ANARCHY IN IRELAND.

Mr. Gladstone Arraigned by a Member of Parnament. Mr. Smythe, the Westmeath landlord, who, while returning from church last Sunday with four ladies, was fired at, but who escaped while one of the ladies was killed, has written a letter to Mr. Gladblack and axe from the cellar and forced the many hand axe from the cellar and forced the many hand axe from the cellar and forced stone, in which he says: Your practical adhesion to the principle that force is no remedy in the case of Irish savagery, has culminated in making it easy for a Land League assessin to murder my sister inlaw at noonday. I lay the guilt of that deed of blood at your door, in the face of the whole country supported as you are by "no reut" members of aParliament and their press and power of the Irish bishops, The terrorism existing under the protection of your police is so tremendous that I know there are but few who would venture to denounce the assassins had they laborer—were arrested on suspicion of seen them. Were they to do so, their lives having caused his death. The investigawould certainly be forfeited, while the prisoners would almost as surely escape that the prisoners and a third man, named after the farce of a trial by jury.'

Mr. Gladstone, in replying, assures Mr. Smythe of his heartfelt sympathy, and is confident Mr. Smthe will readily understand why he does not notice the charges. Major Traill, a resident magistrate, writes from Clare Morris, County Mayo, recommending that certain death shall be the penalty of all attempts at murder. He says he has often been threatened and has been warned that his assassination was not only planned but actually paid for, but he defies the assassins. He draws : remarkable picture of the state of the county. He says he never travels without the escort of two armed policemen and an armed groom. Counting the Winchester rifles, the revolvers and shot guns of the party there are twenty-five rounds that 135.00 to 80.00 can be discharged in as many seconds, with thirty-four in reserve. The Late Terrible Cyclone in Michigan. The cyclone of Thursday night visited the township of Assyria, Barry county, and with the same general results of de-vastation. Its track was about forty rods in width. Mr. Mead's two small children are reported killed; another badly injured. Silas Reynolds was also killed and his wife and two children were severely injured. Levi Kenyon was injured, probably fatally and his building was demolished: This is the third visitation of the sort in two years in this township. Drowning a Drunken Captain The captain of a canal-boat lying in the Bronx river, near West Farms, was thrown from his boat and drowned. Two men-Martin Kelley, aged twenty six, a mason, and James Sherman, aged thirty-four, Thomas Spain, had been in the captain's company until the time when he was drowned and that the captain was drunk. It was thought that they quarreled and the captain was thrown overboard. Spain has also been arrested. The prisoners have all made contradictory statements of the affair. The name of the captain has not yet been learned. In court the prison-

Knight, near Brown's mills, seven miles south of Chambersburg, exploded and Samuel Slumbaugh, the acting engineer, was fatally injured. Several other men were working near by, but none of them were hurt. The saw mill and boiler is the property of S. J. Shoop, of New Cumberland, and is a complete wreck. The regular engineer was not on duty and Slumbaugh allowed the water to get too in the search for explosives and assassins.
