SOLDIERS' ORPHANS.

THE EXAMINATION AT MOUNT JOY.

Dr. Higbee and Other Prominent People Present—A Very Creditable Exhibition at the School.

The pupils at the soldiers' orphan school, Mount Joy, were again taken through the annual ordeal on Tuesday—the public examination. Superintendent of Public Instruction Higbee and Dr. Edward Brooks, of Millersville, were announced to take them through. The girls failed to put in an appearance and that work had to be attended to by Dr. Higbee. The doctor, however, did not do much examining and in the forenoon Principal M. J. Brecht and a number of the corps of instructors were obliged to show what the girls had learned. The boys, on the other hand, were well prepared. In the afternoon C. S. Geist, of the Marietta high school, arrived and did a major part of the work. The exercises took place in the main room. Pretty bouquets in vases, a profusion of blooming plants suspended at different places from the ceiling, and arranged in beds of moss on the organ and windows, together with the stars and stripes on the ceiling and around the walls, gave the place a decidedly pleasant appearance. A large number of ladies and gentlemen from the borough were there to appreciate the work. A good number of visitors from other places turned out to witness the occasion, among them being Mr. Elin Snyder, Dr. J. S. Smith and James A. Nimlow, of Post 81, who is a representative of the committee on soldiers' orphan schools of Lancaster. Rev. J. McElmoyle and Capt. Etla, of Marietta and Mr. Sides, of Tamaqua.

Heretofore the examinations at this place have been held in the month of July, a day or two before the pupils left to spend their vacation. This year took place two months earlier and the change to this time afforded a pleasant time so far as weather was concerned. There was a noticeable absence of fans and nobody suffered from the heat. As we mentioned before Dr. Higbee took things easy. Now and then he would ask a question and from their nature one could easily see that the questions were aimed to ascertain if there was any thought back of the study which prompted the pupils' answers. He was very mild in his manner toward the pupils, with the effect of making them feel at home while in his hands. Pointing to a little boy in a class which he was examining in geography he asked, "What county are you from?" "Northumberland," was the reply. "What is the capital, and in what place is the court house?" was the next. "Sandy" the pupil said. Turning to Prof. Brecht the doctor inquiringly remarked, "I guess that's right; for my part I don't exactly know," which was one of the many acknowledgments that he does not place very much stress on a system of education that only has for its object the cramming of pupils' minds. By far the most brilliant exercise of the day was that of the eighth or best grade. This grade was examined in philosophy and physical geography. They handled the branches in a way that showed that they had thoroughly mastered the subjects. When the principal was about finishing this exercise he turned to Dr. Higbee and invited him to continue the examination. "Did any of you boys ever see a spider through a straw out of a barrel?" is what the doctor bluntly put at them. They had, and one of them was called on to explain the principles by which they had done it. The boy explained it satisfactorily and the gentleman dismissed the same with the remark to a gentleman close by, "The pupils know more of these branches than many juniors whom I have examined at college."

The examination over, the visitors retired to the boys' yard where they were killed. They handled the work with the precision and perfection that many old veterans who were present could not refrain from openly showing their approbation. After the drill Dr. Higbee addressed the pupils assembled in the building. He said: "I am glad to see so many bright faces before me. I cannot refrain from expressing my delight at the result of the examination. You have reflected credit upon yourselves and your instructors. Some of you have shown a remarkable insight; the last part has been the best. Not in thirty-five years have I witnessed a better exercise. You have made a good start, and what we want is to see you continue and reflect credit on the state which educates you. What we want of you girls is to see you grow up honest, gentle and good women. If I may judge by what we had at dinner, you are well provided with good food. You have all that a good, pious and cultivated family can afford. And you, boys, we hope that you need never fight as your fathers fought, but if you must fight, defend the flag as your fathers did. We do not ask that you become senators, congressmen and managers of great corporations. We do not ask you to be more than good, honest, brave men. Here we see this large group of boys and girls, while many others are at other parts of the state. On what better object can we spend our money. We spend money lavishly on judges, court houses, etc. We make ten-fold the outlay, although there has been expended on these institutions about $8,000,000. They should be sustained. Let Legislatures visit the institutions and not grumble. They will then go away and say, 'God bless the boys and girls in their work.'"

