OBITUARY.

Death of Gen. Skobeloff. General Michael Skobeloff, who died at Moscow, was one of the most gallant and dashing officers of the Russian army, and was only thirty-nine years old. He was born in the district of Raizan, near Moscow, in 1843, and educated in the Military academy at St. Petersburg, where he graduated in 1863 as officer of the staff. In the same year he commanded a com-pany of Cossacks in Turkestan, and remained there until 1871, when he went to the Caucasus, and was attached to the staff of the Grand Duke Michael, and afterwards commanded a battalioa of the line. In 1873 he commanded the advance guard of Lomarkin's column, which advanced on Khiva from Kinderli bay, on the cast shore of the Caspian sea, and only gained a victory by directly disobey-ing his orders. In 1875 he commanded the cavalry at the battle of Mahrand, in Khokand, where he captured 58 guns. He was the hero of many other adventurous and gallant enterprises in the East, among which was the leadership of the Rusian advance on Constantinople in February, 1977. Having temporarily commanded a corps from the time of the passage of the Balkans, he was for some time in command of the famous 16th division in front of Constantinople, and was then placed in command of the Russian forces retiring from Constantinople on Adrianople.

THE NOVGOROD TRAGEDY. A Russian Muttry and How it Was Pun Ished.

One need not be surprised at anything that happens in Russia. The other evening while smoking a cigar with one of my old friends, who has seen, read and traveled a good deal, I was told of an incident which occurred some forty years ago at Novgorod, quite as sinster as that which recently coursed at Spaceton when a non-Hager & Brother. like vine stems upon the blazing coals. There was no soldier to chastise. " Who is that for?" he demanded. A grenadier advanced from the ranks and replied, with terrible coolness: " For thee !"

The entire regiment, non-commissioned officers and soldiers, were in the plot, which had been concocted in the barracks. The whole regiment was present at the terrible spectacle. The colonel was seized, his uniform torn off, he was tied down in a wheelbarrow and wheeled up and down before the ranks of the grenadiers, armed with rods, all of whom struck and insulted him. Only one soldier attempted to take part with them. Then a sergeant, still pallid from the effects of his last whipping with the knout, put his musket to the soldier's temple and blew his brains

> And all the regiment saw its colonel pass under the rods.

When it was all over they opened a kiln oven. The colonel was flung into it, all bleeding, together with the officers who had well obeyed him. And when the furnace was well fed the soldiers heated it slowly, very slowly, until at last that hideous, heavy and revolting smell of meltng fat and burning flesh arose in the air, which the savages of the Russian frontier inhaled some days ago at a Jewith ceme tery at Sma. gon.

But the tragedy of Novgorod was not yet over!

An imperial courtier bore to the Czar the news of the mutiny. Nicholas listened became white, but said nothing, except to order four batteries of artillery to Novgorod. Ten days after a white haired and gray mustached major general, accompaned by a single aid-de camp, knocked at the door of the barracks, which the soldiers had never left since the murder of their chief.

The general gazed coldly upon these pale men, all neatly and faultlessly uniformed, who gave him the military salute. Not a reproach-not one useless word. He only said to them :

"At 9 o'clock to morrow morning the regiment will assemble in undress uniform and without arms at the Tartar camp, upon the Little Square. Order of the Czar."

Not one voice replied. But the next day upon the narrow square all in ranks, without arms, in their long gray coats, their sergeants at their usual posts, all Baltimore steamship company, at Boston, the mutinous soldiers were there, in linet cents an hour for night work, and their double line of lance-bearing Cossacks before and behind. Then nothing was heard awhile but the thunder of the cannon in that city, otherwise silent as a cemetery, when men, women and children kneeling before their holy images were praying for the soldiers they were shooting down in the square. And during an interval in the cannonade a hymn rolled up from the square, for the soldiers were dying with the prayers of their childhood upon their lips. The can-non thundered for hours. Then all was silent. Powder and iron rested a while. The cannoncers entered the square and recoiled at the sight of those ranks of men mown down like wheat-the marsh of blood. From under the dead they pulled out a few still breathing victims, able to live a while. "What shall be done with them, general? Shall we put them in the hospital?" "I'ut them under the knout."

