THE OLD CROP AND THE NEW.

The Markets at Home and Abroad.

Transactions here in Lancaster in the crops of 1880 and 1881 have been limited during the past week. Of the former, nearly 900 cases have been sold mostly in small lots to local cigar manufacturers, whose stock of old leaf is confessedly all played out; and they are compelled to buy a little, even at high prices, or shut up shop. Of the crop of 1881 a few wagon loads were received at some of the houses during the past week, but a majority of the packers have about finished packing and have closed or are about closing their ware houses. The loose tobacco remaining in the hands of growers is so widely scattered that it does not pay the buyers to ride the county in search of it, especially as much of it is of inferior or medium grade and is held at figures regarded as unreasonable by the packers. Consequently many farmers, unwilling to sell at what they regard as unsatisfactory offers, have packed or made arrangements to pack their own growings, in the hope that, owing to the short amount of leaf in the hands of manufacturers, and the unsatisfactory condition of a large part of the wrappers of the 1880 crop, there may be an early demand for the crop of 1881. But, if there is not much doing with the crops of 1880 and 1881, there is a wonderful activity among Lancaster county farmers in preparing for the crop of 1882. From all parts of the county we have advices that the farmers and their sons and daughters and hirelings are busily engaged in setting out the young plants. In some sections of the county almost the entire planting has been made, but in others the work is more backward, owing to the scarcity or immaturity of the plants. It is certain, however, that not less than two thirds of the entire acreage of the crop of 1882 is already planted, and that the acreage is as large if not larger than that of any former year. Within a week, if the weather should be favorable, the entire crop will be set out, and then all the farmer will have to do in the way of planting will be to reset plants destroyed by the ent-worm, which, by-the-by, are said to be very troublesome in some localities.

Last week we printed a paragraph stating that J. W. Reynolds, of Port Deposit, Md., had set out 5,000 plants on the 17th of May, and wanted to know if Lancaster county could beat it. We have a communication from Wm. Burkey, of Goodville, East of town, in this county, in which he says he has a lot of 5,000 plants which he commenced to set out on the 1st of May and finished on the 6th. The plants now average from eight to sixteen leaves to the stock, some of them measuring 16 inches in length and last Saturday. Until some other grower is heard from who can do better we think Mr. Burkey "takes the cake."

The New York Market. Following is the editorial resume of the New York market as printed in the Tobacco Journal, for the week ending Saturday, June 17: The market showed considerable activity during the week, though reports of sales were few. As yet there is no evidence that new tobacco has been sold, but the air was thick with rumors of sales of about 1,000 cases of '81 Pennsylvania to a large up-town manufacturer by two packing firms. Every packer who is a holder of new stock of that kind is anxious to get rid of it, and the market is therefore reported to be "hot," even if they are wholly without foundation, are easily magnified and circulated as solid truths. The market certainly received considerable aid from the defeat of the German tobacco monopoly scheme, and exporters at the present time are unusually busy and eager to secure cheap goods. The German markets are almost bare of our goods and undoubtedly stock suitable for export will bring larger figures in the near future than have lately been paid.

The sales of the week were as follows: Pennsylvania—Crop '80: 400 cases, mostly wrappers, 28 to 35 cents; fillers at 7 cents. Connecticut—Crop '80: 450 cases; 300 of these were fine selected wrappers, reported at over 50 cents. Ohio—Crop '80: 600 cases; some for export at 5 1/2 to 6 cents; balance at 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents. Havana—Market very active. One sale of 600 by the importer to a jobbing firm formed the topic of conversation in the market. Total sales, 1,300 bales. Prices firm.

Gans' Weekly Report. Sale of seed leaf tobacco reported by J. J. Gans' Son & Co., tobacco brokers, No. 231 Water street, New York, for the week ending June 19, 1882: 350 cases 1880 Pennsylvania, 6@30c.; 400 cases 1881 New England, wrappers, 14@40c.; 450 cases 1880 Ohio, 5 1/2@6c.; 100 cases sun dries, 9@15c. Total, 1,300 cases.

