

MYERS & RATHFON.

Well-Made Garments.

In the manufacture of READY-MADE CLOTHING we observe three points:

1. The Selection of Stylish and Serviceable Material with the Best Wearing Qualities.
2. The Selection of Good, Strong and Serviceable Trimmings, Pockets, Linings, etc.
3. First-class Workmanship, Good, Strong Thread and Careful Sewing.

In our CLOTHING you will find no machine-made button holes, but good, strong, regular hand-made buttonholes. Our Cutters are the most skilled. Our Patterns are the best.

MYERS & RATHFON,

NO. 12 EAST KING STREET.

ALWAYS ON HAND.

A LARGE STOCK

REFRIGERATORS, WATER COOLERS, ICE CREAM FREEZERS, BABY CARRIAGES, BASKETS, WAITERS, TRAYS, BRUSHES AND FANCY ARTICLES, AND ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES.

A Complete Assortment of Everything required in

HOUSEKEEPING

Cutlery, Plate-ware, Britannia Ware, Toilet Ware, Tinware, Woodenware, Door and Table Mats.

-AT-

FLINN & WILLSON'S.

LANCASTER, PA.

LAWN MOWERS, &c.

JEWELRY.

Palace Refrigerators, Water Coolers and Filters.

PHILADELPHIA LAWN MOWERS,

PENNSYLVANIA LAWN MOWERS.

HYDRANT HOSE, MOSQUITO WIRE,

GARDEN TOOLS, ADJUSTABLE SCREENS,

WATERING CANS, STEP LADDERS.

GEO. M. STEINMAN & CO.,

26 and 28 West King Street.

WINE AND LIQUORS.

COOLING, REFRESHING AND HEALTHFUL DRINKS FOR HOT WEATHER.

APOLLINARIS WATER, the Queen of Table Waters.

CATELL & COCHRAN'S DUBLIN and BELFAST GINGER ALE, THE FINEST IN THE MARKET.

CLARET WINES.—Our own direct importation from the House of Exariste, Dupont & Co., Bordeaux. All the Leading and Popular Brands of FRENCH CHAMPAGNE. We are the largest and best of the Pleasant Valley Wine Co.'s Great West-End Extra Dry Wine. The Most Superior of the Pleasant Valley Wine Co.'s Great West-End Extra Dry Wine. The Most Superior of the Pleasant Valley Wine Co.'s Great West-End Extra Dry Wine. No family should be without a bottle of this delicate Medicine at this season of the year.

H. E. SLAYMAKER, AGENT,

NO. 29 EAST KING STREET.

S. CLAY MILLER,

Wines, Brandies, Gins, Old Rye Whiskies, &c.,

No. 33 PENN SQUARE, LANCASTER, PA.

GIBSON'S WHISKY BOTTLED A SPECIALTY.

PLUMBERS SUPPLIES.

LOOK OUT FOR BOTH!

BUY CARBOLIZED PAPER,

BEST BOTH PROOF ARTICLE IN THE WORLD FOR CARPETS, FURS, &c.

Tarred Roofing Felt by the yard or ton.

WHOLESALE SUPPLY DEPOT:

No. 11, 13 & 15 EAST ORANGE STREET, LANCASTER, PA.

JOHN L. ARNOLD.

MEDICAL.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

Invigorates without intoxicating, cures disorders of the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys and lungs, and is the greatest strength restorer and blood purifier, and the BEST AND SUREST CURE FOR ALL AFFECTIONS OF THE BLOOD. If you are suffering from Female Complaints, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, or any disease, use the TONIC today. 100 BOTTLES are paid for a failure to help or cure, or for anything injurious found in it. Send for circular.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM.—Satisfies the most fastidious as a perfect Hair Restorer and makes the hair grow thickly, soft, and glossy. 25c. and 50c. sizes. HIGGIN & CO., New York.

COAL.

B. B. MARTIN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in all kinds of LUMBER AND COAL.

Office: No. 420 North Water and Prince Streets above Lemon Lancaster. 103-104

COAL AND CEMENT.

Pure Lykens Valley and other kind of Coal for all purposes well cleaned. Best Grand Rosebud Cement at reduced prices. Also Limestone Screenings for walks and drives; guarantee satisfaction. Hay and straw by the bale or ton. Yard and Office: Harrisburg Pike. General Office: 205 East Chestnut Street. KAUFFMAN, FELLER & CO. 103-104

COAL.

M. V. B. COHO,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in LUMBER AND COAL.

Connection with the Telephone Exchange. Yard and Office: No. 230 NORTH WATER STREET. 103-104

EDUCATIONAL.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE. RE-OPENING IN RESTORED BUILDING. Both sexes admitted. College and preparatory school under care of members of the Society of Friends. The main building, destroyed by fire 9th month, last, has been completely rebuilt. Through instruction in Languages, Literature, Mathematics and Natural Sciences, and through the study of the Classics, and the application of the principles of Civil Engineering. The next term opens 9th mo. (Sept.) 12th. Apply early, as other things being equal, places will be given to the earliest applicants.