Where Are the Men? Episcopal Register.

There are churches where men make up a considerable part of the congregation. But they are very few. As a general thing women form the majority at every service. Again, there are churches where men are the moving power in everything pertaining to it, from the management of its finances to the smallest detail of parochial work. But there are other churches where scarcely one man is sufficiently interested, or can find time to attend to any church matter. Everything is thrown on the feminine portion of the congregation.
The women of the church have proven their ability to carry on effective church work. And so the men of the church in-trench themselves in their counting houses and stores and say they can find no time from their busy lives for it. We commend the noble women who thus carry on noble enterprises of Christian faith and charity, but that they should have to bear so large a part of the burden and heat of the day tells a sorry story of the apathy and indifference of the men who say they cannot afford to give their time to church work, and that the demands of their business will not allow them to attend the services of the church. There is too much religion by proxy.

Other's Misfortunes. A French wit has said: "We are all strong enough to bear the mistortunes of others," A kindred sentiment is found in Artemas Ward's willingness to sacrifice all of his second cousins in the late war. But why endure the mistortunes of others? Why see others sacrificed to the Moloch of diseased kidneys or liver broken down in health weak wasted.

Bargain Sections.

Daily inspections of Oak Hall stock show the cleanest and freshest remainders of Clothing for Men and Boys that we have ever held at the declining end of a season. This is satisfactory, but we have too many goods yet. Our needs are less stock and more room. We are ready to stand a sharp cut on some prices to get the goods out. Just as fast as possible we are gathering into BARGAIN SEC-TIONS all odd garments, broken lots and slow sellers. In the latter are some of our best goods. The caprice of taste and the whim of judgment as to quality are the unknown factors in the retailer's problem which often force choice things to sharp bargain prices.

Endorses Pennsylvania Lancaster Watches.

LANCASTER, Nov. 1st, 1878.

A. BITNER, ESQ., Manager:

Dear Sir: In answer to your inquiries of Oct. 28th, I have to say that I was absent on my recent European tour just four months, traveling a distance of 12,000 miles. I carried with me a watch made at the Laucaster Watch Factory. Before starting I set it to the time of the Pennsylvania Katiroad. It was never changed during the entire trip, and UPON MY RETURN. IT WAS ON THE MINUTE WITH THE SAME RAILROAD TIME.

When at Geneva, Switzerland, with a dozen MY RETURN. IT WAS ON THE MINUTE WITH THE SAME RAILROAD TIME.

When at Geneva, Switzerland, with a dozen or more American friends, I visited the celebrated Watch Factory of Patek, Philippe & Co., whose American agents are the great bouse of Tiffany & Co., New York. After being shown through the factory, we were conducted to the Salesroom, where our attention was called by the Superintendent to a large number of very fine watches, the product of the establishment. He also gave us his reasons for thinking that better watches could be made in Switzerland than in American. When he had concluded, I handed him my Lancaster Watch and asked him what he thought of it. After examining it with the eye of an expert, and with marked interest, he replied, speaking at brief intervals: "I HAVE MEVER SEEN THIS WATCH BEFORE—IT IS A GOOD WATCH—IT IS BETTER THAN THE WALTHAM—IT IS THE BEST WATCH MADE IN AMERICA." What adds force to his opinion is the fact that he had carefully studied all the finest American watches exhibited at our Centennial Exposition. All my irlends heard the remarks above quoted, and will vouch for the accuracy of my report of them.

This opinion was again expressed with

This opinion was again expressed with even stronger emphasis to a party of Americans recently traveling in Switzerland. Under date of "Geneva, August 2, 1831." Miss L. B. Gara writes, in a letter published in the Lancaster New Bra: "Mr. Perrine bought two handsome watches from the leading manufacturers here, and Dr. Hampton, of our party, showed them his Lancaster Watch. They examined it and said it was the best American watch they had ever seen—MUCHSUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER MADE IN THE UNITED TO ANY OTHER MADE IN THE UNITED STATES."
