ADIEU Beyond the moors, across the bay, I see the white ships sail away: Salling stately with the tide, Sailing grandly in their pride. And the foremost sail enfolds my bride,

Like large, strange birds from Heaven set free They kiss the beauty of the sea-Oh! great, strong wings set to the East, When to the exultant winds released. Didst know that life and laughter ceased

For one who silent stood apart? Oh! white ship, freighted with my heart! Oh! buoyant bay, blue, fatr and free! Oh! distant, dimpling, opal sea, The moor lies black 'twixt thee and me.

A STRANGE STORY OF DEATH.

After a Toung Woman is Thought to be Dead She Talks About Heavenly Sights. From the Boston Herald. There is a very strange story reported from East Boston. On Friday, the 12th

Amos R. Lovejoy, 157 Webster street, a young lady named Hattie G. Craig, lacking a few days only of being twenty four years of age. Her death was preceded by a sickness of nearly a year, and the disease of which she died was clearly consumptive nature. Many the circumstances following the death and proceeding the burial of the young lady are of a peculiarly interesting if not of a distressing nature. On the morning of the 12th the long-suffering patient seemed to be rapidly nearing the end and at 11 o'clock she appeared to have breathed her last. The eyes of the young lady were tenderly closed by her sorrowing grandmother and the body was left alone with the weeping father. He rechamber of death and then took his leave with reluctance. Just as he had turned his back upon the beloved form he was startled by a movement of the body and an exclamation simultaneously of "Papa, papa, please don't leave me." When he turned around he saw, with delight and astonishment, that his daughter was not a corpse, but an actual, living and conscious being, endowed with as much intellect and strength as at any time during the last part of her sickness. Of course there were now great joy and consternation throughout the household. When she had

"What are those conditions, and are you willing to submit to them?" asked the father.

"Yes, papa; certainly I am." " But what are they, dear ?" still queried

Tell me, won't you, all about who an what you saw? Come, now, that's a good "Oh, I saw them all; I saw them all papa, and I'm going to heaven again, and when I go don't let them put me into the ground until you are sure I am dead." During the rest of the day, up to six alternately in a conscious and swooning condition. At six o'clock she seemed to have died. There was no change in the body for three days and several physicians counseled that the body be kept from the tomb. On the fourth day, however, there were unmistakable signs of death and the interment took place.

Dr. C. W. Benson has long been well known as a successful physician and surgeon and his life's study has been the diseases of the nervous system and of the skin; since he has been persuaded to put his New Remedy and Favorite Prescription as a "Skin Cure" on the market, various things have sprung up into existence, or have woke up from the sleepy state in which they were before and now claim to be The Great Skin Cure.

13 Beware of imitations, or the various articles which have been advertised for years or struggled along, having no real hold or merit on the public, that now endeavor to keep head above water by advertising themselves as "The Great Skin Cure."
