THE RAPID MARCH OF IMPROVEMENT New Buildings-Opening of Stores-Rapid

Strides in Basiness-Three New Buildings on South Queen street. On every side in our city there are at present evidences of rapid and substantial business improvement. Theseasons opens most auspiciously for activity in trade and in building operations. The outlook for merchants, material men and mechanics which the signs of this activity are not more or less manifest. Some recent no. table features of this development, in the more central parts of the city, are given below:

The Old Yeates Property. South Queen street, which has hitherto been rather conservative and backward as to business enterprises, is at last pushing forward with a vigor which promises to make it one of the leading business thoroughfares in the city.

As briefly noticed a short time ago, this valuable property, at the corner of South Queen and Mifflin streets, was purchased by Mr. John P. Schaum, who has torn away the lower front wall, taken down the immense old fashioned chimneys, knocked down the dividing partitions, and will within two weeks have lowered the ground floor and put in a new front of plate glass and marble, and if brick can be secured in time, will modernize the entire front, and raise the building one story higher, making it four stories in all. The property is one of the largest in the city, having a front of 32 feet, and extending in depth a full half square to Beaver street. All of this extensive building, or rather series of connected buildings, will be used by Mr. schaum to extend his rapidly increasing trade in plumbing, gas fitting, tin and copper manufactures and general hardware and house furnishing.

The Old Lagen Property. This property, situated at Nos. 9 and 11 South Queen street, and recently purchased by Marshall & Rengier, will soon be metamorphosed into one of the largest and most conveniently arranged business places in the city. Work was commenced upon it yesterday and will be rapidly continued until it is finished. The improvements will consist of tearing out the front and rear walls to the height of the second completed by July. The Old Schaum Property. The property heretofore belonging to the brothers John P., George B. and Henry Schaum, and situated opposite the Foun-tain Inn, on South Queen street, and now occupied by John P. Schaum, has recently been purchased by Geo. B. Schaum, who intends tearing down the old building and erecting on the site a beautiful structure 32 feet front by 120 feet deep, and four stories in height. The building will adjoin the extensive four-story pile now occupied by Mr. Schaum as furniture rooms, of the latest improved facilities, they proand will be occupied by him for the same purpose. The old back buildings are already being removed and the front will be demolished as soon as Mr. John P. In the next square of North Queen Schaum can get out of it and into his new quarters over the way.

THE LANCASTER COACH WORKS." The Fine New Building of Norbeck & Miley. under the supervision of that enterprising carriage manufacturing firm, Messrs. Nor-beck & Miley, whose increasing business rendered it necessary for the accommodation of their large trade. The building in question is a large two-story and a half brick structure and is a into the yard, where, under covered plat-forms, the old and repair work is housed, and ascending an easy flight of stairs you stand upon a platform above leading into all the different departments. Here are three paint rooms. In the first the gearing and varnishing is done. Going through a broad doorway into the new building is where the painting proper is done. Here everything that could lend dispatch to good work is found. The oil cans. paint clarets, etc., are at your finger ends. A large inclined zink, with sewer and 175.00 to 100.00 hydrant attachments, is made for into about twenty-five rooms including rubbing down work, and priming.

135.00 to 75.00 Convenient to this is the finishing paint-125.00 to 75.00 done by Mr. Eugene Norbeck, in which 125.00 to 65.00 to 850.00 to 855.00 to 6.50 to 6. ming supply room. Ascending steps we enter the room above where their seasoned lumber is kept, and their wheels etc., are stored; of the latter it is indeed a rare thing for this firm not to have on hand from 150 to 200 sets of wheels the stored in the structure, and both deserve unstinted praise for the skill and rapidity with which the conversion of an old building into a new one was effected. wheels. Going through this immense room you enter the third story of the old chanics. Leaving this you are again upon the platform. As a whole we fear no contradiction in saying that it is one of the most complete carriage making establishments in the state. Every room is for itself, having its convenient structure. Large ventilators tive, and their manufacture has long been ascending to the roof, carry off the a specialty with Mrs. E. Brimmer, who is senior member of the firm, the one under whose supervision all the work was done, and its successful termination is due largely to him. Flinn & Wilson did the gas-fitting and plumbing. Both members of the firm of Norbeck & Miley are practical business men. They employ 39 hands-13 blacksmiths, 10 woodworkers, 9 painters, 5 trimmers and 2 finishers. Messrs. Zach McGinnis, J. H. Miley, John Chambers, John O. Lowe and John Powell, are the foremen of the several departments in the order named above. The financial business and bookkeeping of the firm finds a ready reckoner and apt penman and scholar in Landis H. Norbeck. This firm have a capacity of turning out 300 vehicles annually, and have a ware-room on Market street and Lancaster avenue, Philadelphia, and Cal vert street, Baltimore. NORTH QUEEN STREET.

Emerging From the Ruins of the Inquire We have heretofore adverted to the rapidity with which the Inquirer building and the Diffenderfer building arose from the ruin that followed their destruction by fire. The Diffenderffer building has been entirely rebuilt, and Phares W. Fry, who was abliged to seek temporary quarters elsewhere, has returned to his old stand with a far larger stock of wall paper, curtains, mirrors, window shades, cornices, poles, fringes, &c., than was ever before seen in Lancaster. Mr. Fry's storeroom has been considerably extended in depth and all its appointments are new and of the most attractive and convenient design. A portion of the store-room has been handsomely carpeted in Brussels and set apart exclusively for the storage and sale of fine lace curtains, a branch of business not before attempted in Lancaster. As soon as the newly plastered walls and ceilings will permit, it is Mr. Fry's intention of papering them in elegant designs, to show how bare walls may be beautified by the artistic application of wall papers. .

John Hiemenz's Shoe Store Mr. John Hiemenz, the enterprising young shoe dealer, who was burned out at the recent Inquirer fire, has raised from story, lowering the first floor about two the ashes of that disaster one of the most feet, removing the old buildings in the complete and beautiful establishments the rear of the main building, and erecting a new two-story brick building about 100 busy ever since the conflagration restor-feet in length by 26 feet in width to connect the main building in front and the ance, and Mr. Hiemenz's store, the south brick warehouse (formerly Stirk's, but room on the ground floor, is the first ready now belonging to Marshall & Rengier) in for occupancy.
