THE HENDERSON DEFALCATION.

Mearing Before the County Commissioners. B. F. Henderson, the defaulting tax collector of East Donegal township, who was arrested by the sheriff in Maytown on Friday last, on a warrant issued by the county treasurer, and in default of bail was committed to the county prison, had a hearing before the county commissioners

George A. Nauman, esq., appeared as counsel for the prisoner, E. K. Martin, esq., for the county treasurer, A. C. Reinohl, esq., for the bondsmen, and H. R. Fulton, esq., for the county commission

After hearing the parties interested the county commissioners ordered that the property of the prisoner levied on by the sheriff should be sold by public sale. But, by request, agreed that the order of sale should not be issued until after to-mor row to enable Mr. Henderson's bondsmen to appear and be heard, with a view of having the case settled. The bondsmen are Gen. Simon Cameron, Henry Houseal, J. B. Henderson and John Stum. These gentlemen have been notified to appear! before the commissioners to-morrow my friends, thinking my case incurable, but I morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Nauman asked the commissioners to release Mr. Henderson from jail, pend. ing the proceedings against him, Henderson and his counsel agreeing that they would not take advantage of any technicalities or legal quibbes affecting the case if he were released. The commissioners deferred action on Mr. Nauman's proposition until after the sureties shall have been heard to-morrow. Henderson was accordingly remanded to

THE REFORMED CHURCH.

A Premium for the Best Tract. The board of publication of the Reformed church recently offered a premium of $20 for the best four paged tract on "The Reformed church in the United States" for general distribution—the tract to contain 1,500 words. Rev. J. A. Peters, Dr. J. B. Shumaker, Rev. J. G. Fritchey, Prof. J. I. Stahr and Elders Christian Gast, John B, Roth and Charles Denues. esq., of this city were appointed to review all manuscripts received by them up to the 20th of June 1882. We understand that the committee have received and read five manuscripts from parties who competed for the prizes under assumed names, and who are therefore unknown to the committee. On Tuesday evening next the committee will meet for the purpose of deciding upon the relative merits of the manuscripts received and announce their decision to the board of publication who will therefore pay the premium. It is not unlikely that more than one of the manu. scripts will be published by the board.

Academy Commencements The annual commencement of St. Mary's academy will take place at Fulton opera house to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock. The exercises will be of a very interesting character, and will no doubt attract, as they have heretofore attracted, a large audience, of the friends and patrons of the school. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

THE CAUCUS.

Its Proceedings in Detail.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 21.—Delegate have been arriving rapidly this morning. Up to 10 o'clock 180 of them had called upon the state chairman for tickets of admission to the convention. It is said that very few substitutes are among the number. A general caucus of the delegates has been called for 11 a. m. in the state library rooms, and meantime county delegations are caucusing for the purpose of agreeing upon lines of action. Nobody has a boom for congressman at-large, and the largest delegations, those from Phila delphia and Allegheny, profess to be without favorite caudidates. The men talked of are Gen. Lilly, Judge Agnew, J. Howard Jacobs and Gen. Koontz, but no one appears to be attempting to secure strength for any particular candidate. It who should call the convention to order and direct its affairs until a president vice Lear shall have been chosen. This question, about which there was considerable difference of opinion, has been relegated for settlement to the general caucus. The proposition to adjourn to day's convention after taking measures looking to the selection of a new ticket and the securing of harmony in the party has few open advocates, though many of the delegates confess themselves as individually favorable to it, on the other hand a score of the most influential delegates, particularly the leaders from Philadelphia and Allegheny, condemn the proposition as one that would result in the stultification of the party. They contend that the convention of May 10 was regular, and that its work was properly done and that the delegates who formed it would be stultifying themselves by taking any action that would in effect be a confession to the contrary. This class of delegates appear anxious to discourage even the bringing up of the question in the convention. The Philadephia delegates held a caucus at 11, a. m., when Mr. Wanamaker's letter declining to be a candidate for con gressman-at-large, was read. Without previously been on good terms. The son taking any action the caucus adjourned to was arrested. meet after the general caucus.

The Republican caucus was called to o'clock by Alexander P. Brown, of Philadelphia, and Judge Fetterman, of Allegheny county, was made president. Judge Jessup, of Susquehanna county offered the following resolutions: "That the state of the factury falling in.

