards she discovered that her dress had taken fire from the candle. Unable to extinguish the flames she ran to Mrs. Essick's door and knocked on it. The girl was seen by Mrs. Essick who also heard the noise on the street misunderstood her to say "There's a fire," and told her to go to bed, and never mind it. But as she continued to knock and scream Mrs. Essick got up and opened her door. The girl was by this time enveloped in flames first ran into Mrs. Essick's room, but crazed with fright and pain instantly ran down stairs and out of the front door, screaming for help. Mr. Abraham W. Russel and Frank Stall, who were on short distance away, ran after her, seized her and threw her down, and attempted to tear from her body the burning garments. But before they succeeded in doing so almost every shred of clothing was burned from her person. By the time Dr. L. C. Egan, Dr. Benjamin Lewis Haly, Harry C. Moore and some other neighbors arrived, and some of them took off their coats with which to cover the charred body of the poor girl. She was carried into Mrs. Essick's house, and Dr. Mary Wilson was sent for, who administered the usual remedies. The girl's father, John Steigerwalt, and Rev. Dr. Knight were also sent for, and were soon at her bedside. The scene was a most affecting one. The victim was burned almost to a crisp, but she was not in any pain, and though suffering the most intense pain, conversed with her friends and asked to be taken home to die. Between 10 and 11 o'clock she was removed to the residence of her father on Hazel street, where she died at 12 o'clock. Her father, a native of New Holland, this country, but left his birthplace thirty years ago. He was the son of William and Margaret Diller, a brother of the late Susan R. Smith and of Mrs. Margaret B. Hill, the latter being the mother of the present member of the family. The coroner says: "Mr. Diller, although quiet and reserved in disposition, was an amiable and genial companion, a true friend and possessed of a heart so large that he made no enemies and never refused to favor a friend."

Death of a Lancastrian in Pittsburgh. Mr. A. J. Diller, for twenty-seven years a clerk in the Pittsburgh postoffice, where he had been employed for many years, but left his birthplace thirty years ago. He was the son of William and Margaret Diller, a brother of the late Susan R. Smith and of Mrs. Margaret B. Hill, the latter being the mother of the present member of the family. The coroner says: "Mr. Diller, although quiet and reserved in disposition, was an amiable and genial companion, a true friend and possessed of a heart so large that he made no enemies and never refused to favor a friend."

Samuel D. Greene lately deceased, father of Dr. C. A. Greene, was in his 95th year when he died. He was 94 years old on the 7th of February last, and was eleven years old when George Washington died, so that within the span of his life he could have seen all the presidents of the United States. He was a member of the church of the Redeemer, in Waverly, Mass., first presided over by Rev. Lyman Beecher, the father of Henry Ward. He wrote, with his son, a vigorous letter concerning various financial and business statements, on the sixth day of this month and died the 14th. He is buried in Greenville, Mass., in sight of the house where he was born in 1788, and near the church established by his grandfather, Rev. Dr. Thos. Hook, and the site of his mother's house who was also in her 95th year when he died.

Fire Department Notes. The contract for altering the American engine house was awarded to Frederick Hoepel for $144. The bid of John Evans was $630. The committee have purchased all of the horses needed for the department. By Thursday next the whole department will be in working order. On that day a general alarm will be given for the purpose of trying the men and horses. All the engines, hose carts and ladders will be compelled to wear badges with the name of their position and the number of their company. Each company in the department will be furnished with Smith's "lightning hitch," and the requisite number were ordered from Reading yesterday.

Dangers of Coal Gas. The family of Editor Rank, of the New Holland Advertiser, was overcome by sleeping in a coal gas. Mrs. Rank being completely prostrated for two hours. The pipe leading from the smoke flue to the chimney had been choked with ashes.

Going to Church. On Sunday evening the Knights of Revolution, the uniformed rank of B. U. will attend service at the First Baptist church.

COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.

"The German Volunteer" for the Martha G. A. T. post, played last evening to about a 100 house. The performance, as a whole, was very tame, the majority of the actors not knowing their parts. An excuse was offered for some of them who "Did not get their parts until last night!" Several of the performers deserve special notice, for had it not been for them the affair would have been an utter failure. Mr. Will. D. Saphar, as the German Volunteer, made a decided hit. His acting and singing are excellent, while his facial expression are those of a pure German "just over." He and his son, Master Reggie, played two fine solos on the harmonica, showing that they are masters of that instrument. Horace St. Clair, by Abalom Light, was acceptably filled. Richard McDevitt, alias in Dublin Dick, as Charlie White, was the next best character. The two colored characters were good, but David Gilberston is the first colored person ever seen with white hands. Mary St. Clair, by Miss "Patriotism," was fair. The remainder of the characters were poorly taken, but the spectacle was so successful and received deserved recalls. We have a few words to say about the mean way our home G. A. B. treated the Marietta post. Not over ten members were present, and we must say this is a fine way to treat our next evening company. They were not taken.