For full particulars, address EDWARD M. MAGILL, Pres't, Swarthmore College, Delaware Co., Pa. June 23rd

CARPETS.

Carpet Manufactory.

Having undertaken to manufacture EAG and CHAIN CARPETS, wholesale, 2,000 yards per week, I am now prepared to sell my entire stock of

Brussels, Ingrain and Venetian

Carpets,

AT GREAT BARGAINS AND AT BELOW COST.

To make room and give my entire attention to wholesale and retail of my own manufactured goods. Please call early.

H. S. SHIRK,

CARPET HALL,

Cor. West King and Water Sts.

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE.—THE Great English Remedy. An unobtainable cure for Impotency, and all Diseases that follow loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to every one. The Specific Medicine is sold by all druggists at 25c per package, or six packages for $1.50, or will be sent free by mail on the receipt of the money, by addressing the agent, H. & Cochrane, 127 and 129 North Queen Street. On account of counterfeiting, we have adopted the Yellow Wrapper; the only genuine. Guarantees of cure issued by us. For sale in Lancaster by H. B. Cochran, 127 North Queen Street. THE GRAY MEDICINE CO., N. Y. 103-104

L. GANSMAN & BRO.,

The Leading Clothiers,

66-68 NORTH QUEEN ST.,

Right on the Southwest Corner of Orange St., LANCASTER, PA.

The Cheapest House in the City.

STATE POLITICS.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

The Democrats do not intend to allow any time to be lost in the campaign, but will begin work at once. Arrangements for the caucus and the caucus itself are being made with great activity. The Democratic reception in Philadelphia within the next ten days. The plan has not matured yet, but it is believed it will consist of a mass meeting at one of the halls first and a reception at the Commonwealth club afterwards, where the leading Democrats of the city and state will gather and make the personal acquaintance of the candidates. During the visit a conference will be held, to which the moneyed men will be invited, and the subject of raising the money for the campaign, as well as the plan of campaign.

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

DRY GOODS.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only safe and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or any other injury.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or any other injury.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or any other injury.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or any other injury.

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, was the scene of an almost constant influx of visitors, telegrams and congratulatory messages generally. The controller was at his desk in his private office at nine o'clock, signing warrants. The first caller of the day was none other than Mayor King. "I merely dropped in to shake hands with the next governor of Pennsylvania," remarked the mayor, with a smile, extending his hand, which the controller laughingly grasped as he led his distinguished visitor to a chair. A brief informal chat ensued, during which the mayor took occasion to drop a lecture to the controller on his apparent unconcern over the event at Harrisburg on the evening before. The controller bore evidence of having had a good night's rest, and the mayor thought it would have been as little as Mr. Pattison could have done to lose some sleep over the affair.

THE SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA.

How It is Viewed and What the Democrats Will Do.—The Candidates Contrasted.—The Congressional Nomination.

The nomination of Pattison for governor by the Democrats was discussed yesterday by the politicians of all classes. The first flush of excitement having died away, the matter was viewed in a calm light. The Republican leaders privately view his selection as one that demands that something be done to harmonize the breach in the party. The difficulty in the way of this is, however, that if Beaver should be withdrawn, the Democrats would quickly stab Stewart, while if Beaver should remain in the field, and Stewart be withdrawn, the Independents would vote for Pattison. A prominent Independent, who was a member of the Continental conference, declared yesterday that he was firmly of opinion there would be but one Democratic ticket in the field by election day, and he qualified this with the additional remark: "But the men on that ticket must be to our liking or else we will not support it." A gentleman who was a member of the Stalwart state convention, and who attended the recalled gathering, said that he was strongly in favor of a new convention being called. "Let us have a gathering at the Academy of Music, composed of Independents and Stalwarts, and make up a new ticket. It would have been better to have had the recalled convention a couple of weeks later."

HOW PATTISON RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Hearing his astonishing Honors With Becoming Modesty.

Contrary to general rumor Controller Pattison had not gone down to his family in Atlantic City on the night before, but had quietly left the controller's office between four and five in the afternoon and driven to the Vine street ferry, where he was met by Mr. Pattison, who came up from the seashore to be with her husband when the result should be announced. Together they had gone to the house of Mr. Pattison's brother-in-law, Mr. Bartlett, on Fifteenth street, above Oxford, to spend the night, no one knowing the controller's whereabouts outside his family except William N. Hirst, his chief clerk. It had been agreed that in the event of a nomination for governor being made during the evening the friends of the controller in Harrisburg should telegraph the news to Hirst, who, in turn, would carry it to the controller. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. Hirst was described coming up Fifteenth street at the top of his speed, holding a telegraphic dispatch in his hand. Mr. Pattison, with Mrs. Pattison and his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, was sitting on the doorstep. As soon as Mr. Hirst got in sight he waved his hat. Coming up he simply handed the controller the telegram, which announced his nomination. The latter read it, smiled and handed it to his wife, receiving the news with a composure and characteristic of the man.

The office of City Controller Pattison yesterday during business hours, from 9 o'clock in the