Bro's window glass factory on 19th street was totally destroyed by fire this morning, The loss is $10,000; insurance, $6,400. He believed that unless something was done towards patching up the grievance of the Independents the Democrats would carry the state both on the legislative as well as the state ticket. He said that the charge that the nominations of this convention were

t was believed in many places. He was n favor of a new convention out and out. It was no sign of weakness on the part of breeches in the party.
Samuel B. Huey, of Philadelphia, spoke also in favor of this resolution. He knew that in Philadelphia the air was rife with the Independent spirit, and the votes were behind this spirit. He was in favor of making offers of conciliation to the Independents, and if they were refused then let the responsibility rest where it be R. B. Carnahan, of Allegheny, thought there was no principle upon which this Independent movement was founded. A body of men met in Philadelphia, he said, without credentials and without constituency and nominated a ticket in opposition to the Republican party. He was against any effort to placate these disappointed men. Delegates had come here to fill the vacancy on the ticket and then go home, and he moved that the resolution Congressman Fisher said that at one time he had thought that it would have been well to put off the convention until a later date, so that delegates might have been elected in the regular way instead of being named by the county committee. But he had been told by Wharton Barker, convention, and it was agreed that the of Philadelphia, that even if the delegates state committee shall fill all future vacanwere so selected and Beaver nominated that he (Barker) would not vote for him. The majority of the Independents, he as serted, were nothing but disappointed persons. He was in favor of completing the present ticket and he believed that the

the present ticket and ne believed that the ticket would sweep the state.

Mr. Gilkenson, of Bucks, thought that the revolt did not rest alone with the disappointed office seekers; there were too many of them. In his section he found the revolt was among the business men of the revolt was a revolt w the district, and he found it widespread. He felt sure that a new convention would renominate Gen. Reaver and Senator

Isaiah H. Brown, of Philadelphia thought that if a new convention would renominate the same ticket there was no need of this trouble and expense of helding it. He was not in favor of conciliat ing deserters and was very heartily applauded for his sentiments. Wm. M. Bunu, of Philadelphia, made a ten-minute speech in opposition to the resolution.

Mr. Nesbit, of Blair, a colored delegate, favored some such plan as that suggested by Chairman Cooper-the plan of an appeal of the Republican primaries to decide between the two tickets. Gen, McCleary, of Erie, then offered the following as a substitute for the resolu-

"Resolved, That this convention proceed to complete the ticket by the nomination of a congressman-at-large; that we Brosius, McManes and Magee supporting recommend the Republican state committee to adopt all honorable means to harmonize the Republican party so as to secure success in November.' Another discussion followed on the substitute, those who opposed the original liberally applauded. The Lancaster dele- resolutions making repeated calls for the than ever. Some are bright gates and Hall Committeeman McMellen question when remarks in favor of the resolution were made. When a delegate from Crawford arose and the calls for the question drowned his voice, he raised and called out that if efforts to compromise and harmonize were choked off it would lose the state to the party, and in Craw ford county alone would cost the ticket six or seven hundred votes.

Several delegates—" Is that a threat?" The Crawford delegate replied that it was not a threat, but it was the trouble with those who sought to force their own views that every warning, every honest, sensible prediction of truth, was regarded as a threat. As a Republican he was personally bound to support the ticket he had the true feeling among the people of his own county. Col. Norris, of Philadelphia, asked whether on account of public clamor the JACOB B. LONG, 22 North Que say that their work was unfit to stand. It was all very well to say that there was nothing personal in the objection to the ticket, but that was against the methods say I did it. I have nothing to say but methods had elected the party's governor in this state and had elected Lincoln and Grant and Hayes and Garfield. [Applause. Mr. Brosius, of Lancaster, thought that good Republicans were first patriots willing to relinquish any claim, willing to take any step for the harmony and unity that would lead the Republican party to victory. He favored the proposition to place the power in the hands of the state committee with power to act.

THE BUFFALOSTRIKE Printers and Publishers Alike Stand Firm BUFFALO, June 21 -The daily newspapers issued their full number of copies as usual yesterday and this morning. The strikers remain firm in the position taken by them, and are very placable. The Courier in its edition this morning published a double column advertisement for compositors at the prices demanded by the strikers and 35 cents for day and night work respectively, and an nounced that none of the strikers need apply, and editorially announced that the Courier will not be coerced into engaging men and paying prices by any foreign organization. The Express voices about the same sentiments and advertises for compositors, offering 33 cents. The publishers of the Express feel confident that they can fill the places of the dissatisfied employees during the week.

WASHINGTON, June 20 .- During the cancus of the Republican members of the House, Mr. Page, of California, who came in late, inquired if the section in the in ternal revenue bill taking the tax off bank deposits had been reached. Upon being told that the section had been passed some time before, he announced his opposition to the bill and stated that he would not be bound by the action of the caucus if the tax on bank deposits was removed. Messrs. Errett and Barr, taking their cue from the California representative, announced their determination to bolt the caucus, too, unless the bill reported by the ways and means committee was agreed to. > Suffering, But Stubborn Strikers. CHICAGO, Ill., June 21.—The condition of the strikers at Irondale, who struck against wages averaging from $1.50 to $12 per day, is becoming pitiable. Their boasted reserve fund does not hold out and many of them are actually suffering. They only grow more stubborn, however, preferring to depend on the town for support to yielding their point. The Hyde Park authorities have given notice that they will not on any condition give the strikers any aid, for which declaration the strikers hold the Calumet iron and steel company responsible.
