The fish known as shad mullets are very plentiful below the dam. Mr. Edward Widener left to day for Williamsport, where he will make his home Mr. D. J. Neff. of Altoona, is a guest in the family of Mr. Robert Beecham, on Union street.

Mrr and Mrs. Lewis W. May have gone to Philadelphia, where they will spend the remainder of this week.

On Saturday afternion there was sent to a gentleman in Laneaster, a pair of shad weighing a trifle over eleven pounds. An extra train was yesterday sent down to Peach Bottom for the accommodation of rivermen, returning from their trips. Some of the boys working at the ree factory receive the meagre sum of 18 cents for a hard days labor of 11 hours. The Pennsylvania railroad at Valley creek bridge, was again blocked up to a short time by a tookblast, yesterday.

The railroad siding on the river shore, below the bridge, are being removed, and new tracks are being laid where Myers' house formerly stood, along the old outlet. Columbia presents a charming appearance now with its streets shaded by beautiful trees in full leaf. The pavements along the high school grounds and the cemetery are favorite promenades. As the newly elected pastor of the Ger man Lutheran church did not make his appearance on Saturday there were no services held vesterday in that church. About 40 persons celebrated the 41st birthday of Mr. Christ, Mahlich at his residence on Front street yesterday. They came from neighboring towns principally.

Rev. Arthur C. Powell, of Cincinnatia Ohio, has accepted a call to the rectorship of St. John's P. E. church of York, to full the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Dr. Spalding.

On Saturday afternoon Albert Bonson sold out his restaurant fitting on Fifth street, at public sale. August Shuler will succeed him in the business.

A fishing pond will be one of season, and a certain evidence of the attractions of the occasion. The the excellent entertainment given sociables of this church.

The Shawnee Trial. The trial of the Shawnee sleamer on Saturday evening, was the means of eausing considerable stir on the streets, many supposing there was a fire. The brial took place at the basin of the Reading & Columbia railroad schutes. The schutes were crowded with spectators. Everything went along smoothly until a section of hose burst, and then those in its neighborhood worked satisfactorily.

Large Shipments of Cigacs. Last week Mr. John Fenderich shipped to different places, 200,000 cigars. Some went to Texas, North Carolina and Indiana. Twenty new hands will be put to work in a few days, and to make room for the increased number, the building formerly occupied by Richard's book store, will be fitted up for the purpose, and communication between it and the present rat ry made.

Domestic Infelicities. On Saturday Amos Randalls, colored, was saed by his wife for non-support before Squire Frank. After the hear n ; sometime Randalls met his wife who began abusing him. Becoming aggravated he gave her several blows, when she again repaired to the 'Squire's office and prose cuted him for assault and battery. Randalls was arrested and threw the case to court. He gave bail for his appearance

Making Night Hideous. On Saturday night, near midnight, a gang of drunken men, white and colored, made the neighborhood of the Five Points hideous with their drunken quarrels. One of the Wittig boys is said to have pointed a gun at a colored man named Johnson. Officers Rodenbauser and Gilbert were in that vicinity a short time before the fight. but as everything was then quiet they left. BANEFUL PUBLICATIONS.

to night.

Rev. Mr. Cummins' Opinions of Some of the Modern Publications. Philadelphia Times.

The subject of the press furnished the Rev. George Cummins with a morning theme yesterday before a large congregation in the Methodist Episcopal Bethel church, on Washington avenue. He characterized it as a "two-edged sword," sometimes attacking wrong and as often injuring right, but his use of the generic term was in the board sense which includes every class of publication. All modern publications the reverend gentleman divided into three classes: Those that were helpful, those that were harmful and those that were neither one thing nor the other. He classed as harmful all publications, no matter from what source they emanated, which, although professedly scientific, are apparently aimed at the great subjects of religious faith which have withstood the strain of centuries and elevated and helped mankind. These he regarded even worse than the professedly skeptical works and various articles finding their way into print coming from acknowledged infidel sources. But worst of all he denounced in vigorous auath mas the class of printed matter in books and songs and cards and pamphlets and sketches sent through the mails and sold surreptitiously which serves up rank immorality in a guise that seems attractive to the young. Notwithstanding Mr. Comstock's most successful efforts and the rigid scrutiny by postoffice officials he was of the opinion that a considerable amount of literature of this baneful and despicable description finds its way into schools and colleges from the primary to the university and even penetrates the sacred portals of Christian homes. Mr. Cumnins was especially severe on the comparatively new phases of the immoral literature question. It was the practice which has grown up of publishing continued stories, or sometimes whole stories, in phenomenal sheets which are dependent on a transient sale and for which no one appears to be responsible. With an attractive title, sometimes even a semireligious title, specimen sheets of these publications are scattered I roadcast in the nomes of the poor and middle classes, where they are read with eagerness by the growing sons and daughters.

