The Houses of York and Lancaster. York Daily.

Prof. A. Wanner, A. M., professor of the York high school, was on Wednesday evening last, at half past eight o'clock, bound in matrimonial fetters to Miss Clara Eckert, of Gordonville, Lancaster county. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Alonzo Potter Diller, of Marietta, Pa., according to the Episcopal ritual, in the presence of a large number of intimate friends of the parties, from York, Lancaster and Harrisburg. After congratula-tions were over, and a sumptuous colla-tion had been served, the happy couple were escorted to the train by the assembled company and given a lucky send off. From Philadelphia they go to Atlantic City, for a brief sojourn by the sea, after which they will return to set up their household gods in the ancient borough of York and resume the more practical and prosaic duties of life.

Author of the leading physicians of the country are now recommending Prof. Guilmette's Kidney Pad for lame back, sciatica, diabetes, gravel, and other diseases of the kiddle and urinary organs.
