THE LATEST NEWS.

THE IRISH SUSPECTS RELEASED.

Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly Set Free—The Announcement in Parliament.

Five suspects were unconditionally released from the Naas jail yesterday. In the House of Lords, Earl Granville announced the resignation of Mr. W. E. Foster, chief secretary for Ireland, and the intention of the government to release the three imprisoned members of Parliament.

Mr. Gladstone, in the House of Commons, made an announcement similar to that of Earl Granville in the House of Lords. Gladstone stated that a large number of other suspects would be released, and that the government, instead of renewing the coercion act, would introduce a measure remedying the administration of justice in Ireland. He said instructions had already been sent to Ireland for the release of the three imprisoned members of parliament and that the lists of the suspects were being carefully considered, with a view to the release of all except those who were arrested on suspicion of having been personally concerned in outrages. These releases would be on the government's sole responsibility. Mr. Gladstone stated that Mr. Foster had resigned this responsibility and that Mr. Foster would make a personal explanation on Thursday.

He declared that the government did not think the coercion act had failed, as it had served an important purpose in a great crisis. He warmly praised the manner in which Mr. Foster had performed his duties and expressed regret at his retirement. He also declared that none of the measures announced in the queen's speech at the opening of the session, except the resolutions in regard to the rules of parliamentary procedure, would stand in the way of the measures which the government would introduce for restoring peace and order in Ireland.

The measure which the government will introduce remedying the administration of justice in Ireland and deals with the protection of life and property.

Mr. Sexton, at the conclusion of Mr. Gladstone's remarks, arose and said that the government had taken the first step in a policy that would crown its administration with glory and would produce ties of mutual interest between Ireland and England.

Mr. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, president of the board of trade, or Rt. Hon. George Shaw Lefevre, commissioner of works and buildings, will probably succeed Mr. Foster. If the former is appointed Sir Charles Dike, under foreign secretary, will succeed to the presidency of the board of trade.

Messrs. Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly have returned from their confinement in Kilmartin. After their release they drove in a cab around the outskirts of the city to the Harcourt street station, where they took the train for Avondale. They will remain at Mr. Parnell's residence two days and will arrive in London on Friday.

There was great excitement in Dublin on the news being received of the resignation of Mr. Foster. Crowds gathered on the streets and cheered for Mr. Parnell and his associates. Mr. Foster's resignation was regarded as a national crisis.

PERSECUTING THE JEWS.

The president has sent a message, with accompanying documents, to the House, in answer to a resolution of January 20, calling for the correspondence respecting the condition of Israelites in Russia. The papers are very voluminous and include all the correspondence on this subject during the past ten years. The last letter written by the secretary of state in regard to Minister Hoffman, dated April 15, is as follows:

"Sir: The prejudice of race and creed having, in our day, given way to the claims of our common humanity, the people of the United States have heard with great regret the stories of the sufferings of the Jews in Russia. It may be the accounts in the newspapers are exaggerated, and the same may be true of some private reports. Making, however, due allowance for misrepresentations, it can scarcely be doubted that much has been done which a humane and just person must condemn. The president, of course, feels that the government of the emperor should not be held morally responsible for acts which it considers wrong, but which it may be powerless to prevent.

"If that be true of this case it would be worse than useless for me to direct you, as the representative of the United States, to give official notice of our feeling which this treatment of the Jews calls forth in this country.

"Should, however, the attitude of the Russian government be different and should you be of the opinion that a more vigorous effort might be put forth for the prevention of this great wrong, you will, if a proper opportunity offers, state with all proper deference that the feeling of friendship which the United States entertains for Russia prompts this government to express the hope that the imperial government will find means to cause the persecution of these unfortunate fellow-beings to cease.

"This instruction involves a delicate duty upon you and a wide discretion is given you in its execution. However, so much this republic may disapprove of affairs in other nationalities, it does not conceive that it is its right or province officially and offensively to intermeddle. If, however, it should come to your knowledge that any citizens of the United States are made victims of the persecution, you will feel it your duty to omit no efforts to protect them and to report such cases to this department."

THE MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Opening Concert in New York—Fran Maercker's First Appearance.

Seven thousand persons assembled in the Seventh regiment armory last evening to listen to some two thousand other persons sing. The audience was intelligent and cultured; the programme of classic and even very simplicity. The performance, on the whole, was one that reflected the highest credit on the singers and on those who have had charge of the drilling. The unity of the singers was remarkable, considering the numbers. The two choral numbers were Bach's cantata, "Ein feste Burg," and Handel's cantata, "Messiah." Miss Cary did not sing. Messrs. Candidus and Whitney, soloists, were well received, but the cantata went rather lamely.

The chief interest of the evening was in Mme. Materna's first appearance. She had selected that most difficult of arias, Leonora's denunciation of her husband's foe, and her invocation to hope, in Beethoven's "Fidelio." This was sung in a style to electrify the audience. So large, noble, sonorous and smooth a voice had not been heard here since the days of Parnell. Her school is neither pronouncedly German nor Italian, but it is altogether admirable. Her broad and masterly phrasing of the recitative and the symphonic and passionate style in which she sang the aria brought both chorus and audience to their feet and the army became a sea of waving handkerchiefs. He was a most unobtrusive popular success. Very few living singers could have filled the great building with so fine a tone and none who heard her can fail to regret that she was only to be heard under such great disadvantages as to place and such limitations as to the music that she sings, for in her world undoubtedly be found that ideal prima donna dramatica for whom the Americans have been sighing so long.