Time on Tobacco Lands. S. G. Hubbard in the Homestead. "F. R." of East Canaan, Conn., in his comments in the Homestead of May 20, raises several important questions, two of which I will endeavor to answer by giving the result of my experience. He asks: "Is there not danger of an overgrowth of lime on tobacco land?" I have a field of twelve acres which has been cropped with tobacco for nearly twenty years. Up to 1875 it had been treated liberally with stable manure. The tobacco grown on this lot had but one fault—it burned with gray ash. The experience of others with applied 2,500 pounds per acre of lime ashes, which, as is well known, are made up mostly of carbonate of lime; I sowed them broadcast and harrowed them in. The result was an increased quantity of tobacco per acre, while the burn was very much improved. The same land has received no special application of lime since that time. One half of the field has since been constantly cropped with tobacco, and each crop has burned with the white ash so desirable. The experience of others with lime, so far as I have been able to ascertain, has been similar to mine, and I have yet to learn of one farmer who has injured his tobacco by an excessive use of carbonate of lime.

As to the next question of "F. R."—"May not a surplus of phosphoric acid be injurious to tobacco?" We will take cotton seed meal, a popular fertilizer whose leading element is phosphoric acid, its composition, given by Prof. Wolf, is as follows: Ash 6.35, potash 35.4, phosphoric acid 48.5, lime 4.6, magnesia 4.3, sulphuric acid 1.1, silica 4. This fertilizer has been used successfully by tobacco growers during the past ten years, 3,000 pounds per acre being sometimes applied with excellent results, the tobacco commanding the highest price for its good qualities, and yet the 3,000 pounds of cotton seed meal will furnish all the phosphoric acid required in six tons of tobacco.

These experiences go to prove the general rule that plants, when supplied with an abundance of the leading elements of plant food, have the power of selecting and assimilating the several proportions of the elements that are required for their perfect development. I am aware that this rule, like others, has its exceptions. For instance, salt, unlike lime and phosphoric acid, has a subtle power of penetrating all animal and vegetable substances when brought in contact with them. I learned by a costly experience more than twenty-five years ago ever afterwards to avoid the use of salt on tobacco lands.

Tobacco Squibs. The rage for naming brands of goods after some fancied hero has evidently reached a climax in this city. A second street house is now putting out a brand of tobacco called the "Jesse James." Called by the name of any other murderer the tobacco would probably smell as sweet, but the offense of using such names is rank and snobbish to heaven. When the names of murderers have such a trade value as to be used for brands of goods, people may well ask to how low they have fallen that such things can be possible in a community that claims to be civilized.—St. Louis Grocer.

"Why, George, are you smoking?" exclaimed an amazed mother, who came upon her little son as he was pulling away at a cigar. "N—no, ma, I'm only keeping it lighted for another boy."

The Clarksville (Tenn.) Chronicle says: "A young fellow around town says smoking makes him think. This remark has gotten out among his friends, and he receives on an average a box of cigars per day."

Mr. A. B. Hostetter, of Lancaster, Pa., has accepted the agency of an excellent seed leaf tobacco inspection firm of Phillips, Eggert, Hull & Co. In future he will represent their interests in Lancaster and vicinity, with headquarters at the Keystone hotel.

HART ITEMS.

The News Around Georgetown. The past two weeks has been devoted to incidents of note. Crops are looking fine, and the farmers, although slow in getting a start, have got well on with their spring work. One thing is noticeable; for a few days past the pages of "temperance" and "religious" tracts, and whole sections of agricultural and other reports are seen flying through the air, being blown from off some lately planted tobacco field. Plants at first were quite scarce but are coming on finely in the improved growing weather. Mr. Starrick, of Georgetown, has one of excellent plants which he cherished and which he was about to set out, when in an unguarded moment some stray, careless hen undertook to clear the bed of worms, and succeeded so well that Mr. Starrick is minus that bed of plants. Herbert Thompson, of Green Tree, had a large bed covered with grass into which one of his large hogs fell (whether the hog had previously been at Bob's whisky or not our informant does not say), but in his efforts to get away from the broken wash and glass he scattered the finest of Bob's plants all over the garden.

The two houses at Octoraro churches are well under way, William Stevenson building the one and H. P. Baughman the other. Albert Heidebaugh has erected a tobacco shed and several others are being built in the township. Brislin Skiles is about to commence the erection of a new barn at Nine Points.

It is said on good authority that the nickel mine at Elvira, after being held for an indefinite time. This will throw quite a number of men out of employment and seriously effect the new firm of Heidebaugh, Sead & Tyson.

R. S. McClure looks none the worse of being elected Representative county committee "kickers that were kicked," and if it matters as little to all concerned as it does to Bob, the world will still roll on. Several sales of the weed have been made lately in this section, Loeb being the highest purchaser at prices ranging from 6 to 14 for wrappers; for seconds and 2 for fillers. Quite a quantity is yet unsold, but holders confidently expect to get it off their hands soon.