After the speech Dr. Higbee was presented with a pretty bouquet from one of the little girls. In response he said: "This is not so pretty as your faces, which are so bright."

Representative Snyder, of Lancaster, was called on and responded in a speech full of good common sense which the boys and girls would be well to remember. Dr. J. S. Smith, of Lancaster; Revs. Rhoads and Rigor, of the M. E. and U. B. churches respectively, followed in the speaking.

The exercises were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, recitations and orations by the pupils. Miss Helen Boehl, who has charge of the school, presided at the organ.

Senator Wright and wife, of Mercersburg, were at the examination. The senator is the proprietor of the institution.

Miss Ella Beistle, who taught at that institution last term, now of the graduating class of Millersville normal school, was present during the forenoon.

Vacation will begin July 15. One hundred and sixty-six boys and one hundred and twenty-three girls attend the school.

The building, its surroundings and various departments are in excellent condition. As much was expected on an occasion like this, it can be said that it could be some more and yet be good. We do not say that this is the only time that the things look so bright, yet we are inclined to believe that it is an impossibility for the managers of a boarding school to maintain such a good standard throughout the year.

The boys in their coats and trousers of dark blue, with the little bouquets on their left breasts, presented a creditable appearance. The girls in their regulation attire looked as well. A finer or heartier group of children would be hard to find anywhere. They had a brighter "shining face" than we thought they would have. The anticipated vacation which is looked forward to with so much delight, is yet so far removed, but nevertheless this had no visible effect in depressing their spirits, and they were the liveliest of the lively.

THE LATEST COAL-MINE HORROR

Six Persons Killed and Two Fatally Injured by an Explosion of Gas at Shenandoah on Wednesday.

An explosion of gas occurred at the Kohinor colliery, Shenandoah, Pa., operated by Richmond, Beckler & Co., at noon, Wednesday, killing Martin and James Mulhall (father and son), Owen Gallagher, James McDonald, door boy, John Strat, a Polish laborer, and Samuel Hugo, driver; and injuring John Lee, the fire boss, and a Poland named Matty Matynowicz so seriously that they cannot recover.

The men were working in No. 1 lift, west gangway, at the bottom of the new slope, which is 1,700 feet from the top of the shaft, when a fall of top rock occurred, causing the sulphur lamp, and it quickly ignited from a naked lamp. The force of the explosion was terrific. The men were hurled along the gangway and dashed against the timbers, mutilating their bodies so terribly as to be almost unrecognizable. A number of men received serious but not fatal injuries.

The mine generates gas freely, and when Fire Boss Lee entered in the morning he found large bodies of sulphur standing in the workings. He warned the men as they entered and James D. Lowrey, driver, furnished them with safety lamps. As these lamps do not furnish as good a light as the ordinary lamp, some one at about noon lighted a naked lamp, and soon thereafter the fall of top rock occurred which carried the sulphur down.

The gangways in the vicinity of the explosion were in an instant filled with flying timber and other debris, and loaded cars standing on the tracks with mules hitched to them were driven many yards along the gangway by the force of air. The news of the accident was brought out by the men who had escaped the shock and spread like wildfire.

Hundreds of the people rushed to the shaft, business men closed their stores, and a scene of confusion and excitement ensued. In the crowd were many women and children, relatives of the men employed inside. As the burned and mutilated bodies were brought up the excitement increased, and many women fainted, while others had to be taken away by force.

It is now believed that the deal and injured are all out, and the excitement about the mine has in some degree subsided. Kohinor colliery is one of the largest individual operations in the region, and employs between 300 and 400 men and boys and has an average weekly shipment of 3,000 tons of coal.

CLOTHING.

A Word About Flannels.

We are very particular about our Blue Flannels. We use only perfect colors and always make it plain just what the goods are made of. Last summer we cut and made into clothing over 30,000 yards of standard all-wool Flannels. Our great output shows what people think of our Blue Flannel stock, yet in all the lot there was not a piece from the great mills, whose flannel trade marks are known everywhere. The popular brands of Blue Flannels are good, but there are others which are better and cost less. Not everybody can get them, but we make careful plans long in advance and by great care secure for our customers a class of goods that cost for quality only, not quality plus a popular name.