The orchestra did its work superbly. The two hundred played with excellent good effect as the customary one hundred that compose the familiar Thomas orchestra, and higher praise than that it would be difficult to give. The seats in the auditorium were not all filled, at least four or five hundred in the back rows being empty.

The President's Card Reception. President Arthur's first general card reception occurred last night at the executive mansion. More than 800 cards of invitation were sent out to members of the diplomatic corps, senators and representatives, judges of the supreme court, to officers of the army and navy and to a few personal friends of the president. The crowd at the mansion was so great that at 10 p. m. many present had not had an opportunity to reach the president, who received his guests in the blue room. All the representatives of the army and navy were in full dress uniform and a majority of the members of the diplomatic corps appeared in the court dress of their respective countries. There was the usual beautiful display of floral decorations in the lower rooms and the Marine band, stationed in the main corridor, enlivened the reception, which did not close until a late hour, with music appropriate for the occasion.

A Decision Respecting Longfellow's Will. Judge Brooks gave a decision at Cambridge which materially affects several bequest in the will of Henry W. Longfellow. The decision is that erasures which occur are to be considered no part of the will, and that no intimations are of no effect. This deprives each of the children of the testator's brother of a legacy of $1,000 and makes void the legacy of $5,000 to his brother Stephen. The decision is based upon the ground that a will cannot be altered except by a codicil. The will was admitted to probate and Ernest W. Longfellow was appointed administrator, with the will annexed, in place of the late Richard H. Dana, named in the will.

A LETTER FROM HOWGATE. Concealed in Washington Under an Assumed Name—An Appeal and a Threat.

A letter received from Captain II. W. Howgate states that since he has been out of jail he has recovered his health very considerably. He writes to a personal friend here appealing for a small sum of money to pay expenses.

He concludes the letter thus: "Though I am supposed to be free, I am more of a prisoner than I was when in the district jail. You can tell them all that if the government ever does get ready to try me and fixes a date for my trial I will be on hand and will make a defense that will sicken a certain crowd who have done so much to bring me down to cover up their own cowardice."

He conceals his whereabouts and requests that the answer be sent to a mutual friend, where he says he will send for it, if he is living under an assumed name.

In the Plunged Boldly.

In New York Miss Minnie Clapp, aged twenty-three, daughter of a wealthy broker, alighted from a cab near the Eighty-third street crossing of the Hudson River railroad at Riverside Drive and stepped out when a train would pass. Being told that one would be due in half an hour, she walked toward the river. On reaching the river she plunged in. After considerable difficulty he rescued her and took her to the Ninety-ninth street hospital, where she recovered her senses. Her stepmother, with whom she had just returned from Europe, was summoned, and the two greeted each other formally in French and went home, on Fourteenth street, where reporters were denied admittance. The cause of her act is supposed to be domestic troubles.

Metropolitan Tragedies.

The three-year old daughter of Daniel Miller was crushed to death by a dray while the family were moving, in Hoboken.

Mrs. Guy Hellister, of Westvale, New York, shot herself in the breast, and is in a critical condition. She had shown signs of insanity.

Charles Wilder, 20 years of age, fell violently in love at first sight with a girl whom he had met at a picnic, near New York city, on Monday, and proposed marriage. Being rejected, he went to Central park and shot himself in the head. He was found yesterday morning and removed to a hospital, where he lies in a precarious state.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

NOTED MEN!

DR. JOHN F. HANCOCK, late President of the National Pharmaceutical Association of the United States, says:

"Brown's Iron Bitters has a heavy sale, is conceded to be a fine tonic; the character of the manufacturers is a voucher for its purity and medicinal excellence."

DR. JOSEPH ROBERTS, President Baltimore Pharmaceutical College, says:

"I endorse it as a fine medicine, reliable as a strengthening tonic, free from alcoholic poisons."

DR. J. FARR MOORE, Ph. D., Professor of Pharmacy, Baltimore Pharmaceutical College, says:

"Brown's Iron Bitters is a safe and reliable medicine, positively free from alcoholic poisons, and can be recommended as a tonic for use among those who oppose alcohol."

DR. EDWARD ERICKSON, Secretary Baltimore College of Pharmacy, says:

"I endorse it as an excellent medicine, a good digestive agent, and a non-intoxicant in the fullest sense."

DR. RICHARD SAMPSON, one of Baltimore's oldest and most reliable physicians, says:

"All who have used it praise its standard virtues, and the well known character of the house which makes it a sufficient guarantee of its being all that is claimed, for they are men who could not be induced to offer anything else but a reliable medicine for public use."

A Druggist Cured.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12, 1880. Gentlemen: Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of a bad attack of indigestion and fullness in the stomach. Having tested it, I take pleasure in recommending it to my customers, and am glad to say it gives entire satisfaction to all." Geo. W. HOFFMAN, Druggist.
