The Editor.

Boston Transcript. The editor is a member of that race of animals called mankind. He is invariably a kind man.

He is perfectly harmless. You may g nto his den without fear. But he has his peculiarities. The sight of a poet makes him wild. He is then very dangerous, and is apt to do bodily harm to all within reach. He is also much wrought up when a man comes in with a little trifle, he has just dashed off.

There is one thing that must be said in the editor's praise. His mind is so biassed by long thinking in a certain direction that he dislikes very much to look upon both sides of a question. Therefore, if you value your safety, never approach him with manuscript written on both sides of

The editor usually writes with a pen, but his cutting articles are the product of

And let me say right here that a good deal of sheer nonsense has been printed about the editor. He uses his shears only when composing an entirely original article The editor would make a good public speaker but for his propensity for clipping

The editor's hardest task is to dispose of his time. His would be a monotonous life indeed, were it not for the kindness of the few hundred people who call upon him every day to enliven his dull life with stories of their grievance, of their brand new enterprise, and with antediluvian ancedotes. When you grow up to be men and women, children, remember this, and spend all the time you can in the sanctum of the editor. He loves company so much, you know, and sometimes he has to sit silent and alone for a whole half-minute. Is it not too bad?

The business of the editor is to enter tain itinerant lecturers, book canvassers, exchange fiends, and other philanthropists He gives his whole day to these. He writes his editorials at night, after he has gone to bed.

The editor is never so happy as when he is writing complimentary notices. For ten cents' worth of presents he will gladly give ten dollars' worth of advertising-all on account of the pleasure it gives him to write, you know.

He loves also to write neat little speeches, and bright, witty poems for people without brains who, wish to speak in publie. It is so easy for him to do this that he is sometimes quite miserable when an hour or two passes without an opportunity to do something of the kind.

The editor dines at all the hotels free, he travels free, theatres open wide their doors to him, his tailor clothes him gratis, his butcher and grocer furnish him with food without money and without price. In short, his every want is provided for. He spends his princely salary in building churchs and school houses in foreign

By all means be editors. Of course it would be better if you could be hodcarriers or dray horses. But as that is impossible, by all means be editors.

Helping Editors to Obtain News. Some supposed friends of a newspaper have peculiar ideas as to what kind of items a paper really requires. Not long since a gentleman came into the Galveston News sanctum and said : "Look here! You miss a heap of live items. I'm on the streets all day; I'll come up every once in a while and post you." "All right, fetch-on your items; but remember, we want news," Next day he came up beaming all over. "I've got a live item for you. You know that infernal bow-legged gorilla of a brother-in-law of mine, who was in business here with me ?"

"I believe I remember such a person," said the editor, wearily. "Well, I've just got news from Nebraska, where he is living, that he is going to run for the Legislature. Now, just give him a blast. Lift him out of his boots. Don't spare him on my account." Next day he came up again. " My little item was crowded out. I brought you some news," and he hands in an item about his cat, as follows: "A REMARKABLE ANIMAL.-The family cat of our worthy and distinguished fellow-townsman Smith, who keeps the boss grocery store of Ward No. 13 (beer always on tap), yesterday became the mother of five singularly-marked kittens. This is not the first time this unheard of event has taken place. We understand Mr. Smith is being favorably spoken of as a e indidate for alderman.' The editor groans in his spirit as he lights a cigar with the effort. It is not long before he hears that Smith is going around saying that he made the paper what it is, but it is not independent enough for a place like Galveston.

Many readers will say this sketch is overdrawn; but thousands of editors all over the country will lift up their right hands to testify that they are personally aquainted with the guilty party.

EASILY PROVEN.—It is easily proven that material fevers, constipation, torpidity of the liver and kidneys, general debility, nervousness, and neuralgic ailments yield readily to this great disease conqueror, Hop Bitters. It repairs the ravages of disease by converting the food into rich blood, and it gives new life and vigor to the aged and infirm always.

REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE.

Brandy as a Medicine.

The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. II. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physician of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice, It is commended to the attention of those afficient with Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE.

This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miserable disease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, A Sovereign Remedy or all their ills and aches. Be it, however strictly understood that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is

REIGART'S OLD BRANDY, Sold by our enterprising young friend, H E SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies no matter with how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifies would sufflee to buy all the Frandy to cure any such case of ases. In proof of the curative powers of

in cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon num-bers of witnesses—one case in particular we A hard-working farmer had been afficted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour cructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Roof Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed carnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try

Reigart's Old Brandy,

In his case, he looked up with astenishment but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which helchose to eat. He still keeps it and uses a lit-tle occasionally; and since he has this medi-cine he has been of very little pecaniary bene-fit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