As to the remedy, Mr. Cummins thought t lay mainly in the counteractant of a wice familiarity with the morality and beauty and virtue of the great work to which the press has lent its aid-the printed Christian Bible. Old civilization, he said, had placed all literature under oversight, and even in Spain and Italy to-day the book trade is unknown. The people do not read. The Roman Catholic church, too, has an index expurgatorius to which once every ob jectionable book was added; but neither these methods nor the censorship of imperial government have ever beea popular with the people. They have all proved

Mr. Cummins had no special fault to find with the leading newspapers of the day, except that they gave too much prominence to records of crime. The Philadelphia papers, he thought dealt fairly with religious questions as a rule, and of late gave them a prominence which was in strange contrast to not many years ago, when a few lines was the extent of religious information to be found in any of the Philadelphia newspapers.

HUMPTY DUMPTY ADAMS.

Executent Performance by his Company. On Saturday evening George H. Adams pantomime and specialty company appeared in the opera house to one of the largest audiences of the season. Before s o'clock the building was filled and people were standing long before the curtain rolled up. This was the second time that this company has appeared here this excellent entertainment given public are invited to attend. It will be a by them, was the big house with pleasant affair if we may judge by the past which they were greeted. Much has been said about the clown acting of Mr. Adams and he is certainly far above his competitors, and no better clown ever appeared here. Mr. Adams has able support in his brother James, who is an admirable pantaloon, with A. Martinetti as harlequin and Pauline Martinetti as columbine, both of whom are first class. A large number of new tricks were introduced in the pant mine and the acting of the clown and his friends was scattered in all direct ons. The engine greeted with thunders of applause. The specialty part of the programme has also been alluded to before and a better lot of performers are seldom seen in traveling combinations. Among the features were the Leslie Brothers acrobats, Miss Belle Gabrielle performer on musical glasses, Morris and Madame Tissot, living auto Praeger family, Tyrolean matons, warblers, Martinettis in groupings on chairs, Alex Davis ventriloquist, the great Thorn in tricks, &c., and John Wingfield with his trained dogs. Mr. Adams also appeared about the middle of the performance and gave his wonderful stilt act. The dogs of Mr. Wingfield are a remarkably tine lot and one of them did some astonishing leaping. The entire show was good, and the performers are deserving of all the praise that can be given

MAY WALKS

The Mannerchor-The Schliler-Verein-The Leiderkranz. The German societies of the city took their annual May walks yesterday morning. Their custom has been to take a walk to the country on the first Sunday morning in May, but owing to the wet. disagreeable weather of the two preceding Sundays, the walks were postponed until yesterday.

The Mannerchor formed at their hall at o'clock, a. m., to the number of one hundred, with a "little German band" of six instruments, marched first to John while longer. A couple of recruits for the Lamparters near the old factory bridge, thence to George Lamparter's, and thence to Knapp's villa, where they breakfasted. During their stay at the villa a committee of the Schiller-Verin waited upon them returned the compliment by inviting the

I wish to say to you that I have been suffering for the last five years with a severe itching all over. I have heard of Hop Bitters and have tried it. I have used up four bottles, and it has done me more good than all the doctors and medicines that they could use on or with me. I am old and poor but feel to bless you for such a relief by your medicine and from torment of the doctors. I have had fifteen doctors at me. One gave me seven ounces of solution of arsenie; another took four quarts of blood from me. All they could tell was that it was skin sickness. > RAILROAD MATTERS. A Victory for the Northern Pacific.

WASHINGTON, May 22.- The House committee on the judiciary met is in and row on the other. There's no further considered the bill managed great quantity, but considerable by Representative Cobb, which proposes that all land granted to railroads which have not complied with the terms of the granting acis shall be declared forfeited. After discussing the case of the Northern Pacific road a vote was taken which resulted in the adoption of the report of the sub committee declaring the lands granted to the Northern Pacific railway to be nonforfeitable. Chairman Reed was authorized to submit the majority report to the House. A minority of four will submit 2 statement of their dissenting views on the subject.
